THOMAS STANTON FAMILY.

1. THOMAS STANTON, who became distinguished among the first planters of Stonington, Conn., was in early manhood in England designed and educated for a cadet, but, not liking the profession of arms, and taking a deep interest in the religious principles of the migrating Puritans, he left his native land, embarking on board of the good ship "Bonaventure," in 1635, and landed in Virginia, but left there almost immediately for Boston, mingling with the natives on the way, and rapidly acquired a knowledge of their language and customs. On arrival in Boston he was recognized by Winthrop and his associates as a valuable man, worthy of the most unlimited confidence, for the very next year he was selected by the Boston authorities to accompany Mr. Fenwick and Hugh Peters, as interpreter on a mission to Saybrook, Conn., to hold a conference with the Pequot Indians relative to the murder of Capt. Stone and Newton. After the close of the conference Mr. Stanton went up to Hartford, and there fixed his permanent abode in 1637. Mr. Stanton's accurate knowledge of the language and character of the Indians soon gave him prominence in the new settlements of Connecticut, for the very first year that he came to Hartford, the General Court gave him ten pounds for the service he had already done for the country, and declared that he should be a public officer, to attend the court upon all occasions, either general or particular, at the meetings of the magistrates, to interpret between them and the Indians, at a salary of ten pounds per annum. Mr. Stanton did not always agree with the policy of Capt. Mason and the court relative to the treatment of the Indians, and drew upon himself their displeasure; but being a man accustomed to speak his own mind and act upon his own convictions, maintained his position, though they discontinued his salary for two years, alleging long absence as the cause, and appointed Mr. Gilbert to take his place, but in 1648 they restored him to the place with its compensation. He became the intimate and especial friend of

Gov. Winthrop of Connecticut, acting as his interpreter in all of his intercourse with the Indians. It was while thus employed, in an interview with Ninigret in the Narragansett country that Mr. Stanton became acquainted with the Pawcatuck Valley, and selected it for his future residence. He was the first white man who joined Mr. William Chesebrough in his new settlement. He petitioned the General Court of Connecticut for liberty to erect a trading house there, which was granted in February, 1650. In the spring following he came to Pawcatuck and erected his trading house on the west bank of Pawcatuck river, in Stonington, in 1651, near a place ever since known as Pawcatuck Rock, for the reason that the deep water channel in the river touched the east side of said rock, where vessels trading with him could easily receive and discharge their cargoes without any expense for the erection of a wharf. Mr. Stanton did not remove his family to Pawcatuck in Stonington until 1657, where he had previously erected a dwelling house. The precise site of this house cannot now be ascertained, but no doubt it was conveniently near his trading house on Pawcatuck River. The object of building the trading house was to open trade with the coasting vessels which were cruising along our New England shores, gathering furs from the Indians and purchasing the surplus products of the planters, and selling the same either in Boston or in the West Indies. After the articles of confederation between the New England colonies had been established in 1643, among all of the distinguished interpreters of New England, Mr. Stanton was selected as interpreter general, to be consulted and relied upon in all emergencies. In this capacity and in their behalf he acted as interpreter, especially between the ministers employed by the Commissioners of the United Colonies, acting as agents of the London Missionary Society, and the Indians, to whom they preached. He also aided the Rev. Abraham Pierson in the translation of his catechism into the Indian tongue, certifying to the same in his official capacity. After Mr. Stanton became an inhabitant of Pawcatuck in Stonington he took an active part in town affairs, he became prominent, and was elected to almost every position of public trust in the new settlement. In 1658, when Pawcatuck was included in the town of Southertown, under the jurisdiction of Massachusetts, he was appointed selectman and magistrate. After Pawcatuck was set off to the Connecticut Colony by the charter of 1662, Mr. Stanton was appointed magistrate and commissioner, and re-appointed every year up to the time of his death. He was elected deputy or representative to the General Court of Connecticut in 1666 and re-elected every year up to 1675.

When courts were first established in New London County in 1666, Major Mason, Thomas Stanton, and Lieut. Pratt of Saybrook, were appointed judges. Thus it appears that Mr. Stanton took a prominent part in town, county and State affairs from 1636, when he acted as interpreter at Saybrook, until near the close of his life. His name is connected with the leading measures of the colony, and with almost every Indian transaction on record. In 1670, Uncas, the Mohegan sachem, went from Mohegan to Pawcatuck for Mr. Stanton to write his will, taking with him a train of his noblest warriors to witness the same, giving to the occasion all the pomp and pageantry of savage royalty. He d. Dec. 2, 1677, aged 68 years. His will was probated in June, 1678. His widow survived him about eleven years, making her home with her daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Noyes, at Anguilla in Stonington, Conn. He m. Anna, daughter of Thomas and Dorothy Lord, in 1637.

appearance of the name "James" among the children of both Robert Prince and Rebecca Putnam suggests that their father was a James Prince of Norwich, from which town John Gedney also came.

We should further note that the entry in the records of the First Church of Salem of the membership of Mary Gedney in 1637 may be an error for "Sarah," in which case John Gedney had but two wives Sarah and Catherine. This hypothesis is likely in view of the fact that both John Gedney and Rebecca Putnam had each a daughter Sarah; but until further information is obtained from the Norwich records, we must accept the record as it stands.

In closing, it may be of interest to note that Col. Bartholomew Gedney and his wife Hannah (Clarke) were ancestors of the Fairfax family of Virginia.

THE STANTON-WASHINGTON ANCESTRY

By Clarence Almon Torrey, Ph.B., of Dorchester, Mass.

In "The Visitation of Warwickshire, 1619" (Publications of the Harleian Society, vol. 12, page 277), the pedigree of the Stanton family of Longbridge, Warwickshire, England, is given on which the claim has been based that Thomas Stanton of Stonington, Conn., was a son of Thomas and Katherine (Washington) Stanton of Wolverton, Warwickshire. According to this pedigree, they had a son Thomas, who was in his third year in 1619, and a daughter Alice, born in August, 1619 (aged six days, Sept. 3, 1619).

This Thomas Stanton, Jr., has quite generally been accepted as identical with the Stonington settler and also with the Thomas Stanton, aged 20, whose name appears in a list of Passengers for Virginia, 1635. [The New England Historical and Genealogical Register, vol. 2, p. 113.] This theory has been questioned and defended. Conclusive evidence, either in its favor or in opposition to it, has heretofore been lacking. This paper will present information from English sources which should end the discussion.

According to the Stanton pedigree above mentioned, Thomas Stanton, husband of Katherine Washington, daughter of Walter Washington, and father of Thomas Stanton, Jr., was in his 24th year in 1619. They were residents of Wolverton, Warwickshire. The Stanton-Washington marriage took place July 30, 1616. [The Stanton Genealogy, by William A. Stanton, page 60.]

From "Alumni Oxonienses, 1500-1714" (page 1412), by Joseph Foster, it appears that the Thomas Stanton who was in his 24th year in 1619 had previously been a student at Oxford, and that his son, Thomas, Jr., above mentioned, and grandson

Thomas, subsequently became students. The statements concerning these three Thomases are as follows:

Stanton, Thomas, of co. Warwick, arm. ST. JOHN'S COLL., matric. 25 Jan., 1610-11, aged 15, of Wolverton; father of the next.

Stanton, Thomas (Staunton), 1 s. of Thomas, of Wolverton, co. Warwick, arm. UNIVERSITY COLL., matric. 11 July 1634, aged 17; father of Thomas 1664.

Stanton, Thomas, s. of Tho., of Wolverton, co. Warwick, gent. ST. EDMUND HALL, matric. 13 July, 1664, aged 17.

Additional information concerning the Stanton or Staunton family of Longbridge is found in "A Genealogical and Heraldic History of the Commoners of Great Britain and Ireland" (vol. 2, p. 588), by John Burke. In part, the line was as follows:

John Staunton, of Longbridge, who m. Elizabeth, daughter of Townesend of Wales, and had issue,

I. Thomas, his successor of Longbridge, m. Alice ——— and left one son and four daughters.

II. Thomas, bearing the same name as his elder brother, and is described as "an ancient captaine in the Irish wars." He purchased, in the 18th ELIZABETH, the manor and advowson of Wolverton, in the county of Warwick. He m. first, Susanna, widow of Thomas Fisher, of the Priory, Warwick, and thus became possessed of the Deanery there. He wedded secondly, Mary, eldest dau. of George Padsey, of Langley Hall, in the county of Warwick, and by her left a son, Thomas, who m. a daughter of Walter Washington, of Radway, and had a son and daughter, viz.

Thomas, who wedded Elizabeth, daughter of Edward Cookes, of Pinley Abbey in Warwickshire, and in his son this branch became extinct.

Alice, m. to John Wagstaffe, esq., of Tachbrooke.

From Burke's statements and from the records of Oxford University it is evident that Thomas Stanton, son of Thomas and Katherine (Washington) Stanton, remained in England; that he entered Oxford, aged 17 years, in 1634; that he married Elizabeth Cookes and had a son Thomas, who was 17 in 1664, when he was admitted to Oxford. These details make it necessary to abandon the theory that the Stonington, Conn., settler was a son of Thomas and Katherine (Washington) Stanton. A search for his true origin might prove a difficult but certainly not a hopeless undertaking.

About forty miles northeast from London in the county of Essex lie two adjacent parishes, Braintree and Bocking, their houses situated for the most part upon one long street, with no interval between the parishes. Each parish has an ancient church, St. Michael's in Braintree, St. Mary's in Bocking. The

(10) CHESEBROUGH, WILLIAM

1. WILLIAM CHESEBROUGH, born 1594, in Boston, Lincolnshire, England; died 4 June 1667, in Stonington, Connecticut; married by license, 15 December 1620, in St. Botolph's Church, Boston, Lincolnshire, England, by "the blessed JOHN COTTON," to ANNE STEVENSON, who was born in 1598, in England, and died after 19 March 1672/3, when her Will was dated. WILLIAM and ANNE had twelve children. WILLIAM was, with THOMAS STANTON, the founders of Stonington, Connecticut. He was Deputy to the General Court at Hartford in 1653, 1654, 1655, 1656 and was assessor, elected first selectman of the town and re-elected every year up to the time of his death in 1667.

3. MARGARET CHESEBROUGH, baptized 15 April 1677, in Stonington; married 18 July 1686, to JOSEPH STANTON, who was born 22 January 1668, in Stonington, and died 1751, in Stonington. (See STANTON Lineage, following.)

(11) STANTON, THOMAS

1. THOMAS STANTON, born about 1661, Warwick, England; died 2 December 1677, in Stonington, Connecticut; married 1637, in Hartford, Connecticut, to ANN LORD, who was born in 1620, in England, and died in 1688, in Stonington. She was the daughter of THOMAS and DOROTHY (BIRD) LORD of Hartford. (See LORD Lineage, following.) THOMAS and ANN had ten children. THOMAS STANTON came on the Bonaventure in 1636. He was active in public affairs, chiefly as interpreter to the Indians and his name is connected with almost every Indian transaction on record of that period. He, with WILLIAM CHESEBROUGH founded Stonington, Connecticut, where a plaque has been erected to commemorate the event.

HISTORICAL PART.

CHAPTER I.

A SKETCH OF THOMAS STANTON, THE FIRST OF THIS FAMILY IN AMERICA, 1635–1677.

Part I.

A compilation of such facts relating to our first Stanton ancestor in America, as have been gathered from a multitude of sources, will form a proper introduction to this genealogy and history of his descendants.

From the New England Historical and Genealogical Register (vol. ii, p. 113), we learn that January 2, 1635, Thomas Stanton took passage for Virginia in the merchantman Bonaventura, and that he recorded himself as being twenty years old. The ship's record shows no other passenger named Stanton. It is certain, therefore, that he came unattended by any relative bearing the same name. There was a John Stanton in Virginia prior to 1635; from 1652 to 1688 there are records of a Robert Stanton of Dorchester, Mass., and another Robert Stanton, a Quaker, was a resident of Newport, R. I., prior to 1645. This Robert of Newport died in 1672, aged 73 years. His descendants are now very numerous in the United States, and many of them are still Friends or Quakers. As Edwin M. Stanton, Lincoln's great Secretary of War, has been thought by many to be a descendant of Thomas, I will state here that he is in direct line from Robert of Newport. Savage and many of the older New England genealogists guessed that Robert was an older brother to Thomas, but there is not the slightest evidence to that riage is not known, but we do know that his wife was Ann, eldest daughter and third child of Dr. Thomas and Dorothy Lord.

THE LORD FAMILY.

Part II..

Dr. Thomas Lord was b. 1585; Dorothy, his wife, was b. 1589. They were married in England in 1610, and came to America April 29, 1635, in the Elizabeth and Ann. Mrs. Lord died in 1676, aged 87 years. She sealed her will with the arms of the "Lord alias Laward" family. The arms are thus described:

"Ar. on a fess gu. between three cinque foils az. a. hind pass. between two pheons or."

The following copy of the first medical license granted in the New England Colonies will be full of interest to every reader, and especially so to us who are descendants of the herein licensed Doctor Lord.

"COURTE IN HARTFORD, 30TH OF JUNE, 1652.

"Thomas Lord, having ingaged to this Courte to continue his aboade in Hartford for the next ensuing yeare, and to improve his best skill amongst the inhabitants of the Townes uppon the River within this jurissdiction both for setting of bones and otherwise, as at all times, occassions and necessityes may or shall require; This Courte doth graunt that hee shall bee paid by the Countey the sum of fifteene pounds for the said ensuing yeare, and they doe declare that for every visitt or journye that hee shall take or make, being sent for to any house in Hartford, twelve pence is reasonable; to any house in Wyndsor, five shillings; to any house in Wethersfield, three shillings; to any house in Farmington, six shillings; to any house in Mattabeseck, eight shillings; (hee having promised that hee will require no more,) and that hee shall boe freed for the time aforesaid from watching, warding and training; but not from finding armes, according to lawe."

It will be of interest to learn a little as to the brothers and sisters of Mistress Thomas Stanton nee Lord. They were all born across the sea, and as follows:

Richard, b. 1611; Thomas, Jr., b. 1619 (Ann, who m. Thos. Stanton, b. 1621); William, b. 1623; John, b. 1624; Robert, b. 1626; Aymie, b. 1629; Dorothy, b. 1630.

As this book is not a Lord Genealogy, I have made no effort to follow the fortunes of these brothers and sisters. A few facts, however, as to the senior brother Richard have an historic value. He was a merchant in Hartford, and was one of the body corporate to whom King Charles granted the Connecticut charter, April 20, 1662. He seemed to be of rather a pugnacious disposition, for on Oct. 12, 1643, he engaged his brother-in-law, Thomas Stanton, in a quarrel about trading for Indian corn. He used very threatening language, and drew his sword, but before he could use it he was arrested and fined five pounds by the Hartford Court. It would be interesting to know how Mr. Stanton conducted himself in this little broil, but we only know that the Court Record makes no case against him.

In 1658 the first troop of horsemen in Conn. was organized, and Richard Lord was chosen captain. He died in New London, May 17, 1662, and was buried in the old burial-place there. A table of red sandstone covers his grave, cracked and sunken below the surrounding soil; it is, nevertheless, still there; probably the oldest inscribed tombstone east of the Connecticut river. The inscription is legible, and reads thus:

AN EPITAPH ON CAPTAINE RICHARD LORD, DECEASED.

MAY 17, 1662, ÆTATIS SV. Æ 51.

"The bright starre of our cavallrie lyes here.
Unto the state a counselore full deare
And to ye truth a friend of sweete content.
To Hartford Towne a silver ornament.

"Who can deny to Poore he was releife
And in composing paroxysmes was cheife.
To Marchants as a patterne he might stand
Adventring dangers new by sea and land."

Capt. Lord left a son Richard, Jr., who was half owner of the ship America, valued at £230.

The descendants of Dr. Thos. Lord's sons are a large and honored family in and out of Connecticut, and this book tells who and what his posterity is by his daughter Ann.

THOMAS STANTON AGAIN.

Part III.

He is now married and residing in Hartford, Conn. In what follows I wish to acknowledge my indebtedness to "The Public Records of the Colony of Connecticut from 1636–1677," as published by J. Hammond Trumbull at the order of the General Assembly of Connecticut, May, 1849.

In said records the name of Thomas Stanton is found over 60 times; his son John is referred to 14 times; reference is also made to his sons Thomas, Jr., and Joseph.

There was not then even as much uniformity in the orthography of proper names as there is now. Court clerks exercised a delightful freedom in such matters, and I have found in records of the same court the name spelled in three different ways—Stanton, Staunton, Steynton.

The name is a compound of two Anglo-Saxon words—Stan meaning stone, and Ton meaning town. Stanton, often spelled Staunton, therefore means stone town, and was probably assumed by a remote Saxon ancestor, who lived in a place called Stonetown, or as it would then have been called Stan-ton. Surnames originally designated occupation, estate, place of residence or some particular thing or event related to the person. In this case it was place of residence. Where the people in certain districts pronounce their "a" broad, it would be natural in time to spell the word according to pronunciation, therefore, we have the spelling now common in some parts of England and the United States (in Mass. and Virg. particularly), and which indicates a broad "a," Staunton. Many of the families recorded in this book spell their name with an "u," as a rule I find that they or some of their ancestral line have lived in Massachusetts long enough to earn the extra letter. For the sake of uniformity and because the common ancestor of them all did not use the "u," I invariably omit it except in quotations.

The following autograph is proof of the way in which Thomas spelled his name as well as of the sturdy character of the man.

A fac-simile of the signature of Thos. Stanton of Hartford, Conn., to the Constitution of the Colony of Connecticut. Signed by him during the session of

"A gen^rall Cort at Harteford. 5th Apr 1638."

At said term of court the following record was made:

"It is ordered that Thomas Staunton shal be a publicke officer for to attend the Corte uppon all occasions, either Generall or p^rticuler, as alsoe any meetinge of the Magistrates to interprett betweene them and the Indians, as also is to have for it 10l. p^r Annum."

At this same session of Court he, with others, was sent on a mission to the Warranocke Indians. The same year (1638) Mr. Stanton was a delegate to an English and Indian Council-meeting at Hartford. Among other delegates were Roger Williams of Providence, Uncas of the Mohegans and Miantinomo of the Narragansetts. He also received ten pounds for past services to his country, and was given authority to represent Hartford in all trade for beavers at 1s. per skin.

Nov. 24, 1638, we find him at New Haven acting as interpreter for the Yorkshire colonists of Quinnipiac (New Haven) in their purchase of the land, where the city now stands, from the Indians. To the deed of said land is added the following declaration:

"I, Thomas Stanton, being interpreter in this treaty, do hereby profess in the presence of God that I have fully acquainted the Indians with the substance of every article and truly returned their answer and consent to the same, according to the tenor of the foregoing writing, the truth of which, if lawfully called, I shall readily confirm at any time.

(Signed) THOMAS STANTON."

This year Thos. Stanton, Jr., was born in Hartford.

In 1641, the second son, John, was born.

In April, 1642, Mr. Stanton and his brother-in-law, Mr. Richard Lord, make a voyage to Long Island to trade and collect old debts. It would seem that these two were then in business partnership which may have been dissolved the next year by the quarrel already referred to.

In 1643, the eldest daughter, Mary, was born in Hartford, and in 1644 Hannah was born.

The third son and fifth child, Joseph, was born in 1646. That same year Mr. Stanton violates his license and sells some lead beyond the jurisdiction of Hartford. For this he pays a fine of five pounds. Because of his trading trips or for some other reason he is so long absent from Court as an official that a successor to him is appointed for one year, but in 1648 Mr. Stanton is re-engaged as Court Interpreter at a salary of five pounds per year.

The same year his sixth child, Daniel, is born in Hartford. In connection with that birth it is inferred that some trouble arose, for shortly after we find Mr. Stanton entering suit for 200 pounds in an action of slander against one Joane Sipperance, "to the utter undoing of his wife's good name, and almost taking away her life." Since he got judgment for only 20s. we conclude that while he had cause for complaint it was not quite so serious a matter as he thought.

We now find a possible explanation for the long absence from Court of Thomas in 1646. In 1648 he has decided to remove his business from Hartford to the south-eastern corner of the Colony, and the following record is a result of his decision.

"A Session of the Generall Courte, 6th of Febr. 1649.

This Courte, taking into consideracon the petition of Thos. Staunton presented to them, have graunted to him and doe order, that hee shall have libberty to erect a trading house at Pawcatuck, with six acres of planting ground, and libberty of feed and mowing, according to his present occasions, and that none within this jurisdiction shall trade within that River for the space of three years next ensuing; provided hee submitt himselfe to such other exceptions and cautions as the Governo^r and Deputy shall judge meett."

As soon as possible after receiving permission to do so Mr. Stanton built and occupied his trading-house on the Pawcatuck river, but for the time his family remained in Hartford. When they did move they went first to Pequot and then to what is now Stonington, Conn.

He probably went to Pequot with his family in 1651, and to his permanent residence at Stonington in 1658. If these dates are correct, his seventh child, Dorothy (b. 1651), was born either just before leaving Hartford or just after reaching Pequot. The three other children were born in Pequot, Robert in 1653, Sarah in 1655, Samuel in 1657.

About the time of the removal from Hartford, an interesting act of the General Court was recorded, which I now copy.

"Code of Laws, May, 1650.

"This Courte, judging it necessary that some meanes should bee used to convey the lighte and knowledge of God and of his Worde to the Indians and Natives amongst us, doe order that one of the teaching Elders of the Churches in this jurisdiction, with the helpe of Thomas Stanton, shall bee desired, twise at leaste in every yeare, to goe amongst the neighbouring Indians and indeavo^r to make knowne to them the Councells of the Lord, and thereby to draw and stirr them up to direct and order all theire wayes and conversations according to the rule of his Worde. And Mr. Governo^r and Mr. Deputy, and the other Magistrates are desired to take care to see the thinge attended, and with theire owne presence so farr as may be convenient incourage the same."

THE STANTONS IN STONINGTON.

Part IV.

Every student of words will be struck with the fact that Stanton and Stonington have the same etymology and meaning. When the final name was given to Stonington (for it was first known as Southertowne), did the prominence and numbers of the Stantons there decide the name, or is it a mere coincidence?

This question is respectfully referred to the family debating club for decision.

Miss Caulkins, New London county's painstaking historian, says that in 1656, Mr. Stanton sold to George Tongue the grant of 6 acres of planting ground, etc., made to him in 1649.

She records in her County History this very pleasant reading for the descendants of Mr. Stanton:

"On the Pawkatuck River, the first white inhabitant was Thomas Stanton. His trading-house was probably coeval with the farming operations of Chesebrough (at Wequetequock Cove, 2½ miles east of Stonington), but as a fixed resident, with a fireside and family, he was later upon the ground. He himself appears to have been always upon the wing, yet always within call. He was required to be present wherever a court, conference, or treaty was to be held. Never, perhaps, did the acquisition of a barbarous language give to a man such immediate, wide-spread, and lasting importance. From the year 1636, when he was Winthrop's interpreter with the Nahantic sachem, to 1670, when Uncas visited him with a train of warriors and captains to get him to write his will, his name is connected with almost every Indian transaction on record."

In March of 1652, Mr. Stanton received a grant of 300 acres, laid out in a square upon the river, next to his former grant from the Court of 6 acres. Looking forward a few years, it may be said here that in 1659 Chief Cassawashitt deeded to Thomas Stanton the whole of Pawkatuck Neck and the small islands that lay near to it, known as "The Hommocks." This deed or grant was confirmed by the Court in 1671.

Soon after Mr. Stanton went to his new trading-house, the General Court of Connecticut elected him its Deputy Magistrate. This occurred May 15, 1651, and on Oct. 6 he was commissioned "to make a rigid inquest whether any of those murtherers of the English before the Pequett warres" could be found that they might be "brought to condign punishment."

He was also to demand £40 of Ninigrett for payment of Eltwood Pomrye's mare that had been killed by the Indians.

The next we know of him is under date of June 20, 1656, when he with Capt. Denison, Mr. Brewster and Hugh Calkin are to make a list of the state of the towne and the inhabitants, and to make the County rate of Twenty pounds. The same year the Commissioners of the United Colonies advised the preparation of a catechism in the Narragansett or Pequot language, and appointed Rev. Mr. Pierson of New Haven, and Mr. Thomas Stanton to do the work. Mr. Pierson's removal prevented its execution however.

In 1657 Mr. Stanton did something or said something that greatly roused the wrath of the General Court, and led to a warrant for his arrest. The cause of offense is not clear to me, because I have been unable to find out what is meant by the "cast of Uncas." It may be that the record was intended to read that the Commissioners had cast off Uncas, and that Mr. Stanton had proof in his pocket of some such insult to his noted friend, the Indian sachem. However, here is the record of the Court verbatim:

"COURT AT HARTFORD, 12th of August, 1657.

"James Morgan, ages about 50 years, testifyed upon oath before this Court that he being last winter at Jacob Waterhouse his dwelling house, in company wth Mrs. Brewster, Goody Waterhouse and Capt. Denison, Thomas Staunton also being p^r^sent, hee heard the said Staunton say that the Comission^rs^ had cast of Uncus, and hee had it in his pockett to shew.

"This Court orders and appoints that Leiften^{t} Wm. Lewis should tomorrow goe to Gilford, & if upon inquiry there hee understand that Thomas Staunton is gone to Branford and not returned, hee is to goe to Mr. Leet, and desire he would take order that Thomas Staunton, in that jurisdiction, at Branford or elsewhere, shall be forthwth sent to Mr. Wells, Deputy Governor, or else take security for 40 l. that hee will appeare before the Gen: Court at Hartford, on Tuesday next, & abide the judgm^{t} of the Court, in reference to such things as shall be testify^{d} against him by Major John Mason.

[84] Copia.

"You are to bring or cause Thomas Staunton to bee brought before the Gen: Court in Hartford, on Tuesday next, then & there to answere vnto such things as shall bee alleadged against him by Major John Mason & for so doeing this shall be yor war^{t}."

Lieutenant Lewis does not seem to have been successful in his effort to bring Mr. Stanton before the Court, and the following records give all the further light to be had upon the subject.

"By order of the Gen: Court in Hartford,
J: C: Sec^{r}y.

To Leiften^{t} Wm. Lewis:

"This Court ordered the Secr^{t} to write to the Comission^{rs} in refference to Thomas Staunton, wch letter was read & approved, & the Sec^{r} ordered to send the same.

[86] This Court orders that if Tho: Staunton comes in the vacancy of this Court, hee shall bee required to put in security for his appearance at the Court in Hartford in October next.

[88] Tho: Staunton, for contempt of the last Gen: Court, in not appearing when sumoned thereunto, for wch offence the Court fines the said Thomas ten pounds."

It would be interesting to know how Mr. Stanton appeased the wrath of the Court and the Commissioners, but adding this to other impossible things we learn that the next year he and his family moved to Wequetequock Cove, two and a half miles east of Stonington.

This was in 1658. The first settler upon the shores of that cove was William Chesebrough, in 1649; the next was Walter Palmer, who came to Salem, Mass., from Nottinghamshire, Eng., in 1629. The third settler was Mr. Stanton.

In October, 1658, this territory belonged to the Massachusetts Plantation, what is now Stonington, New London Co., Conn., was then Southington, Suffolk Co., Mass. The court ordered it managed by Capt. George Denison, Robert Park, William Chesebrough, Thomas Stanton and Walter Palmer.

In 1662, Charles II gave Connecticut a new charter that included Southington, in 1665 the name was changed to Mystic, and in 1667 the final change was made to Stonington. The first meeting-house was built in 1661.

Here, then, Mr. Stanton settled down as a permanent resident, and in Drake's "Boston" is found the following account as to the location of his house: "From Wekapauge to Mr. Stanton's is 3 miles, 300 rods; from Mr. Stanton's to Wm. Chesebrough's is 2 miles, 123 rods; from thence to Misticke river, by Capt. Denison's house, is 4 miles." Mr. Stanton's farm lay on the east side of Pawcatuck river, near its mouth. He also owned another farm at Quanacontaug, where Major Talcott had his headquarters in 1676. Quanacontaug was a neck of land five miles east of Pawcatuck river.

The following record gives an idea of some of the official duties that fell to Mr. Stanton's lot. At a Commissioners' meeting, September 6–17, 1660, this action was taken:

The Commissioners, upon consideration of premises, and of similar complaints preferred by the English residents of the new plantation at Mohegan, resolved "to require and force the Narragansetts to a just satisfaction," and for that end commissioned Capt. George Denison, Thomas Stanton, Thomas Mynor and others to repair to Ninigret and the Narragansett sachems, and require of them the punishment of the offenders, and full reparation of injuries done to the English; that "at least foure of the chiefe of them that shot into the English house at Mouhegin should be proceeded with and punished according to justice, and in case they cannot be drawn thereunto," that five hundred fathoms of wampum should be exacted in expiation of the offense, and that speedy payment should be made of a quantity of wampum which the Commissioners, the year before, had required of the Narragansetts, "for insolencies committed at Mr. Brewster's, in killing an Indian servant at Mrs. Brewster's feet, to her great affrightment, and stealing corne, and other affronts."

Three years after this we find Mr. Stanton appointed to apportion 8,000 acres of land to the Pawcatucks, and in 1664 he is appointed to magisterial office by the General Court. The record reads as follows:

COURT AT HARTFORD, Octob^{r} 13th, 1664.

[202] This Court doth hereby impower Mr. Wm. Cheesebrooke, Mr. Thomas Stanton and Mr. Thomas Minor to issue and determine all cases that shall be brought before them, to the value of forty shillings, to grant summons according to lawe to any that desire it, to summon men to appeare before them or at any Court in this Colony, and to marry persons, and punish for criminall matters to the value of forty shillings, or by stocks.

In 1665 he becomes a Commissioner of Stonington, and has authority to hold a semi-annual court at New London, the county seat.

The first court ever thus held in said county assembled Sept., 20, 1666. The commissioners or judges upon the bench were Major Mason, Thomas Stanton and Lieutenant Pratt of Saybrook, the clerk was Obadiah Bruen.

Among other court duties that year, one that fell to Mr. Stanton was the administration of the freeman's oath to his two sons, Thomas, Jr., and John. Honors now came to him thick and fast. In 1666 he was re-elected Commissioner or County Judge, he was also appointed Overseer-General of the Coassatuck Indians; a Commission of Appeals on Indian Affairs was created this year, and Mr. Stanton was made a member thereof. As a County Commissioner he evidently was a great success. He was annually re-elected to the office until his death in 1677, a continuous term of twelve years.

The last honor to come to him in 1666 was his election as a member of the General Assembly of Connecticut. With all this, however, he does not neglect his private business, for we find him entering suit (Oct. 11, 1666), against Chief Cuskatome and the chief's brother-in-law for "stealing a considerable estate" from him. Mr. Stanton got judgment in this case for £27 12s. 2d., to be paid within fourteen days. If not so paid, the Court authorized him "to dispose of these Indians by selling or sending them to Barbadoes or any other English Island."

Whether he secured his money, or whether he sold the debtors, is unrecorded history. It is to be hoped that the red men paid the cash and kept their freedom.

For many years one of Mr. Stanton's warmest friends was Mr. Walter Palmer of Stonington. Their children intermarried, and in many ways they had much in common. In 1662 Mr. Palmer died, and Mr. Stanton was appointed by the court to take an inventory of his "goods and chatels."

FROM 1667 UNTIL 1677.

Part V.

In 1667 Mr. Stanton was again elected a member of the General Assembly of Connecticut, and he continued uninterruptedly to be elected to said Assembly until 1674.

For his services to the Colony the General Court granted him, in October of 1667, 250 acres of land on Pachaug river, in what became the town of Preston. It was specified that 30 acres of the 250 should be in meadow.

As Indian Commissioner he was called upon this year to settle some difficulties that were threatening trouble between Uncas, chief of the Mohegans, and the Niantic tribe. The following year Mr. Stanton was reappointed Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

In those Colonial days serious differences often arose between rival towns and between towns and the General Court or Assembly. Some such trouble existed between Stonington and the General Court at Hartford. Thomas Stanton's second son, John Stanton, was then Stonington's Town Recorder. On May 4th, 1668, Thomas drew up a petition on behalf of the town and addressed it to the Court.

The petition was signed by John as recorder, but his father was the author. It seems that the dignity of the General Court was greatly injured by this appeal, and, either for this presentation of it or for presenting another one just like it in 1670, two or three of Stonington's leading officials got into serious trouble.

Thomas seemed to escape, but John was fined ten pounds, which, however, was revoked (it being yet unpaid) at the close of King Philip's War on account of John's service in that war. The settlers along the Connecticut and Rhode Island line had a good deal of disputing, and the same month this petition was drawn up, just ten days after it, Thomas Stanton and John Allyn were authorized to go to Rhode Island, confer with the Governor and Council, and demand satisfaction of them for Rhode Island's aggressions and insults.

The 3rd of June these two men undertook their commission, but their demands were not met. They were reappointed Sept. 8th, but with what results the records do not show. The petition of Stonington to the court reads as follows:

"May 4, 1668.

"PETITION OF THE TOWN OF STONINGTON TO THE GENERAL COURT AT HARTFORD FOR PROTECTION AGAINST THE ENCROACHMENTS OF THOSE OF R. ISLAND.

"A Companie of personnes from Road Island, whoe threatned the east side of Paquatuck River (wch seemed at first to vs but as rediculos) yet have built, fenced, improved & forsibly settled & ar growing numerovs, & doe noe less threaten the west side of Paquatuck River and wee know not but they may as well take all as a part, nay, our houses over our heades, by as much right as w^t^ thay at present injoye, for any thing the Pattent priveledges more to one side of the River then the other.

"Least multitude of busines might overwhelme you, & our beeing remoat & as ovt of sight might too much burie us in oblivion, or want of information might render you the les sensible of our condition, wee make bold to remind you, & if it maye bee to add a litell breath to the saylls and fethers to the winges of your solicitous indeavours in our behalfe."

In all probability it was this touch of irony and facetiousness that was more than the gravity of the old Puritan legislators could stand, and that induced them to punish their Stonington brethren. But to continue with the petition:

"They complain of the conduct of their neighbours, the intruders east of the River, 'neither can any true harted & fellow-feeling Christians choose but mourne to see & heare of our neighbouring disorders, & acknoledg our condition is trulie deplorable to have personnes of such corrupt principalls & praktises to live so near vs, and on our owne.

"'Tis not of small concernment, the bad example y^t^ is given to the Indians. 'Tis to the griefe of parents & others, observed how these fire brands too much inflame youth.

"May not parents heartes bleed when about to leave the world to thinke how thay leave their deer children in the mouth of the Lion & paw of the Beare, and worse, as being daylie tempted by exampells to folow after & imbrace lies, to live as riotous, wanton, luxsurious, and even no better than to bee said vnto, Serve other Gods or no God?

"Surelie if this case be made as your owne, you will not spare for cost or paynes or bee unwilling to run hassard in the indeavour of our speedie redres."

The petitioners recapitulate the grounds on which the Conn. right of jurisdiction is based,—the priority of Charter, the decision of the Royal Commissioner, first possession, &c.; in conclusion they refer to several recent acts of the Rhode Islanders.—Mr. Thos. Stanton had been prohibited from mowing land granted to Mr. Willis, and threatened with the cost of £1000 if he persisted; "they take in newcomers contrarie, vis. Goodwife Seager, James Walklie, and the tinker &c.

"Signed by order of the Town, by

"JOHN STANTON,

"Town Recorder."

These inter-colonial feuds continued for a long time. Three years after this petition while Mr. Stanton and Mr. Thos. Miner were one day laying out lands east of Pawcatuck river they were met and opposed by Tobias Saunders, John Crandall and some other Rhode Island men armed with clubs. Afterward Crandall was arrested, tried and imprisoned at New London for the above assault.

In 1669 Mr. Stanton's son Joseph, was appointed Assistant Magistrate of Stonington, and he held court with his father in New London. On the 8th of July, 1669, we find Thomas Stanton and his son John reporting to Major Mason at Norwich, their suspicions of a plot against the English, led by Uncas, Hermon Garrett and a daughter of Ninigret. Not long after, Thomas goes to Robinstown where the Indians are having a great dance and arrests Ninigret.

In 1672 he is sent to the Niantic Indians to demand the surrender of Mowweam for a double murder, that of an English girl and of a squaw.

In 1675 Mr. Stanton and Major Winthrop are authorized to effect the ransom or exchange of a son of James Rockwell, who was held captive by the Indians.

This year the Indians became very aggressive, and in June, Mr. Stanton sends word to the Governor at Hartford, of the first act of hostility in King Philip's war. This act was the burning of houses and killing of men at Swansey. War was immediately declared. Mr. Stanton and his sons bore no unimportant part in this conflict. Under the biographies of John and of Joseph will be found further details as to their experiences. It may be here said of John, however, in addition to what is otherwise recorded, that in 1676, he made an exchange with Abachickwood and other "Narrogancetts" for some Indians, giving for them other Indians that he had captured in war. He then sold to a Major Palmes the Indians he got in exchange.

This was undoubtedly in harmony with the code of warfare in that century, but it illustrates the fact that the world is getting better. Capt. John Stanton's descendants would not now do what he conscientiously did in 1676.

That was in February; later in the season he is ordered to distribute among his men the spoils taken in war, and in November he goes to the Indians and instructs them as to the laws passed for their conduct.

All of the sons of Thomas Stanton seem to have inherited their father's ability to speak the Indian dialects, and they were in much demand as interpreters. Joseph Stanton served in this capacity in the treaty made between the English and the Narragansetts at the close of King Philip's war.

The father was then too old to engage in much active service, but we find him acting with Major Winthrop and Hon. Samuel Willys as a commission to negotiate peace, if possible, between the English and Indians.

That was in April of 1676, and in May he is granted £20 for his good service and expense in securing the fidelity of Chief Ninigret to the English, and as partial recompense for damages of war to his estate.

In August we find him authorized to return to Mamawhow one of the several guns that he had taken from him the year before.

We now come to

THE DEATH OF THOMAS STANTON.

Part VI.

In the year of his death we learn that he returns to the Indian, Robbin Cassacinamon, all the wampum that he holds in trust for him from Ninicroft. We also know that his is the first name on the roll of the First Congregational Church of Stonington, which he was instrumental in organizing June 3, 1674. Mr. Stanton's son-in-law, Rev. James Noyes, was ordained as the first pastor of this church Sept. 10, 1674, and remained its pastor for more than 55 years.

The cause of Mr. Stanton's death is unknown. He died Dec. 2, 1677, and his will was probated in June, 1678. His wife lived eleven years longer, making her home with her daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Noyes of Stonington. She died in 1688, aged 67 years. Mr. Stanton was 62 years old.

In this day people are not old until they are 70, but in those days, after 42 years of a pioneer's hardships, we may presume that this worthy couple were regarded as having lived to a good old age. They were husband and wife for 40 years, and the parents of ten children, all of whom lived to have children of their own.

Mr. Stanton's prominence in the affairs of colonial Connecticut can be best estimated by the possibility of so much about him being secured from contemporaneous history after a lapse of two and a half centuries. As interpreter for Connecticut and for Gov. Winthrop, as Interpreter General of the New England Colonies, as County Commissioner and Judge for twelve consecutive years, as a member of the Conn. General Assembly for seven years, as Indian Commissioner for many years, as a successful, all around man of affairs, as a worthy husband, father, citizen and Christian, the descendants of Thomas Stanton have every reason to be proud of their emigrant ancestor.

As to his burial place, the following from Caulkins' History of New London (p. 285) is full of interest. On the east side of Wicketequack Cove, half way between Stonington, Conn., and Westerly, R. I., is the old family burying-ground, and Miss Caulkins says: "Here undoubtedly Mr. Chesebrough and all his sons were buried. Here lies Walter Palmer in the midst of a throng of descendants. Here Thomas Stanton lies near the stones bearing the names of his sons, Thomas (d. 1718, aged 80), and Robert (d. 1724, aged 71).

"Here also were laid to rest the remains of Thomas Minor and of his son, Deacon Manasseh Minor, the first-born male of New London.

"The Rev. James Noyes, Hallam, Searle, Thomson, Breed, and other ancients of Stonington repose in this hallowed ground."

After the death of Mr. Stanton his widow lived with the family of her daughter, Dorothy, who married Rev. James Noyes. Whether the homestead was the place of abode or whether Mr. Noyes had a dwelling-house of his own I am unable to tell.

It will be of interest to members of the family having the historic spirit, and who may at any time be in Hartford, Conn., to know that the site now occupied by Jewell's Leather Belting Co. and covered with their large factory buildings on Ford street was in 1639 the location of the first home of Thomas and Ann (Lord) Stanton.

CHAPTER II.

SOME GENERAL NOTES OF FAMILY HISTORY.

War Records—Stonington Church Records—The Leather-Breeches Law Suit.

General Notes of Family History.

1738. June 11, before the Court at Norwich, Thomas Stanton gave testimony in favor of the Indian John Uncas with reference to the possession and ownership of disputed Indian lands. This was probably a grandson to Thomas, 1st.

1745. In the expedition that sailed from Connecticut to fight the French in Nova Scotia, Cape Breton Island and New Foundland were some of this family. After the historic Siege of Louisburg the English suffered severely from sickness and many of the Colonial troops died on board ship. Among them was Thomas Stanton from New London. He died July 29, 1745, when his ship was at anchor off Cape Canso, Nova Scotia, and his remains were buried on Burying Island.

Benjamin Stanton was a member of Capt. Samuel Hale's company of Louisburg soldiers, he was probably from New Hampshire, as this company was made up chiefly of New Hampshire men.

713 Col. Joseph Stanton was a member of this Expedition.

1776. Revolutionary Items.

In the summer of 1776 a Row Galley was built at Chelsea for the State of Connecticut, by Captain Jonathan Lester. Her dimensions were "60 feet keel, 18 feet beam, 5 feet hold and 7 in. dead rising. Her cost was £861, 16s., 6d." She was named "The Shark," and was put under the command of Theophilus Stanton of Stonington, Conn. (One account gives the name of the commander as Capt. Thomas Stanton.)

July 19, 1776, at the earnest request of Gen'l Washington, the Gov. and Council of Safety of Conn. sent to him at New York Capt. Stanton in command of "The Shark," bearing 9 pounder guns and to be subject to Washington's orders.

Col. Stanton is mentioned as having fought with bravery in the battle of Bennington, Aug. 17, 1777. No details are given to identify him, but he probably was 725 Joseph[5].

The Continental Congress appointed Joshua Stanton a captain in Col. Seth Warner's regiment, July 5, 1776.

July 9, 1777. Col. Barton, Col. Stanton, Ensign Stanton, 6 other officers and 38 privates went into the midst of the English camp, four miles from Newport, R. I., and captured Gen. Richard Prescott who was afterward exchanged by Gen. Washington for Gen. Charles Lee.

Oct. 16, 1777. An old muster-roll is in the office of the Town Clerk of Ballston, Saratoga Co., N. Y., from which the following was copied:

"A Role of Capt. William Stanton

"Capt. William Stanton,	Edward Stanton,
Lt. Ichabod Brown,	Peleg	Do	among
Serg't James Stanton,	Lodwick	Do	privates.

"Som totall 83.

"GROTON, April 13th, 1777."

How this came there is not known, but probably these men fought in the battle of Stillwater, and were present at Burgoyne's surrender, Oct. 16, 1777.

It will be noticed that they came from Groton, Conn.

The Massacre at Fort Griswold.

Early in September of 1781, the British Gen. Clinton sent the traitor, Benedict Arnold, upon an expedition along the Connecticut coast. On Sept. 6, after capturing and burning New London, Arnold crossed the Thames river to seize Fort Griswold at Groton. It was defended by 150 men under Col. Ledyard. About 100 of the defenders were farmers and artisans who had come from the surrounding districts with what arms they could lay hands on to assist the small garrison of 50 men. Arnold sent a flag of truce and called upon them to surrender. On p. 558 of Cauklins' Hist. of New London, is the following record of results.

"Col. Ledyard sent Captains Elijah Avery, Amos Stanton and John Stanton, three brave volunteers from the neighborhood, all unconsciously wrapped in the awful shadow of the coming slaughter, to meet the flag and refuse to surrender. The attack began. Capt. Stanton was sent out to compel all volunteers to come within the fort. There were many who wished to fight outside, thinking the chances to escape were better. The fort was captured and a most barbarous massacre followed.

"Out of 150, 85 were slain, 35 were dangerously wounded, and 30 who were slightly wounded were taken away prisoners."

In this massacre at least four of our family were victims. Capt. Amos Stanton was killed; he was from Groton. Lieut. Enoch, son of Phineas Stanton, was killed; he was 35 years old and had a wife and seven children.

Daniel and Mary Stanton, of Stonington, had two sons in the fort. The oldest was Sergeant Daniel, aged 25, whose body was found bearing twenty-six wounds. He had fought like a tiger at bay before he fell. The younger son, Edward, also fought bravely; he was but 20 years old. He received a terrible wound that exposed his heart to view, but recovered and lived to a good age, dying July 27, 1832, 71 years old.

A monument in memory of the slain has been erected at Groton Heights. As you enter it you will see confronting the door this inscription upon a large marble slab:

"THIS MONUMENT

was erected under the patronage of the State of Connecticut, A. D., 1830, in the 55th year of the independence of the U. S. A. In memory of the brave Patriots who fell in the massacre at Fort Griswold, near this spot, on the 6th of Sept., A. D. 1781, when the British, under the command of the traitor, Benedict Arnold, burnt the towns of New London and Groton, and spread desolation and woe throughout this region. List of men who fell at Fort Griswold, Sept. 6th, 1781. ———"

At the head of this list are found 4 Averys and next 3 Stantons, with Scripture names, Amos, Enoch and Daniel, followed by 78 others.

1812. War of 1812.

The following Stantons of Stonington are on record as having served in the war of 1812: Thomas B., 847 Elias[6], Nathan, Ezra, Samuel, Jr., 85 Azariah, Jr., 890 Andrew P.[6], James, 902 Charles T.[6]

Among the Major Generals in this war was Phineas Stanton, later of Wyoming, N. Y.

Aug. 9, 1814, Stonington was cannonaded by four English ships of war. Among its defenders, as members of the 8th Inf't Co., 30th Reg't of Conn., were Corporal Azariah Stanton, Jr., Andrew P. Stanton and James Stanton.

In Feb., 1815, while rejoicing at Stonington because the war had ended, young Thomas Stanton of Pawcatuck was killed by the premature discharge of a cannon.

Other Stantons who served in this war are, 754 Joseph, 733 Thomas, William Jr., b. 1793 (see Appendix).

Revolutionary or Other Military Pensioners.

The following were copied by me from the official Pension Lists. All except Paul of Maine are believed to be of our family. They were pensioners, of age indicated, June 1, 1840:

1. Hannah Stanton of Stonington, Conn., aged 72. She lived with Charles P. Stanton.
2. Elijah Stanton of Little Falls, N. Y., aged 85. He lived with John Eaton.
3. Thomas Stanton of Stockbridge, Madison Co., N. Y., for Ebenezer Hills, aged 100, who lived with him.
4. William Stanton for Abraham Hitchcock, aged 75, who lived with him in Mt. Pleasant, Westchester Co., N. Y.
5. Moses Stanton for Wm. Davids, aged 75, who lived with him in Mt. Pleasant, N. Y.
6. Sarah Stanton of Charlestown, R. I., aged 92, who lived with Lodowick Hoxsie in Charlestown.
7. Paul Stanton of Poland, Maine, aged 82, lived with his son William.
8. Jason Stanton of Clinton, Wayne Co., Pa., aged 79.
9. Robert Stanton of Rome, Crawford Co., Pa., aged 78.

In 1818 Congress granted pensions for service in the Revolutionary War to the following:

Edward Stanton, Corporal, of Connecticut, $96 per annum.
Daniel Stanton, Private, of Connecticut, $72 per annum.
James Stanton, Private, of New York, $72 per annum.
Jonathan Stanton, to his widow, of New York, $48 per annum.

These lists of Stantons who have served in different wars do not pretend to be complete, but have simply been compiled from official records. A study of the Genealogy will show many others who rendered gallant service and whose service is recorded under their personal and family records. It is worthy of note that from the Pequot War in 1636 to the Civil War of 1861 there was no Colonial nor National War in which our family was not well represented among its country's defenders.

The following is a partial list of those who served in the late Civil War from Connecticut.

effect, nor, so far as records go, do they seem to have even known each other or ever inter-visited.

There is no proof that Thomas was related in any way to any person in America, or that any relatives ever followed him to this country. There is a family tradition that before his death he received a legacy from his former home across the sea, but there are no records to prove even this. Undoubtedly there were on record in New London, Conn., many records and documents that would have been invaluable witnesses as to Mr. Stanton's origin, ancestry and youthful life. His will was probably recorded there and no other copy of it has as yet been found. But these New London county records were destroyed in 1781 by the traitor Benedict Arnold when he sacked and burnt New London town.

Our family history has thus been robbed of much that would be interesting and important; much still remains, however, and to this we will now address ourselves.

Evidently Mr. Stanton's stay in Virginia was very short. In 1636 he appears on record in Boston, Mass., serving as a magistrate. He may have traded and mingled a little with the Indians in Virginia, acquired some knowledge of their language, and then sailed for New England. We know that he subsequently visited the Indians in Virginia, for there was in the New London county records a curious document, without date, but apparently entered in 1668 or 1669. It reads as follows:

"Whereas Capt. Morrice hath reported and informed the King's Commissioner that Mr. Thomas Stanton, Senr. did, in Virginia, some 20 odd years since, cause a massacre among the Indians, whereby to gain their Beaver to himself, and the said Morrice named Richard Arye, mariner, to be his author:

"These may certify all whom it may concern that the said Arye being examined concerning said report, doth absolutely deny that he knew or reported any such thing to Morrice nor ever heard of any such thing about Mr. Stanton in Virginia to his remembrance." This document was acknowledged in court by Richard Arye, and attested by David Wetherell, recorder.

The next we know of Mr. Stanton is in connection with the Pequoit War. Just before the war he had been serving Winthrop as Indian interpreter, while the latter was in command at Saybrook. July 4, 1636, Mr. Fenwick, Mr. Hugh Peters and Mr. Thomas Stanton bore instructions from Boston to Winthrop at Fort Saybrook, Conn. (going overland), as to the Pequoits.

The war followed immediately. From Caulkins' Hist. of New London, Conn. (p. 296), I copy the following tribute: "The services of Mr. Stanton, as interpreter during the Pequoit War, were invaluable. He was moreover a man of trust and intelligence, and his knowledge of the country and of the natives made him a useful pioneer and counselor in all land questions, as well as difficulties with the Indians." In DeForest's Hist. of the Indians of Connecticut (p. iii) is another record of a second visit to Fort Saybrook, near the end of the war, when its commander was the historic soldier, Capt. Lion Gardner. DeForest says: "Sometime in April (1637) a small vessel arrived at the fort, having on board Thos. Stanton, a man well acquainted with the Indian language, and long useful to the colonial authorities as interpreter."

Mr. Stanton served through this war. Special mention is made of his bravery in the battle of Fairfield Swamp, where he well nigh lost his life.

He must have returned to Boston very soon after peace was secured, for Drake, in his History of Boston, names him as one of the magistrates in the trial of John Wheelwright, which took place Oct. 3, 1637.

The next seventeen months of Mr. Stanton's life were eventful ones, for in them occurred his marriage and settlement in Hartford, Conn. In June, 1636, Rev. Thomas Hooker and 100 other persons came from Newtown (Cambridge), Mass., and founded Hartford, Conn. In February, 1639, there were 127 property-holders in Hartford, and among them were Dr. Thomas Lord and his son-in-law, Thomas Stanton. It is not known whether Dr. Lord and his family came to Hartford with Hooker or at a later date. The time of Mr. Stanton's arrival and mar-

Richard Lord† for his miscariedge in draweing his sowrd and vseing thretening speeches in contending wᵗʰ Tho: Stanton† about tradeing for indean corne, is fyned to pay to the Country fiue† pownd.

* The Commissioners of the United Colonies (who were at this time in session, at Boston,) having decided upon delivering up Miantonimo to be murdered by his captor, Uncas, ("that so execution may be done according to justice and prudence,") were apprehensive that the Narragansetts, or some of the neighboring tribes, allied with or tributary to the Narragansett Sachem, would seek to revenge his death. They therefore directed that measures should be taken to provide for the defence of the Colonies, and "that Hartford furnish Vncas with a competent strength of English to defend him against any present fury or assault of the Narragansetts or any other." (Records of U. Colonies.)

† The names of Richard Lord and Tho. Stanton, and the word 'fiue,' have been partially obliterated, by drawing a pen across them, at a date evidently long subsequent to that of the record.

Its recomended to the seuerall Townes seasonably to attend the colection for the Colledg, and send it thither in conuenient tyme.

Mr. Hopkins and Mr. Whiting discouering to the Court the wrong rec^d frõ some Indeans in stealeing of theire goods and burneing their howse, it was conceaued that any lawfull course may be taken for the recouery of their losse, according as amongste the Englishe.

The Court being put in mynd of the Indeans that liue in, are rec^d, and liue among the Englishe in these Townes, it was referred to Mr. Deputy and Capten Mason to take consideratiõ of tend that seruice; for wch the said John Bissell is to haue of those that hee Ferryes ouer, eight pence for euery horse or mare, and two pence for euery person that goes ouer therewith, or that hath another passenger to goe ouer the said Ferry at the same time; and three pence for euery person that goes ouer the said Ferry alone, single, or without any more then himselfe at the same time. And the Courte prohibitts all other persons (except the inhabitants of Wyndsor, who haue libberty to carry ouer themselues or neighbors in theire owne Canooes or Boates,) from carrying ouer the said Ferry any passenger or passengers, when the said John Bissell or his Assigne is present, or within call of his howse or Ferry as aforesaid, to attend that seruice: And if any person or persons as aforesaid shall at any time during the aforesaid tearme, goe ouer by Indians or Inglish that haue not Boates or Cannoes of theire owne, that they pass ouer the said Ferry in, they shall as truly pay 8*d.* for euery horse or mare, and 2*d.* for euery person, as if they went ouer with him. And the Courte allso giues the said John Bissell libberty to releiue such strangers and passengers as cannot goe to the ordinary, and to take of them convenient and reasonable recompense for the same. This was consented to by John Bissell in Courte.

It is Ordered that Thomas Stanton shall haue paid him yearely by the Country, fiue pownds for his seruice in attending the Courte, or any of the Magistrates, as occassion shall require in any of the 3 Townes, Hartford, Wyndsor and Wethersfeild, to interprett the Indian language: and hee is to bee considered ever and aboue, for his extraordinary seruice out of the said Townes. This order to continue till the Courte sees cause to the contrary.

There is a rate of 125*l.* graunted by ye Courte, to bee deuided as followeth:

THOMAS STANTON FAMILY.

1. THOMAS STANTON, who became distinguished among the first planters of Stonington, Conn., was in early manhood in England designed and educated for a cadet, but, not liking the profession of arms, and taking a deep interest in the religious principles of the migrating Puritans, he left his native land, embarking on board of the good ship "Bonaventure," in 1635, and landed in Virginia, but left there almost immediately for Boston, mingling with the natives on the way, and rapidly acquired a knowledge of their language and customs. On arrival in Boston he was recognized by Winthrop and his associates as a valuable man, worthy of the most unlimited confidence, for the very next year he was selected by the Boston authorities to accompany Mr. Fenwick and Hugh Peters, as interpreter on a mission to Saybrook, Conn., to hold a conference with the Pequot Indians relative to the murder of Capt. Stone and Newton. After the close of the conference Mr. Stanton went up to Hartford, and there fixed his permanent abode in 1637. Mr. Stanton's accurate knowledge of the language and character of the Indians soon gave him prominence in the new settlements of Connecticut, for the very first year that he came to Hartford, the General Court gave him ten pounds for the service he had already done for the country, and declared that he should be a public officer, to attend the court upon all occasions, either general or particular, at the meetings of the magistrates, to interpret between them and the Indians, at a salary of ten pounds per annum. Mr. Stanton did not always agree with the policy of Capt. Mason and the court relative to the treatment of the Indians, and drew upon himself their displeasure; but being a man accustomed to speak his own mind and act upon his own convictions, maintained his position, though they discontinued his salary for two years, alleging long absence as the cause, and appointed Mr. Gilbert to take his place, but in 1648 they restored him to the place with its compensation. He became the intimate and especial friend of

Gov. Winthrop of Connecticut, acting as his interpreter in all of his intercourse with the Indians. It was while thus employed, in an interview with Ninigret in the Narragansett country that Mr. Stanton became acquainted with the Pawcatuck Valley, and selected it for his future residence. He was the first white man who joined Mr. William Chesebrough in his new settlement. He petitioned the General Court of Connecticut for liberty to erect a trading house there, which was granted in February, 1650. In the spring following he came to Pawcatuck and erected his trading house on the west bank of Pawcatuck river, in Stonington, in 1651, near a place ever since known as Pawcatuck Rock, for the reason that the deep water channel in the river touched the east side of said rock, where vessels trading with him could easily receive and discharge their cargoes without any expense for the erection of a wharf. Mr. Stanton did not remove his family to Pawcatuck in Stonington until 1657, where he had previously erected a dwelling house. The precise site of this house cannot now be ascertained, but no doubt it was conveniently near his trading house on Pawcatuck River. The object of building the trading house was to open trade with the coasting vessels which were cruising along our New England shores, gathering furs from the Indians and purchasing the surplus products of the planters, and selling the same either in Boston or in the West Indies. After the articles of confederation between the New England colonies had been established in 1643, among all of the distinguished interpreters of New England, Mr. Stanton was selected as interpreter general, to be consulted and relied upon in all emergencies. In this capacity and in their behalf he acted as interpreter, especially between the ministers employed by the Commissioners of the United Colonies, acting as agents of the London Missionary Society, and the Indians, to whom they preached. He also aided the Rev. Abraham Pierson in the translation of his catechism into the Indian tongue, certifying to the same in his official capacity. After Mr. Stanton became an inhabitant of Pawcatuck in Stonington he took an active part in town affairs, he became prominent, and was elected to almost every position of public trust in the new settlement. In 1658, when Pawcatuck was included in the town of Southertown, under the jurisdiction of Massachusetts, he was appointed selectman and magistrate. After Pawcatuck was set off to the Connecticut Colony by the charter of 1662, Mr. Stanton was appointed magistrate and commissioner, and re-appointed every year up to the time of his death. He was elected deputy or representative to the General Court of Connecticut in 1666 and re-elected every year up to 1675.

When courts were first established in New London County in 1666, Major Mason, Thomas Stanton, and Lieut. Pratt of Saybrook, were appointed judges. Thus it appears that Mr. Stanton took a prominent part in town, county and State affairs from 1636, when he acted as interpreter at Saybrook, until near the close of his life. His name is connected with the leading measures of the colony, and with almost every Indian transaction on record. In 1670, Uncas, the Mohegan sachem, went from Mohegan to Pawcatuck for Mr. Stanton to write his will, taking with him a train of his noblest warriors to witness the same, giving to the occasion all the pomp and pageantry of savage royalty. He d. Dec. 2, 1677, aged 68 years. His will was probated in June, 1678. His widow survived him about eleven years, making her home with her daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Noyes, at Anguilla in Stonington, Conn. He m. Anna, daughter of Thomas and Dorothy Lord, in 1637.

Stanton, Thomas, Wethersfield—in 1638, was appointed by the General Court a public officer to attend all the courts or meetings of magistrates, as an interpreter for the English and Indians, with a salary of £10 per annum for his services. In 1638 he was allowed to trade with the Indians on the river in Wethersfield for beaver—was constable in 1644. The same year the General Court granted him free trade with the Indians upon Long Island for 12 months. He was an active and useful man in transactions with the Indians. He was an original proprietor in Hartford, and was a great friend and supporter of Captain Mason.

Stark, Henry, Hartford, 1640—he was a man of worth, and after a few years died, and gave by will, a clock to the church in Hartford.

Starks, Aaron, Hartford, 1639. (This case is inserted to show the extreme severity of their punishment for bastardy.) He was placed upon the pillory on a lecture-day during the lecture—then tied to the tail of a cart, and whipped in Hartford, (probably through Main-street)—then taken to Windsor, and at the tail of a cart again whipped—then had the letter R. burnt upon his cheek, and fined £10, to be paid to the parents of Mary Holt, and then ordered to marry her. The punishment of the girl for her offence was referred to Mr. Ludlow and William Phelps to decide. She was afterwards whipped. In 1643 he was again whipped for another offence, and ordered to serve Captain Mason during the pleasure of the court.

Stanley, Caleb, son of Timothy, Hartford, 1645—became a man of much consequence in the colony, and received by his worth repeated honors from his town and the colony. Indeed the Stanley family maintained a high reputation in the jurisdiction for many years after the union of the two colonies. In 1709 Caleb Stanley was elected, or rather appointed secretary of the colony, which he held three years, and honorably discharged its duties. The descendants of the family are believed not to be numerous, but respectable. He was grand juror in 1672 and '77.

Staples, Thomas, with Philip Groves, Robert Warner, Joseph Judson, Walter Hoyt, James Avery, J. Morgan and Robert Chapman were deputies or made free in 1661. Staples deputy and juror, '49.

Stanborough, Josiah, died in 1659. His children and estate were taken into the possession of the selectmen.

Stebbins, Francis, died in 1673. His children were, Sarah Rockwell aged 20, Ruth 19, Lydia 17, Hannah 8, Joseph 5, and Elizabeth 3. Stebbins, New London, constable, '61.

Stebbins, Deac. Edward—juror in 1639 and '43—deputy in '39–41 and '48—selectman in '47—collector of funds for the students of Cambridge College, by order of the General Court, in 1645. He died in 1663, and left a grand child Edward Cadwell—his daughter married Mr. Cadwell—another daughter married Gaylord, who had children, Joseph, Benjamin, Joanna and Mary Gaylord—another daughter married Wilson, who had two sons, John and Samuel. He came among the first settlers from Cambridge to Hartford.

This to stand vntill the next Courte.

Whereas Tho: Steynton by his long absence is disabled to attend the Court according to his place, It is now Ordered, his sallery shall cease, and Jonathen Gylbert is chosen to supply the place for this yeare, and the Court will attend him wth resonable satisfactiō.

[151] The Gour and Deputy are desiered to be Comissiors to joyne wth the Vnited Collonyes for the meeteing in Septēber next & for this yeare.

It is Ordered, that a Rate be graunted of 50*l.* for the carrieing on the worke of the Forte, in case there should bee need thereof, to be paid by the Townes of the Riuer.

It is Ordered, that there be two prticuler Courts held the next prceding day before the two standing Generall Courts, that both the assistance of Mr. Ludlowe may be had, and such actions as fall out betwixt any vppon the Riuer and the Townes by the sea side be more comfortably attended.

John Maynard and Williā Westly are freed frō watching.

To the penall Order conserneing the selling of lead, powder etc. to any out of the Jurisdiction is added, That it is lefte to the judgement of the Courte, that where any offence is comitted against the said Order or Orders, ether to aggrauat or lessen the penulty according as the nature of the offence shall require.

Its recomended to the seuerall Townes seasonably to attend the colection for the Colledg, and send it thither in conuenient tyme.

Mr. Hopkins and Mr. Whiting discouering to the Court the wrong recd frō some Indeans in stealeing of theire goods and burneing their howse, it was conceaued that any lawfull course may be taken for the recouery of their losse, according as amongste the Englishe.

The Court being put in mynd of the Indeans that liue in, are recd, and liue among the Englishe in these Townes, it was referred to Mr. Deputy and Capten Mason to take consideratiō of tend that seruice; for wch the said John Bissell is to haue of those that hee Ferryes ouer, eight pence for euery horse or mare, and two pence for euery person that goes ouer therewith, or that hath another passenger to goe ouer the said Ferry at the same time; and three pence for euery person that goes ouer the said Ferry alone, single, or without any more then himselfe at the same time. And the Courte prohibitts all other persons (except the inhabitants of Wyndsor, who haue libberty to carry ouer themselues or neighbors in theire owne Canooes or Boates,) from carrying ouer the said Ferry any passenger or passengers, when the said John Bissell or his Assigne is present, or within call of his howse or Ferry as aforesaid, to attend that seruice. And if any person or persons as aforesaid shall at any time during the aforesaid tearme, goe ouer by Indians or Inglish that haue not Boates or Cannoes of theire owne, that they pass ouer the said Ferry in, they shall as truly pay 8*d.* for euery horse or mare, and 2*d.* for euery person, as if they went ouer with him. And the Courte allso giues the said John Bissell liberty to releiue such strangers and passengers as cannot goe to the ordinary, and to take of them convenient and reasonable recompense for the same. This was consented to by John Bissell in Courte.

It is Ordered that Thomas Stanton shall haue paid him yearely by the Country, fiue pownds for his seruice in attending the Courte, or any of the Magistrates, as occassion shall require in any of the 3 Townes, Hartford, Wyndsor and Wethersfeild, to interprett the Indian language: and hee is to bee considered ever and aboue, for his extraordinary seruice out of the said Townes. This order to continue till the Courte sees cause to the contrary.

There is a rate of 125*l.* graunted by ye Courte, to bee deuided as followeth:

A SESSION OF THE GENERALL COURTE, 6th OF FEBr, 1649.

John Haynes Esqr, Gournor.

Edw: Hopkins Esqr, Deputy.

Magistrates: Mr. Wells, Mr. Woollcott, Mr. Webster, Mr. Cullick.

Deputyes; Mr. Phelps, Mr. Clarke, Mr. Allyn, Mr. Steele, Mr. Taylecoat, Sam: Smith, Nath: Dickerson, John Deming, Edw: Stebbing, Andr: Bacon.

It is ordered by this Courte that Nehemiah Olmsted bring in to the Secretary a receipt vnder Mr. Hop[kins] his hand, in full for this yeares payment of that [ ] proportion laid vppon Farmington in reference to the composition for Seabrooke by the first of the next month, and if hee failes so to doe, Mr. Treasurer is desired to send the marshall to distreine the said Olmsted.

The same is to bee done for Jonathan Gillett and Tho: Buckland of Wyndsor, for the yeare 1647.

And for the yeare 1648, Will: Phelps and Will: Hey[ton] of Wyndsor are required to doe the same with the former, or else pay it themselues.

The same allso is to bee done by John Hawkes and Tho: Orton of Wyndsor, for the yeare 1649.

This Courte appointes Sam̄: Bourman of Wethersfeild, to bee the Towne sealer of all measures and weights in that Towne, according to order of Courte.

It is ordered by this Courte, that Will: Rescew shall bee allowed and paid out of the publique Treasury, ten pounds a yeare during the time hee keepeth the charge of the house of correction.

This Courte, taking into consideracon the petition of Tho: Staunton presented to them, haue graunted to him and doe order, that hee shall haue libberty to erect a trading howse at Pawcatuck, with six acres of planting ground, and libberty of feed and mowing, according to his present occasions: and that pounded for Assistants to joine with the magistrates for the execution of justice in the Townes by the sea side.

It was ordered that Thomas Staunton should goe to Narragansett and demaund of Ninigrett 40*l.* for Eltwood Pomryes mare, or Pequoiam to bee d'd vp, according to the determination of the Comissioners in Sept: last.*

William Leawis Junior is confirmed Leiftennant, to order the souldgers at Farmington: John Steele Junior, Ensigne, and Thomas Barnes, Serieant.

A letter being received from Capt: Mason, wherein hee desires, among other thinges, the advice of this Courte touching a motion propounded by some of New Hauen interessed in Dilaware designe, for his assistance of them in that buisiness, with some incouragements for his settling there; The Courte ordered that answer be returned, in reference to the foregoing particulars, to the following purpose:—That it is much in the desires of the whole Courte that hee would not enterteine thoughts of remouing his aboade out of this Colony, wherevnto they cannot give the least allowance or approbation; yet if his owne desire be for the present service of that place, and theire importunities continue for his employment there, the Courte cannott wholy deny him or them, the worke being that wch they are willing to promoate, but are content hee shall attend the service for 3 months, provided hee will ingage himselfe to returne within that time and continue his aboade amongst them as formerly:

"Eltweed Pomry, of Windsor, in Connecticutt Jurisdiction, hauing often addressed the Comissioners about a mare of his, wilfully killed by a Pequott Indyan, called Poquoiam, soone after the fore mentioned warr, when all sorts of horses were at a high price; whereupon which, Mr. Israell Stoughton, Generall for the Massachusetts, made an agreement with Meyantonime, one of the principall Narragansett Sachems, with or under whom the sayd Poquoiam lived, on behalfe of the offendors: * * * * * * Upon consideration of the premisses, the Comissioners thought fitt that the sayd monye be againe demanded of Ninigrett," he being the brother in law of Poquoiam, and heir to Miantonimo, "or that hee delivere Poquoiam into their hands; but upon refusall or delay, that some fitt man, duely accompanied, be sent, by order & direction of the Government of Conecticutt, to require it, with allowance of the present charges, and if it be not forthwith paid, to make seizure to the vallew of all with the charges, and to bring it away with them; and hereof the Narraganset Indians now present were willed to informe Ninigrett; onely, if after such payment or seizure, Vncas or Wequash Cooke shall by intertaining, pr'tecting or concealing Poquoiam, hinder Ninigrett from recovering the same of him, in such case the said 40*l.* shall be accounted due and be required of them or either of them." [Records of U. Colonies, Sept. 1651.]

for Edward Layes disappearance, according to ingagem^t, they judge that Edward Layes estate should satisfy Codnum for the same.

This Court being duly sencible of the danger this Comon wealth is in of being poisoned in their iudgm^t & principles by some loathsome Hereticks, whether Quakers, Ranters, Adamites or some others like them, It is ordered and decreed, that noe Towne or person therein, wth in this Jurisdiction, shall giue any vnnecessary entertainm^t to any of the aforesaid knowne Hereticks, vpon penalty of fiue pounds for each Hereticque entertaind, to bee paid by that inhabitant wch giues such intertainment to them or either of them, & fiue pounds a weeke for each Hereticke, to bee paid by each Towne that shall suffer the entertainm^t of any such Hereticks, as also 5*l.* a person that shall at any time vnnecessarily speake more or lesse wth any of the aforesaid Hereticks, except the Magistrate, Assistants, Eld^rs or Constable in this Jurisdiction; all wch fines to bee paid to the publicke Treasury. Also, it is ordered, that any Magistrate, Assistant or Constable, in each plantation, vpon any suspicion of any person to bee such an Hereticke, shall, wth the helpe of their Eld^r or Eld^rs in each plantation, examine the said suspected person or persons, & if vpon examination hee or they judge any to bee such Hereticks, the said Magistrate, Assistant or Constable shall forthw^th send them to prizon, or out of this Jurisdiction. This order to bee added to the former order in Octob^r, (56.)

[56] This Court orders that if Tho: Staunton comes in the vacancy of this Court, hee shall bee required to put in security for his appearance at the Court in Hartford in October next.

The Court is dissolved.

At a Session of the Generall Court, held at Hartford, August 18th, 1657.

The Indians belonging to Tunksis Sepus, being treated wth about the damage done by fire, occasioned by Mesupeno, they have mutually agreed and obliged themselves to pay vnto the Generall Court in October, or to their order, yearly, for the terme of seauen yeares, the full sume of eighty faddome of wampum, well strungd & merchtble, the first paym^t to bee made

Some expressions many times in the agitation thereof w spoken that might carry that sence of advising & counsell of Vnquas not to fight, as some apprhended then, but in conc sion the Gournor, as the mouth of the Court, declared his m fully to the Indians of both sides, as aforesaid.

patentee right of Paschal Nelson, and lays on Aurieskill near the Mohawk river, formerly Albany county, now Montgomery county." Signed, Peter Curtenius, R. Q. R.

Other entries of similar character testify to the early anxiety to get rid of the vexatious ground rents. But the lease system was well entrenched, and the owners knew well their value; only slowly and gradually was the right to the soil obtained. A lease, dated "20th Feb., 1789," represents the lessee as obtaining from "the Right Honorable the Earl of Abingdon, of the Kingdom of Great Britain, for the consideration of five shillings, lot sixty-five in a map of Warrensburgh, made by John R. Bleeker, 1766, containing one hundred acres, yielding and paying the yearly rent of one pepper corn if demanded." It bears the signature of Willoughby, Earl of Abingdon, and is sealed with wax, with the impress apparently of an intaglio ring. The paper has the regal water mark.

Here also may be cited a quit-claim of certain leaseholds of which we have spoken. "Whereas, John Watts of the city of New York, and Jane, his wife, did purchase from the Earl of Abingdon, of Great Britian, and from Henry Gage and Susanna, his wife, and others their trustees, two tracts or parcels of land situated at a place called Warrensburgh, in the town of Mohawk, county of Montgomery, State of New York, formerly part of the estate of Sir Peter Warren, and being two thirds which, on a partition thereof, fell to and were severally conveyed to the said Earl of Abingdon, and to said Henry and Susanna Gage; and whereas, since such purchase, said John Watts hath sold and conveyed sundry lots thereof to David Cady, Nathan Stanton, Ezra Murray, Phillip and Peter Frederick, William and Peter Youngs, George and Jacob Staleys, John Van Derveer, Peter and Jacob Houck, Elisha Cady, George, Christian and Peter Service, Rodeliffe Covenhoven, Asa Waterman, John Quackenboss, Ephraim Brockway, Lewis Phillip, Phillip Doty, and sundry others, with covenants on the part of said John Watts to convey the same in full to them on payment of certain sums in the said demises mentioned. And, whereas, it was intended, and it is just and reasonable, that the said several persons and their heirs and assigns, to whom such conveyances have been already made, should hold the same free, clear and discharged of dower, or claim of dower of said Jane Watts in the same. Now, in consideration of the premises, and to carry the same into effect, and also for and in consideration of the sum of ten shillings, with which the said Jane doth acknowledge herself satisfied and paid, she the said Jane, by and with the consent of her said husband, signified by his being a party hereto, hath remised, released, and forever quit-claimed unto the said David Cady, and the several others above named, the said lands and premises, free and clear of all dower and claim of dower of her, said Jane Watts, of and in the same."

"Signed and sealed this thirteenth day of November, in the year one thousand seven hundred and ninety-three." Both signatures [illegible] seals, showing very clearly the Watts crest, with its motto: "[illegible] defeat telum." It would seem probable this quitclaim may cover [illegible] part of the two-thirds of the original estate of Sir Peter Warren, the [illegible] nephew, afterwards Sir William Johnson, to become [illegible] daughter of this John Watts became the wife of Sir J[illegible] Johnson, the [illegible]net's only son.

triangle bridge and the high bridge at the upper side of Mr. Elliot's." The varied spelling of the names of the "twin sisters" creeks, running through the towns of Amsterdam and Florida — "Ouctenunda," "Vintenunda," "Tugntenanda," "Chuctenunda" — will have been noticed, and is easily traceable the difficulty of fixing the guttural Indian tones in our less flexible orthography.

In the year 1791, we find a list of licenses and permits given, thirty-three in number, amounting to £64 10s. The entry quite innocently omits to say for what such permits were given. Perhaps tradition may help us to conjecture. In 1787, we find entered, in extenso: "Received June 4th, 1787, of Mr. Paschal N. Smith, thirty-three pounds in full for the commutation of quit rent on two thousand acres of land in a patent granted the 12th of November, 1737, to James De Lancy, Paschal Nelson, Jacob Glen, and others, the aforesaid two thousand acres being the original patentee right of Paschal Nelson, and lays on Nuriskill near the Mohawk river, formerly Albany county, now Montgomery county." Signed, Peter Curtenius, R. Q. R.

Other entries of similar character testify to the early anxiety to get rid of the vexatious ground rents. But the lease system was well entrenched, and the owners knew well their value; only slowly and gradually was the right to the soil obtained. A lease, dated "20th Feb., 1789," represents the lessee as obtaining from "the Right Honorable the Earl of Abingdon, of the Kingdom of Great Britain, for the consideration of five shillings, lot sixty-five in a map of Warrensburgh, made by John R. Bleeker, 1766, containing one hundred acres, yielding and paying the yearly rent of one peppercorn if demanded." It bears the signature of Willoughby, Earl of Abingdon, and is sealed with wax, with the impress, apparently of an antique signet ring. The paper has the regal water-mark.

Here also may be cited a quit-claim of certain leaseholds of which we have spoken: "Whereas, John Watts of the city of New York, and Jane, his wife, did purchase from the Earl of Abingdon, of Great Britain, and from Henry Gage and Susanna, his wife, and others, their trustees, two tracts or parcels of land situated at a place called Warrensburgh, in the town of Mohawk, county of Montgomery, State of New York, formerly part of the estate of Sir Peter Warren, and being two-thirds which, on a partition thereof, fell to and were severally conveyed to the said Earl of Abingdon, and to said Henry and Susanna Gage; and whereas, since such purchase, said John Watts hath sold and conveyed sundry lots thereof to David Cady, Nathan Stanton, Ezra Murray, Philip and Peter Frederick, William and Peter Youngs, George and Jacob Staleys, John Van Derveer, Peter and Jacob Houck, Elisha Cady, George, Christian and Peter Service, Rodolphus Covenhoven, Asa Waterman, John Quackenboss, Ephraim Truckway, Lewis Phillips, Philip Doty, and sundry others, with covenants on the part of said John Watts to convey the same in full to them on payment of certain sums as the said demises mentioned. And, whereas, it was intended and is just and reasonable that the said several persons and their heirs and assigns, to whom such conveyances have been already made, should hold the same free, clear and discharged of dower or claim of dower of said Jane Watts in the same. Now, in consideration of the premises, and to carry the same into effect, and also for and in consideration of the sum of ten shillings, with which the said Jane doth acknowledge herself satisfied and paid, she the said Jane, by and with the consent of her said husband, signified by his being a party hereto, hath remised, released, and forever quit-claimed unto the said David Cady, and the several others above named, the said lands and premises, free and clear of all dower and claim of dower of her, said Jane Watts, of and in the same."

He married ANNA LORD 1637 in Hartford, CT, daughter of THOMAS LORD and DOROTHY BIRD. She was born 1621, and died 1689 in Anguilla, Stonington, CT.

Notes for THOMAS STANTON:
Thomas Stanton, who became distinguished among the first planters of Stonington, CT was in early manhood in Eng designed and educated for a cadet, but not liking the profession of arms, and taking a deep interest in the religious principles of the migrating Puritans, he left his native land, embarking on board of the good ship "Bonaventure" in 1635, and landed in Virginia, but left there almost immediately for Boston, mingling with the natives on the way, and rapidly acquired a knowledge of their language and customs. On arrival in Boston he was recognized by Winthrop and his associates as a valuable man, worthy of the most unlimited confidence, for the very next year he was select by the Boston authorities to accompany Mr. Fenwick and Hugh Peters, as interpreter on a mission to Saybrook, CT to hold a conference with the Pequot Indians relative to the murder of Capt. Stone and Newton. After the close of the conference Mr. Stanton went up to Hartford, and there fixed his permanent abode in 1637. Mr. Stanton's accurate knowledge of the language and character of the Indians soon gave him prominence in the new settlements of Ct. for the very first year that he came to Hartford, the General Court gave him ten pounds for the service he had already done for the country, and declared that he should be a public officer, to attend the court upon all occasions, either general or particular, at the meetings of the magistrates, to interpret between them and the Indians, at a salary of ten pounds a year. Mr. Stanton did not always agree with the policy of Capt. Mason and the court relative to the treatment of the Indians, and drew upon himself their displeasure; but being a man accustomed to speak his own mind and act upon his own convictions, maintained his position, though they discontinued his salary for two years, alleging long absence as the cause, and appointed Mr. Gilbert to take his place. But in 1648 they restored him to the place with it's compensations. He became the intimate and especial friend of Gov. Winthrop of CT, acting as his interpreter in all of his intercourse with the Indians. It was while thus employed, in the interview with Ninigret in the Narragansett country that Mr. Stanton became acquainted with the Pawcatuck Valley, and selected it for his future residence. He was the first white man who joined Mr. William Chesebrough in his new settlement. He petitioned the General Court of CT for liberty to erect a trading house there, which was granted in February, 1650. In the spring following he came to Pawcatuck and erected his trading house on the west bank of Pawcatuck river, in Stonington, in 1651, near a place ever since known as Pawcatuck Rock, for the reason that the deep water channel in the river touched the east side of said rock where vessels trading with him could easily receive and discharge their cargoes without any expense for the erection of a wharf. Mr. Stanton did not remove his family to Pawcatuck in Stonington until 1657, where he had previously erected a dwelling house. The precise site of this house cannot now be ascertained, but no doubt it was conveniently near his trading house on Pawcatuck River. The object of building the trading house was to open trade with the coasting vessels which were cruising along our New England shores, gathering furs from the Indians and purchasing the surplus products of the planters, and selling the same either in Boston or in the West Indies. After the articles of confederation between the New England colonies had been established in 1643, among all of the distinguished interpreters of New England, Mr. Stanton was selected as Interpreter General, to be consulted and relied upon in all emergencies. In this capacity and in their behalf he acted as interpreter, especially between the ministers employed by the Commissioners of the United Colonies, acting as agents of the London Missionary Society, and the Indians, to whom they preached. He also aided the Rev. Aabraham Pierson in the translation of his catechism into the India tongue, ceertifying to same in his official capacity. After Mr. Stanton became an inhabitant of Pawcatuck in Stonington he took an active part in town affairs, he became prominent, and was elected to almost every position of public trust in the new settlement. in 1658, when Pawcatuck was included in the town of Southertown, under the jurisdiction of MA. he was appointed selectman and magistrate. After Pawcatuck was set off to the CT. Colony by the charter of 1662, Mr. Stanton was appointed magistrate and commissioner, and reappointed every year up to the time of his death. He was elected deputy or representative to the General Court of CT in 1666 and reelected every year up to 1675. When courts were first established in New London County in 1666, Major Mason, Thomas Stanton, and lt. Pratt of Caybrook, were appointed judges. Thus it appear that Mr. Stanton took a prominent part in town, county and State affairs from 1636, when he acted as interpreter at Saybrook, until near the close of his life. His name is connected with the leading measures of the colony, and with almost every Indian transaction on record. In 1670, Uncas, the Mohegan sachem, went from Mohegan to Pawcatuck for Mr. Stanton to write his will, taking with him a train of his noblest warriors to witness the same, giving to the occasion all the pomp and pagentry of savage royalty. He died 2 Dec 1677 aged 68 yrs. His will was probated in June, 1678. His widow survived him about eleven years making her home with her daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Noyes, at Anguilla in Stongington, CT. He married Anna, daughterof Thomas and Dorothy Lord in 1637.

3. JOHN[2] STANTON (THOMAS[1]) (Source: History of the Town of Stonington, CT by Richard Anson Wheeler, 1966, pg 582, Write up of Capt. John Stanton and his Military Service in King Philip's War.) was born 1641, and died 03 Oct 1713. He married HANNAH THOMPSON 1664, daughter of ANTHONY THOMPSON and ????. She was born 08 Jun 1645.

Notes for JOHN STANTON:
Capt. John Stanton m Hannah Thompson in 1664, sister of Rev. William Thompson, Jr. of Braintree, MA. In 1654 he and John Minor, son of Thomas, were selected by the Court of Commissioners to be educated for teachers of the gospel to the Indians. Both young men, however, ultimately left their studies and devoted themselves to other pursuits. He commanded one of the companies that was raised to participate in King Philip's War, and was present at the Narragansett swamp fight. 19 Dec 1675. Subsequently, he and Capt. George Denison, with their companies, successfully pursued and overpowered the remnants of King Philip's tribe, and brought the war to a close. His homestead farm in Stonington, which descended to him from his father, was on the east bank of the Mystic River,adjoining lands of John Gallup on the north and George Denison on the south and east. It has never passed out of the possession of the family.

Notes for HANNAH THOMPSON:
The Stanton Genealogy by Wm A. Stanton has been proven to have made a mistake in claiming that the wife of John Stanton b 1641, son of Thomas and Ann (Lord) Stanton was the Hannah Thompson was the daughter of Rev. William Thompson of Braintree, MA (pg 135).
Clarence Almon Torrey of MA, member of the NYGB Society gives good proof of this error.
Antony Thompson of New haven, CT, by his second wife Catherine, had a daughter Hannah who was baptized 8 June 1645 (Records of the First Church, New haven). William Thompson, brother of Anthony, in his will 6 Oct 1682, mentions Anthony's daughter"Ann Staunton", who was evidently, the daughter baptized as Hannah (Savage's Genealogical Dictionary, V IV, pg 289. The other Anns or Hannahs who married Stantons at an early date have been identified. John Stanton was the only Stanton that Hannah Thompson, dau/ Anthony could have married...probably in 1664.

A BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF HON. RICHARD ANSON WHEELER

Richard A. Wheeler was born in Stonington, Conn. Jan. 29, 1817 at the family homestead on Wheeler Road, the only son of Richard and Mary (Hewitt) Wheeler. He descended from most of the first settlers of Stonington. The land for the homestead was purchased in 1687, and the present house built in 1735. Since that time the property has been handed down from father to son and is now owned by descendants of the original family.

Judge Wheeler was a large man, over six feet tall with dark red curly hair and pink cheeks. His hair turned white at an early age and after that time he wore a full beard.

A jolly happy man full of stories, his personality attracted children, many of whom shared his horse and buggy as he drove about town. We quote from Marshall's History of New London County. "Though Judge Wheeler had no sons he was the popular adviser and comrade of young men to whom he was a constant example of cheerfulness, courtesy, unselfishness, modesty, integrity and industry, fittingly called the 'grand old man of Stonington.' The purity of his principles, the soundness of his mind, and the sweetness of his character are best realized in the advice which he himself followed so admirably. 'Be a Christian, love your home and country, cultivate habits of industry and perseverance, study to strengthen and enrich your mind, take an interest in those about you to do them good, use your money in right and proper ways and enjoy each day of life." In 1900 Judge Wheeler was the oldest member of the Road Church, both in years and in term of membership. He served this church as clerk for sixty-five years.

At age of eighteen he was chosen sergeant of the 6th Company, 8th Regiment, 3rd Brigade, Connecticut Militia, and two years later was elected and commissioned captain of the same company. He served the town as selectman, representative and a member of the Board of Education fifteen years; also as judge of Probate (1864-1887). He was High Sheriff of New London County for twelve years, then declined re-election. He was a member of the Connecticut Historical Society, the New London County Historical Society, and the New England Historical Genealogical Society. At the time of his death Judge Wheeler was president of the Stonington Savings Bank which office he had held twelve years. He headed the committee to raise funds for the Mason monument on Pequot Hill, Mystic. After the BiCentennial Celebration he wrote the History of the First Congregational Church, and after his eightieth year the History of Stonington and Genealogies. Although he never desired or obtained admission to the bar, he acquired a thorough legal knowledge and was considered an authority on all matters of probate law. He settled scores of estates and wrote over six hundred and fifty wills, not one of which was ever broken.

He died at his home on April 6, 1904 at age 87. In 1910 a plaque in memory of Judge Wheeler was unveiled in the Stonington Library by the president of the Stonington Historical Society, Mr. Samuel Chesebrough and the judge's daughter, Grace D. Wheeler.

The HISTORY of the

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

(ROAD CHURCH)

Stonington, Connecticut

An Historical Address given by Judge Wheeler at the

Bi-Centennial Celebration, June 3, 1874.

To produce an impartial history of the First Church of Stonington, it will be necessary to go back to the first settlement of the town, and trace the preliminary steps that were taken to lishman that ever made this town his permanent place of abode with fireside and family.

The township of Nameaug, or New London, did not at that time embrace this town. It extended east and west only four miles each side of the river Thames, and six miles north and south.

Chesebrough's settlement here was encouraged by Governor Winthrop, who at the time was acting under a commission[1] from Massachusetts, and he supposed that he was under the jurisdiction of that colony; but in November of that year the General Court of Connecticut asserted jurisdiction, and ordered him to desist from all trade with the Indians, and that he must repair to Captain Mason of Saybrook, or some other magistrate upon Connecticut River, and give an account of himself.

He so far submitted as to obligate himself to attend, and in March, 1651, he presented himself at the General Court at Hartford, and stated that his aim was to settle at Pequot Plantation; but finding it unsuitable to his expectation, and having sold his former abode, he was in a manner necessitated, for the preservation of his estate, to make winter provision for his cattle there, whereunto he was encouraged by Governor Winthrop, who pretended a commission from the Massachusetts General Court for the planting of those parts.

But learning that the place belonged to Connecticut, he admitted that his proceedings were unwarrantable, but claimed that he had not withdrawn from public ordinances by his solitary condition, and had good ground to hope that in a short time a competent company of desirable men would join him for the planting of the place. The court accepted of his explanation on condition that he would first give to them the names of such persons for the court's approval, and that they would submit themselves to such rules and ways as would best promote the public good.

It is therefore ordred, yt ye said Mr. Winthrope may appoint unto such Indians as are willing to remove othr lands on ye othr side, yt is, on ye east side of ye great ryver of the Pequod country, or some other place for their convenient planting & subsistence, wch may be to ye good likeing & due satisfaction of ye said Indians, & likewise to such of ye Pequod Indians as shall desire to live there, submiting themselves to ye English governt, (reserving to ye comissionrs of ye United Colonies whatꝓply belongs to their disposing concrning ye said Pequods,) & also to set out ye place for ye said plantation, & to set out lots for such of ye English as are there already planted, or shall come to them, & to governe ye people according to lawe, as occasion shall require, untill this Corte shall take further ordr therein; & whereas Mr. Thom: Peter is intended to inhabite in ye said plantation, this Corte doth thinke fit to joyne him to assist ye said Mr. Winthrope, for ye better cariing on ye worke of ye said plantation according to this ordr. — Records of the Governor and Company of the Massachusetts Bay, vol. ii., 160, 161.

In September, 1651, Mr. Chesebrough was again at Hartford, endeavoring to obtain of the General Court a legal title to the land that he occupied at Wequetequoc. Mr. Winthrop, who at the time acknowledged the authority of the Connecticut Colony, with the deputies from Pequot, Hugh Caulkins and Thomas Miner, agreed that, if he would place himself on the footing of an inhabitant of Pequot, he should have his land confirmed to him by the town ; and to this he assented.

But at that time Pequot did not embrace the territory promised to him, so the General Court at the same session extended the boundaries of said town eastward to Pawcatuc River by a line on the north, including the larger part of the present towns of Stonington and Groton.

In November following, a house lot in Pequot was given Mr. Chesebrough, which he never occupied, and the next summer the town of Pequot, as agreed, confirmed to him 300 acres of land at Wequetequoc, which was subsequently increased to 2,299 acres.

Thomas Stanton was the first man that joined Mr. Chesebrough in his new settlement. In February, 1650, he obtained from the General Court a grant for a trading house at Pawcatuc, with six acres of planting ground and liberty of feed and mowing for his present occasion, and that none within this jurisdiction should trade within Pawcatuc River for the space of three years next ensuing. Mr. Stanton erected his trading house at Kitchemaug in the spring following, and occupied it, but did not remove his entire family to Pawcatuc until 1657. In 1652–3–4, Walter Palmer and family came and located himself on the east bank of Wequetequoc Cove ; Thomas Miner and family located themselves at Quiambog and at Tongwonk ; Capt. George Denison at Pequotsepos ; Capt. John Gallup and family on the banks of the Mystic, and Robert Park and family at Upper Mystic.

Up to 1654–5 the planters here attended meeting at New London when the weather permitted, and paid their rates for the support of the ministry there ; but the distance was so great, with two rivers to pass in going and coming, that they were anxious to have public religious worship established among themselves; and in order to do it, they must obtain a grant for a new town from the General Court, for this was long before any religious societies or parishes were established in this State.

The proposition met with the decided opposition of the people living west of Mystic River, and did not meet with much sympathy from the General Court, probably on account of an apprehension on their part that this place might eventually become a part of the Massachusetts Colony. In 1656 the planters here were ordered by the General Court to pay their taxes for the support of the minister at Pequot, which greatly intensified the feeling in favor of a new town.

About this time the Rev. William Thompson of Braintree, Massachusetts (brother-in-law of Capt. George Denison), who at the time was a missionary to the Pequot Indians, came here to reside, and preached to the planters a part of the time, and the rest to the Indians.

His first meeting for the planters was at the dwelling-house of Walter Palmer, March 22, 1657, and he subsequently preached at the dwelling-houses of most of the planters, whose struggles, under the leadership of Captain Denison, to break loose and form a new township, were henceforth unremitted.

In October, 1657, Captain Denison, Mr. Thompson, and several others of the planters here, preferred a memorial to the Massachusetts General Court, complaining of the aggressions of Connecticut.[1] The same year the General Court of Connecticut appointed a committee to confer with the planters here, and bring the controversy to an issue if possible, and if not to report how west of Mystic River should belong to Connecticut, and all east of it should belong to Massachusetts.

[1] September 1658. — The Issue of the difference betwixt the two Colonies of the Massa-

At the next session of the Massachusetts General Court, after this decision was rendered, they passed an act[1] that the English plantation between Mystic and Pawcatuc rivers be named Southertown, and to belong to the county of Suffolk, and appointed local chusetts and Conechcott about the Pequot Country being jointly referred to the Commissioners of the other two Colonies.

Whereas there is a controversy again revived betwixt the two Colonies of Massachusetts and Connechcut concerning their interest in the Pequott country, and many pleas have been made on both sides for their greater interest: we having seriously weighed what hath been by each of them alledged, conceive the determination doth arise only from their several rights by conquest, the which for ought we can understand is not greatly different; yet being tender of any inconveniency or disturbance that may accrue to those that are already possessed either by commission from the Massachusetts or Connechcut in any part thereof (should they now be put off their improvements) and also upon inquiry finding that the Pequot country which extendeth from Nianticke to a place called Wecopaug about ten miles eastward from Mistick river may conveniently accommodate two plantations or townships we therefore (respecting things as they now stand) do conclude that Mistick River be the bounds between them as to proprietie and to jurisdiction so far as conquest may give title thereunto; always provided that such as are already accommodated by commission from either of the governments, or have grants of any tracts of land on any side of the said Mistick river be not molested in their possessions or rights by any after grants, and that all due care be had that Christian society and ordinances may be provided for and upholden according to God, in each plantation.

By bounding it by Misticke River we intend that river shall be the bounds so far as the pond by Lanthorn Hill, and thence from the middle of the said pond to run away upon a north line. — Records of the United Colonies, Plymouth Colony Records. vol. x. p. 209.

[1] At the second session of the General Court held at Boston the 19th of October 1658, In answer to the petition of the inhabitants of Mystic and Pawcatuck the Court judgeth it meet to grant that the English plantation between Mystic and Pawcatuck be named Southertown and to belong to the County of Suffolk and order that all the prudential affairs thereof be managed by Capt. George Denison, Robert Purk, William Chesebrough, Thomas Stanton, Walter Palmer and John Minot sen., til the court take further order and that Capt. George Denison, William Cheesebrooke, and John Minot (Thomas Minor meant) be Commissioners to end small causes there and to deal in criminal matters as one magistrate may do, and that Walter Palmer be Constable, Capt. Denison clerk of the writs, and he also is hereby empowered and authorized to solemnize marriages between such as are published according to law; that the said Capt. Denison taking his oath be empowered to the oath to the other two, provided always the bounds of the town is not hereby determined (at the same court).

In answer to petition of Inhabitants of Southertown, humbly desiring for several reasons, that the bounds of their plantation may extend into the country $^{\text{north}}_{\text{west}}$ward between Weacapaugo and Mystic river eight miles from the mouth of Mystic River.

The Court judgeth it meet to grant their request.

officers for the same, and extended the bounds of the plantation eight miles northward from the mouth of Mystic River.[1]

Thus after a severe struggle they succeeded in obtaining a local government. It should be remembered that the act of the Massachusetts General Court did not create, or even organize a new township, but simply declared that the English plantation between Mystic and Pawcatuc, should be named Southertown, and then declared who should manage the prudential affairs thereof. They recognized in part the local association of the people, and extended their bounds. Unfortunately no records of the town of Southertown have been preserved; all that can be ascertained about their proceedings are found in the Diary of Mr. Thomas Miner, and now and then from a grant of land on the old Stonington town records. But enough is known to show that the inhabitants proceeded to elect the ordinary town officers, to procure them a minister and to build them a meeting-house. Town meetings for that purpose were held in 1659 and 1660, which finally culminated in the erection of one, which was raised May 13, 1661, and was so far completed as to be fit for use in September of that year, when the Commissioners of the United Colonies attended religious worship there, which was conducted by Major John Mason. This, the first meeting-house of Stonington, stood a short distance northwest of the late residence of Dea. Noyes Palmer. It is not known how large it was, or what its shape or style, but from some facts that may be gleaned from the old town records, it is probable that it was a small building and but partially finished, for as early as 1667, six years after it was raised, a vote was passed in town meeting to repair it and make it more comfortable, and even after it was repaired, the people did not use it in cold weather, but held their meetings at the house of Amos Richardson, which was situated a little way east of the meeting-house.

Rev. Mr. Thompson remained here until 1659, when he removed to New London. September 30 of that year Rev. Zachariah Brigden of Boston first taught here, doubtless by invitation of the town, who subsequently held a meeting about him, that is, to secure his services. Mr. Brigden labored with the people until his death, which took place April 24, 1662.

After his death Mr. Chauncy and Mr. Fletcher taught here by direction of the town, until the spring of 1664, when the town appointed a committee to go to the Bay (Massachusetts), and procure a minister, who invited Mr. James Noyes of Newbury to become their Gospel preaching minister. He accepted the invitation, and came here in the latter part of June, 1664, and commenced his labors in July following, and preached as a licentiate until 1674, when he was ordained.

The old controversy about jurisdiction was not suffered to rest. After the decision of 1658, Connecticut brought the matter up again in 1659, but the Commissioners refused to change their decision. Connecticut did not cheerfully acquiesce in the result, and still claimed jurisdiction of the lands they had granted, notwithstanding that such grants embraced in some instances the same territory included in some of the Massachusetts grants to other persons.

In 1660–1, another difficulty arose. Misquamicuck, or that part of the town of Southertown, now a part of Westerly, R. I., lying east of Pawcatuc River, was claimed and sold by Sosoa, an old Pequot Captain, residing in the Narragansett country, to a number of planters from Newport, Middletown, and Portsmouth, R. I., who took possession, and claimed it as a part of that colony, which asserted jurisdiction and subsequently succeeded in maintaining it. The planters were greatly vexed by this conflict of jurisdiction, and serious trouble grew out of it.

In some instances the same territory was granted by each of the three colonies to different persons, and long years of litigation was the result.

Sorely pressed by these difficulties and annoyed by the apprehension that the Connecticut colony meditated their subjection, the Selectmen (or townsmen as they were then called) of Southertown, in behalf of the town under date of January 19, 1662, again petitioned the Massachusetts General Court for redress of grievances,[1] to which no response seems to have been made.

[1] To the Honored Governor deputye Governor and maiestrates together with the Counsell or Generall Court of the mattachusetes the petetion of the inhabitants of southertowne humbly sheweth that wheras by the Good providenc of God we have bin orderly put vnder your Goverment by the cometioners of the vnighted Collonies, acording vnto articles of confederation: by which means through your Faviour, we have for this severall years inioyed our peace, with many other liberties and privilidges both sivell and spirituall, which we could not formerly inioy, or bee made pertakers of, notwithstanding all our indevers, and adreses made vnto those, who claimed a proprietye in thes parts, the which peace of ours, together with your authoritye amongst vs hath bin much interrupted, and your authoritye together with all our priviledges much impugned by the authoritye of Coneticots sending downe amongst vs there warrants, and prohibiting vs the exersice of any authoritye amongst vs but such as shall be deriued from them: indevering to make a faction, or to incorage the same amongst vs, that so thay might attaine there owne eandes, which how reguler it is we leaue vnto your wisdoms to iudge;

On the 23d of April, 1662, Governor Winthrop succeeded in obtaining a new charter for Connecticut from Charles II. The eastern boundary of the colony was fixed therein at Pawcatuc River, thus placing a large part of the town of Southertown under the jurisdiction of Connecticut, leaving the balance under the control of Rhode Island; Massachusetts gracefully yielding to the authority of the new charter, which probably did not reach Connecticut until late in the summer of 1662.

At the October session of the General Assembly for that year, the charter was publicly read to the assembled freemen of Connecticut, and from that time forward became the recognized law of the land. At the same session, "it was ordered that ye inhabitants at Mystic and Pawcatuc (not Southertown) shall from henceforth forbear to exercise authority by virtue of Commissioners from any other Colonies, and in case of any differences that may arise, they repair to o^r^ Wor^ll^ Dep. Gouernor for help; and that they choose a Constable for the year ensuing; and ye said Constable to repair to o^r^ Wor^ll^ Dep. Samuel Smith and Ensign Avery, for and in behalf of the charge of the charter the sum of twenty pounds as this Town's proportion, two thirds in wheat at 4. s, one third in pease at 3 s. by ye last of November next."

It does not appear that the town of Southertown was represented in the General Court of Massachusetts while they were under the jurisdiction of that Colony, nor were the planters represented in the General Assembly of Connecticut until the October session for 1664, when William Chesebrough was elected, and at the commencement of the session presented a petition,[1] in behalf of the planters, asking their pardon for past offenses and their favor for the future, which was granted to all except Captain Denison.[2]

In 1665, the name of Southertown was by the General Court changed to that of Mystic, in memory of that victory God was pleased to give this people of Connecticut over the Pequot Indians. In May, 1666, an act was passed as follows: "The town of Mystic is by this Court named Stonington, the Court doth grant to the plantation to extend the bounds thereof ten miles from the sea up into the country, northward; and eastward to the river called Pawcatuck." "This Court doth pass an act of indemnity to Capt. George Denison upon the same grounds as was formerly granted to other inhabitants of Stonington."

Mr. Noyes did not at first make arrangements to remain for any given length of time, but subsequently, in 1668, the town passed a vote that they would freely contribute, or give towards his building a dwelling-house among them, in order to his settling in the town, and carrying on the work of the ministry among them. They also voted to give him a salary of fifty pounds currency, annually, for seven years, and in 1671, the town added the use of the ministry land to Mr. Noyes' salary, and subsequently raised it to one hundred pounds with several grants of land and other donations.

About this time a movement was set on foot to build a new and better meeting-house; to lay out public lands for the support of the Gospel ministry, and to form a church in accordance with the established religion of the colony.

In 1667, the planters convened in town meeting and decided to set apart and lay out five hundred acres of land,[1] to be styled the ministry land, the avails of which were to be applied to the support of the Gospel ministry. In July of the same year the town established what they called a Town Plot, and appointed a committee to lay out as many lots as there were inhabitants then living in the town. Their home lots contained twelve acres each, and were so arranged that each lot had a street front.

Two hundred acres of this ministry land was laid out around the place where the Road Meeting-house now stands, the eastern line of which extended along a few feet east of said meeting-house, running nearly north and south. The western boundary was Mixtuxet Brook. The northern and southern lines cannot now be traced, but the form of the plot can nearly be seen when we look at the distance between the east and west lines and the number of acres that were laid out.

The home lots were laid out around and upon each side of the ministry land. They extended as far east as Stony Brook, and south as far as Smith's Mill; one tier was located north, and the remainder west and south of said land.

In 1668 a census of the inhabitants of the town was ordered to be taken, embracing those only who were inhabitants or heads of families. February 2. There were found to be forty-three inhabitants, viz.: Thomas Stanton, George Denison, Thomas Miner, John Gallup, Amos Richardson, Samuel Chesebrough, James

A true copy of Record

Stonington T. R. Test, ELN^N MINOR, Clerk.

Noyes, Elisha Chesebrough, Thomas Stanton, Jr., Ephraim Miner, Moses Palmer, James York, John Stanton, Thomas Wheeler, Samuel Mason, Joseph Miner, John Bennett, Isaac Wheeler, John Denison, Josiah Witter, Benjamin Palmer, Gershom Palmer, Thomas Bell, Joseph Stanton, John Fish, Thomas Shaw, John Gallup, Jr., John Frink, Edmund Fanning, James York, Jr., Nathaniel Beebee, John Reynolds, Robert Sterry, John Shaw, John Searls, Robert Fleming, Robert Holmes, Nathaniel Chesebrough for Mrs. Anna Chesebrough his mother, Gershom Palmer for Mrs. Rebecca Palmer his mother, Henry Stevens, and Ezekiel Main.

A home lot was laid out for each inhabitant, and the title was obtained by lottery on the following conditions, namely: If built upon within six months, and inhabited, the title would be complete, except that each proprietor must reside on his lot two years before he could sell it, and then he must first offer it to the town and be refused, before he could sell the same to any person and give good title. How many of these home lots were built upon by the then inhabitants cannot now be ascertained.

Up to this time all religious services had been provided for and conducted by the authorities of the town. Ministers were employed by the selectmen and paid from the town treasury.

The town also appointed committees to examine candidates for the ministry, "to see if they were sound in the fundamentals." They did not by their acts recognize Councils, Assemblies, or ecclesiastical machinery, in any way until 1669, when they preferred a petition to the General Court of the Colony, asking liberty to settle themselves in church order, which was granted at once;[1] but the church was not formed until 1674.

During the time that these preliminary steps were moving for church organization, the inhabitants were worshipping at Pequot, in their dwelling-houses, and the old meeting-house. They had repaired it several times, in pursuance of town votes. It was also occupied by the town for holding town meetings. At a meeting held therein in June, 1670, "It was voted, with a joint consent, "that a bigger and a better meeting house shall be built." Nothing appears to have been done about building a new house, for the reason that they could not agree upon a location.

[1] Seuerall inhabitants of Stoneingtown petitioning this Court for their approbation that they might settle themselues in Church order, this Court grants them their petition.—Trumbull's Colonial Records, vol. ii. page 111.

In April of 1671, another town meeting was held, which voted "That the meeting house agreed upon shall stand upon the most convenient place of the ministry land," and the selectmen were directed "to view said land, and approve the place where they find it most convenient, according to the order of the town, to set the meeting house."

The selectmen could not agree upon a location, and called another town meeting, which was held Thursday, December 14, 1671. At this meeting, after spending most of the day in fruitless motions and discussions, it was voted, "That the meeting should continue till Friday night, and that all the inhabitants meet on Friday morning by nine of the clock at ye meeting-house, and to go from thence to go to view a place to set the new meeting-house on." They met the next day, and looked over the ministry land, and unanimously agreed upon a location for their new house, and then went back to the old meeting-house and passed the following votes, viz.: "That the New Meeting House shall for time to come be set up and stand without removing upon the hill called Agreement Hill, so named by the town at the same place." "The dimensions of this house were agreed upon at this meeting, and were as follows: Forty feet long, twenty-two feet wide, and fourteen feet posts from joint to joint." It was also voted at this meeting, "That the present minister, Mr. James Noyes, for the time that he continues to be the minister of this place, shall have the use of all the ministry land to himself, besides his fifty pounds currency per annum, and at his death or departure to leave it wholly to the town."

A committee of five were appointed to superintend the erection of the new meeting-house. It was built by subscriptions of timber, planking, shingles, ceiling, nails, and labor of men and teams, etc.

At the time the meeting-house was located upon Agreement Hill by the town, the hill was covered with heavy timber, which was removed by the inhabitants by voluntary labor, who then laid the foundation for the new house, and raised it January 15, 1673. This house stood a few rods west of the present meeting-house at the Road. It was not finished for several years. At first there were no slips or pews except for the deacons, magistrates, and minister's family; benches were used by the people, and a committee was appointed to seat them according to their notions of propriety.

This state of things did not last long, for the town voted the next year to have the floor of the house and of the gallery assigned to the inhabitants for pews. A committee was appointed to make the assignment, who encountered much opposition, but finally agreed upon a plan, which was submitted to the town and accepted. Those who were dissatisfied with the section assigned them, did not make their pews, and occupied the old benches.

Some of them after a while reconsidered their determination and built them. The inside of the house was never lathed and plastered. After the pews were built the space between them and the gallery was ceiled, and this was done by sections, which had been assumed by some of the wealthier inhabitants. When this house was dedicated is not known.

Religious meetings were held there in the summer of 1673, and ever after that, until it was taken down to make way for a larger one which was erected in 1729.

The church was organized formally on the 3d day of June, 1674.

What ceremonies were observed in the formation of the church does not appear. The record is simply this: —

"The names of those who began the Church of Christ at Stonington, June 3, 1674, were

Mr. James Noyes,
Mr. Thomas Stanton,
Mr. Nathaniel Chesebrough,
Mr. Thomas Miner,
Mr. Nehemiah Palmer,
Mr. Ephraim Miner,
Mr. Thomas Stanton, Jr.,
Mr. Moses Palmer,
Mr. Thomas Wheeler."

They established a covenant[1] when they formed the church,

[1] COVENANT. — In order to begin and Geather a Church of Christ in Stonington, this third day of June 1674 do Covenant that whereas, God having Graciously received us into the Covenant of his Grace, which he hath sealed to us in Baptism, we acknowledge ourselves, indispensibly bound, to hold fast the Doctrine of Faith, and manners contained in the scriptures, of Truth, and attend all those duties, wherein prescribed, for the increase of our Faith, and growth in holiness, and maintaining a good conscience, and knowing that the confession of the name of Christ, is not to be separated from Faith in the Heart, Rom: 10th, 9th, and that he that is united unto Christ, and hath Communion with him, ought to maintain Communion regularly, with all his members; We whose hearts, God hath moved in this place, to joyn together in the worship of God, and pertake of the

THE STANTON FAMILY

THE primary object of this article is to review briefly the history of the Stanton family, to stress points of particular interest and to trace the line back to the earliest known ancestors. No claim is made that the statements herein presented are infallible, but they are as correct as the data now available permits. It is hoped that an exhaustive study of Stanton genealogy will sometime be made, both in this country and in Europe, as such would be of value, not alone to this family, but to the searcher for detailed history of the first two centuries of life in America.

Beginning with our branch in southeastern Ohio in 1922, we find that they came from southwestern Pennsylvania in 1800. They stopped there for only a few months while on their way from Beaufort, Carteret County, North Carolina, to Ohio. After a residence in North Carolina of about seventy-five years, they left that section of the country on account of slavery. They came to Beaufort from Newport, Rhode Island, after residing in that section of country for about eighty eighty years. We find our earliest ancestor, Robert Stanton, was living in Newport in 1645. He was born in England in 1599 and was one of the settlers of Portsmouth, Rhode Island, in 1638. This much we may claim as fairly well established, but anything earlier than this is traditional and mostly conjectural.

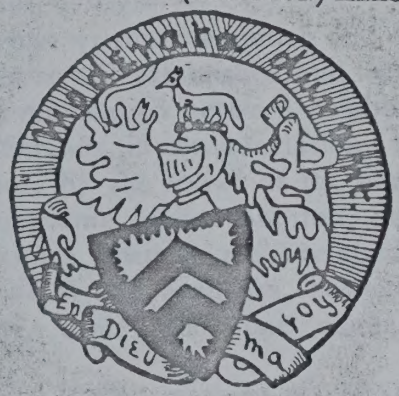
THE STANTON (STAUNTON) ARMS.



Arms: Argent, two cheverons sable within a bordure engrailed the same.
Crest: Fox statant proper.
Mottoes: Below the arms, "En Dieu ma foy."

THE STANTON ARMS

THE STANTON COAT OF ARMS WAS DERIVED FROM ALBINI OR ALBENCIUS WHO RECEIVED THE CASTLE FROM TODENI.

THE ARMS OF ALBINI OF BELVOIR WAS A SHIELD WITH A GOLD BACKGROUND UPON WHICH WERE TWO CHEVRONS AND A RED BORDER. HE GAVE TO THE LORD OF STANTON A SHIELD WITH A SILVER BACKGROUND UPON WHICH WERE TWO BLACK CHEVRONS WITHIN A CURVED OR INDENTED BLACK BORDER. LATER A HELMET CREST WAS ADOPTED AND WAS A FOX STANDING AND OF THE NATURAL COLOR.

THERE ARE TWO MOTTOES. THE ONE BELOW THE ARMS IS "EN DIEU MA FOY" (IN GOD MY FAITH); THE OTHER, ABOVE THE CREST, IS "MODERATA DURANT" (MODERATE ACQUISITIONS ARE LASTING).

THE ARMS THUS DESCRIBED IS TO BE FOUND IN BURKE'S HERALDIC ILLUSTRATIONS AND IS NOW BORNE BY THE STAUNTONS OF LONGBRIDGE, WHO ARE A BRANCH OF THE STAUNTONS OF STAUNTON IN NOTTINGHAM. THIS IS UNDOUBTEDLY THE BASIS OF ALL STANTON ARMS AND REPRESENTS THE ORIGINAL FAMILY.

Regarding the name Stanton, it is traced to Anglo-Saxon origin and is formed of two words—stan (stone) and ton (town) or Stonetown. Now since the surname, sire-name or father name, originally came from the place of residence, occupation, characteristic of the individual individual or some notable event in his life, we may conclude that some remote ancestor took the name of his town Stanton (Stonetown) for his surname.

In early times when writing was much less common and orthography not so well established, and when there was much less communication between neighborhoods and far more difference in pronunciation, we find writers spelling more by the sound of the name, and hence we have our name spelled Stanton, Staunton, Stainton, and Steynton. But we must remember that almost certainly all of the Stantons, however their names are spelled, came from one common ancestor.

It may be of interest, also, to note that the historic origin of the Stantons was in the eleventh century, in the southeast corner of Nottinghamshire, England, and in the northern end of Leicestershire. Here there lived a Sir Malgerus, or Mauger, Lord of Stanton. Little is known of him except that he appears to have been a Saxon.

Five miles southeast of this lordship we find Belvoir Castle, of much interest to the Stantons. It is believed to have been built by Robert de Todeni in the eleventh century. The "Lordship of Staunton" is five miles from Belvoir and seven from Newark. It is said to have been in the family of the name of Stanton or Staunton for more than thirteen hundred years, or about the date of the Saxon conquest, and we may infer that the family came with the Saxons.

The tower defended by Sir Malgerus against William the Conqueror at the time of his conquest in 1066 has ever since been known as "Staunton Tower."

Referring very briefly to the principal races that have have occupied England in historic times, we find that at the beginning of history the Britons were largely in possession of the island. Their possession continued up to the close of the first century when the Romans began their conquest. They occupied parts of the country until about the middle of the fourth century, and were followed by the great Germanic invasion of which the Jutes from Slesvig were probably the first. Later came the Saxons from the countries lying near the southwest shore of the Baltic Sea, and in turn were followed by the Angles from Slesvig, a corner of which is still known as Anglen.

Some of the original inhabitants were driven to the hill country and remote parts, such as Cumberland, Cornwall and the mountains of Wales, while many intermarried with the invaders and lost their nationality and distinctive character. The Angles gave their name to the country—Angles' Land, or England—and under Egbert (827) united many of the smaller countries into the Kingdom of England.

In the eighth century the Northmen or Norsemen, a race of vigorous self-reliant men, left the shores of Norway and Denmark, probably because of overcrowding and scarcity of food, and repeatedly robbed the southeast coast of England and the western coast of the continent of Europe, even going as far as the eastern end of the Mediterranean, but finally settling in large numbers in northern France, where for some two centuries they mixed with the Gauls, the ancestors of the modern French. Here they gave to the Gauls a vigor, hardihood and self-reliance which these people did not possess, and in turn received from them a culture and refinement which they did not have up to this time.

Such

Such was the ancestry of the Normans who, in 1066, under William the Conqueror, invaded and subdued England, bringing to the inhabitants many very desirable qualities, among which may be mentioned the executive and administrative ability which the English had not previously had in any marked degree.

Again, we find an amalgamation of the various races—Britons, Jutes, Saxons, Angles, Gauls and Norsemen—giving to the English many very desirable qualities not before possessed by any one of the races alone.

Such, then, was the blood of our ancestors who, in the seventeenth century, came to America for freedom, religious and otherwise, no doubt unconsciously urged on by a trace of the old Norse spirit of adventure and the quest for better homes for themselves and their children.

With regard to Robert Stanton of Newport—our earliest known ancestor—about all we know of him is that he was born in England in 1599, married Avis _____, had a son Robert, born in England, 1627. His two daughters—Sarah, born 1640, and Mary, born 1642, were most likely born in Portsmouth, Rhode Island, for we find he was one who settled Portsmouth in 1638; and later he lived in Newport and had a son John, born there Eighth month, 1645.

From the birth of his son Robert in England to the settlement of Portsmouth is eleven years, during which time he came to America, but the port from which he sailed and the date are unknown, and place of landing and his first place of residence are also unknown.

Many points in the lives of Robert Stanton of Newport, and Thomas Stanton of Connecticut, seem to indicate that they were connected, and, if not brothers, of quite different age and temperament, probably uncle and and nephew. Then there is Paul Stanton of Maine, and Robert's brother John, who came with him, who should be studied, as also the much larger number in the next few generations.

We may note that Robert was born in 1599, Thomas born 1616 and came to America in 1635. From the age and character of Robert, he seems to have been a quiet and steady-going sort of person. He probably inclined toward Quaker belief even if not a member, and probably landed in Massachusetts, as it was the older and better known colony. Later, finding the religious intolerance out of harmony with his views, he would naturally move to more liberal Rhode Island; and as Quakers and Quaker sympathizers were ostracized, he would live a quiet and little-known life; this may account for our finding no record of visits between Robert and Thomas.

Thomas, being seventeen years younger and probably unmarried, came to America in any vessel that was convenient, and landed in Virginia. His religious views seem to have been different from those of Robert, even if not antagonistic. We see Thomas taking part in public affairs in Virginia, associating with the Indians and learning their language, which we would expect a young man to do, especially if he was inclined to deal with men, as he did very largely in the public life which he led afterward. But he left Virginia in a short time and went to Connecticut. If connected with Robert, he probably found the Puritan or Quaker type of mind more to his liking than that of the Cavaliers of Virginia, and so worked his way back to people of his own kind, not going to Massachusetts, where there was so much religious intolerance, but to a section where more liberal views could be comfortably held.

So

So far as we know, he was not a Quaker and few if any of his descendants seem to have been members of that religious society, while a very large part of the descendants of Robert have been Quakers.

William Alonzo Stanton, a descendant of Thomas Stanton of Stonington, Connecticut, did much research work and in 1891 published a large volume entitled "Thomas Stanton of Connecticut and His Descendants." His work is so good that the liberty is taken of reprinting from his book some information applying to both our families as now known.

The following traditions give interesting possible connections between the early branches of Stantons in this country and also the family's origin in England:

* * * * *

"THE WELSH TRADITION.—The best documentary evidence for this is a record written in an old family Bible belonging to the Gere family of Syracuse, N. Y. This Bible was the property of Sophia Stanton, whose parents were both Stantons, and whose mother's parents were both Stantons. Sophia's Bible and her mother's Bible bear record that Thomas Stanton was born in Wales.

"The mother, Anna Stanton, was born in 1758, at Stonington. It is safe to say that Anna was informed as to this tradition by her father, Phineas, who was born in 1719, forty-two years after Thomas died.

"Half a century is not time enough for history to go very far astray, and I am inclined to think that either he or his wife, Ann Lord (alias Laward), was born in Wales. Even if this be true, however, he was not of Welsh ancestry, for 'Stanton' is a Saxon name. Wales is bounded on the east by Herefordshire and Shropshire. In Hereford are the following places: Staunton Park, Staunton-on-Arrow, and Staunton, all near the Welsh borders. In Shropshire are to be found the towns of Stanton, Stanton Lacy and Long Stanton.

"Would it be strange that a Thomas Stanton should be born only only a few miles at the farthest from some of these places, and if west of them his birthplace would easily be in Wales.

"Since writing the above I have had correspondence with William J. Stanton of North Danville, Vt., who was born in 1808. He says that his grandfather, Isaac Wheeler Stanton, often affirmed in a most positive manner that Thomas Stanton was born in Wales. His grandfather was born in 1743 at Stonington.

"Now what opportunity did Isaac W. have of knowing this? His grandfather was Joseph Stanton, who was born before Thomas died, and lived after Isaac W. was eight years old.

"Wm. J. Stanton then has his information from his grandfather, who was contemporaneous with those who in their youth had personal knowledge of Thomas, and whose parents were children of Thomas. This is even more direct testimony than in the case of Sophia Stanton's Bible. In addition to the above testimony is the following: Isaac Wheeler Stanton, when he moved from Connecticut to New Hampshire and Vermont, took an old desk with him in which was found a genealogical outline of Stantons, descendants of Thomas. It was written on coarse, dark-colored paper, in old-fashioned letters and style of writing, and testified that Thomas was born in Wales. Wm. J. Stanton says 'it looked to be a century old.' The desk was moved in 1784. I believe the Welsh tradition is true."

"THE LANCASHIRE TRADITION.—John Stanton of Hope Valley, R. I., has in his possession records received from his father, John Stanton, who was for some time town clerk of Charlestown, R. I., and who wrote quite a record of historical and genealogical information as to the Stanton family. These records assert that Thomas of Stonington, Ct., and Robert of Newport, R. I., were brothers, and came from Lancashire, Eng. This same tradition is found now among descendants of Robert of Newport. It does not necessarily conflict with the Welsh tradition, for Thomas may have been in Wales, then moved northward to Lancashire and come thence to America. Mr. Stanton can produce no authority for this record and does not know where his father got it. I have followed up this tradition far enough to learn that there are Stantons now living in Lancashire, and that the family is an old one there. Members of the family now in Preston, Preston, the county seat of Lancashire, have testified to me that they can find no record of a Thomas who came to America. (Preston, Conn., is built on land that belonged to Thomas Stanton. Query: Was it named for Preston, Eng., by Thomas in memory of his boyhood home?)"

* * * *

"THE LONGBRIDGE TRADITION.—The Hon. John D. Baldwin of Worcester, Mass., in 1883, printed his incomplete notes of Thomas Stanton and his descendants. Baldwin says of Thomas, 'It is supposed, with strong probability, that he was the son of Thomas and Katherine (Washington) Stanton, of the Longbridge family.' This supposition was suggested to Mr. Baldwin by Mr. B. I. Stanton, then of Albany, N. Y., but now of St. Paul, Minn. Mr. B. I. Stanton for years has been preparing genealogies of the descendants of Robert Stanton of R. I. and of Paul Stanton of Maine. He is a descendant of Paul. In his search among English records he found a Thomas Stanton, born 1616, in Wolverton, Warwickshire, Eng., son of Thomas and Katherine (Washington) Stanton.

"Thomas, the father, was born 1595 and was in turn the son of Thomas Stanton, who was the son of John and Elizabeth (Townsend) Stanton of Longbridge, Warwick Co. No further record of Thomas, born 1616, has ever been found than the one made in the Visitation of the County of Warwick in 1619. He was then three years old.

"Mr. B. I. Stanton thought this might be Thomas Stanton of Connecticut. Mr. Baldwin adopted the suggestion and so printed it.

"It may be true, but it is not proven. If this was our Thomas he would have been 19 when he embarked at London in 1635, but he gave his age as 20. This could be explained, however, by the existence of a law forbidding emigration, without parent or guardian, under 20 years of age. It was not uncommon, therefore, for young men to 'borrow time,' as they termed it, and add a necessary year or two to their true age. Thomas may have 'borrowed time' to make himself 20 years old in 1635.

"This family of Stantons came to Wolverton from Longbridge, near the city of Warwick, in 1576, and became extinct in the first half of the 18th century."

The

THE STAUNTONS OF STAUNTON

"Malgerus' son and heir was Galfridus de Stanton who married Beatrice de Muschamp and had Sir William whose wife was Atheline de Musters. Their son was Sir Geoffery, his, Sir William who married Isabel Kirketon and died in 1326. These five were all Knights. The next one was Sir Geoffery de Staunton who was Sheriff of Nottingham. Soon after this the 'de' was dropped and when we come to later times we find the heir to be Colonel William Staunton who served in the army of Charles I. and who married Anne Waring. His son was Harvey Staunton, Esq., 'who was the last male heir of this ancient family after a continued male succession of five hundred years. Harvey's daughter and heiress was Anne Staunton who married Gilberto Charlton, Esq. Their son and heir was Job Staunton Charlton who married Mary Greenwood and whose daughter and heiress was Anne Staunton Charlton. In 1703 she married Rev. J. Aspinshaw, LL.D., rector of Elton Super-montem. In 1807 he, with wife and children, assumed by Royal License the surname and arms of Staunton. Their son and heir was Henry Charlton Staunton of Staunton Hall in 1858.'

"This is undoubtedly the original Stanton family. From them have sprung numerous branches. In the 15th century a Sir George Stanton went from this family to Ireland and became the progenitor of a numerous Irish posterity. The following, from the Boston (Mass.) Pilot of May 5, 1888, shows a still earlier departure into Ireland:

" 'In England the name de Staunton dates from the Norman conquest, while in Ireland it appeared with the English Invasion. In 1220 Adam de Staunton granted lands to Christ Church, Dublin, and in 1373, in a summons to a great council to meet in Cork, Milo Staunton and Daniel Fitz-Thomas Roche were returned from County Cork. The attainders of 1691 include one Patrick Stanton, Great Island, County Cork.'

"Another branch of the Stauntons of Staunton settled in Warwick Co. prior to 1450 and bore the arms of the Nottingham family. Their hall is at Longbridge, a few miles from the city of Warwick, and they are known as

THE STAUNTONS OF LONGBRIDGE

"The Encyclopedia Britannica (9th edition) says, 'Of families holding knightly rank in Warwickshire before the commencement of the 16th century there now exist only ten, viz., Staunton of Longbridge,' etc.

"This family as a distinct branch runs thus: Thomas, John, Thomas, John, Thomas, Humphrey, John, John, John, John, William, John, William, the heir in 1858.

"Let us look a little into some interesting facts concerning John Staunton of Longbridge. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Townsend of Wales, they had three sons and two daughters. The eldest son was Thomas. Thomas had a daughter Judith Stanton who married Shakespere's friend and patron Hamnet Sadler. Shakespere's twin children, Judith and Hamnet, were named for Hamnet Sadler and his wife Judith Stanton. Sadler was a subscriber to Shakespere's will and was bequeathed a mourning ring.

"See also The Life of Wm. Shakespere (Duyckinck edition, P. xxvi) further reference to Mr. Staunton of Longbridge House and to Thomas Stanton, the English sculptor, as sculptor of Shakespere's bust in the church at Stratford-on-Avon, placed there between 1616 and 1623.

"An interesting description of this bust will also be found in Irving's Sketch Book.

"It was in 1576, at the time of the above John Stanton, that another son of his moved to Wolverton, between Warwick city and Stratford-on-Avon. He married Maria Pudsey and had five children. The eldest of these was Thomas Stanton who 30th July, 1616, married Katherine, daughter of Walter Washington of Radway, and had Thomas, born 1616 in Wolverton, who is thought by Baldwin to be the Thomas Stanton who came to America in 1635. This Wolverton branch became extinct in the male line during the first half of the 18th century and the estate reverted to John Staunton of Longbridge, who was born in 1704 and died in 1748.

"The last record of said Thomas Stanton, born 1616, in Wolverton, Warwick Co., Eng., is to be found on p. 277 of the Visitation of the County of Warwick in the year 1619. Taken by William Camden, Camden, Clarencieux King of Arms. (Harl. Mss. 1167.) Edited by John Fetherstone.

MISCELLANEOUS ENGLISH NOTES

"These notes are printed here as a possible clew to future research, and as facts of family and historic interest.

"1. In March, 1635, the pastor of The Church of St. Mary, Aldermanbury, London, was a Rev. Dr. Stanton (see N. E. Hist. and Gen. Reg., Jan. 1819).

"2. In Aug., 1635, Jo: Staunton, aged 27, sailed from London for Virginia, in ship George—Jo: Severne, master.

"3. Feb. 18, 1657, a Thomas Stanton of Mowlton, Suffolk Co., witnessed the will of Samuel Moody.

"4. In 1610, near Wolverton, Warwick Co., there was born a Thomas, son of Henry Stanton, who married ——— Rogers, Feb. 6, 1608.

"5. There was a Thomas Stanton at Little Eastcheap, London, in 1657. M. Middlebrooke, of Leeds, writes a letter to his nephew Rev. Michael Wigglesworth, at Malden, Mass., and orders it left at Mr. Thomas Stanton's in Little Eastcheap, to be conveyed to America. Said Wigglesworth was born in Hedron, East Riding, Yorkshire, Eng., in 1631, and in 1638 came to Quinnipiac, Conn.

"6. Dorothy Stanton, widow of Richard Wiseman, of Wigborough, Essex Co., about 1625 married John Rogers, of Dedham, Essex. Their grandson was Rev. John Rogers, D.D., who came to America with his father, Nathaniel, in 1636, and in 1682 became president of Harvard.

"7. In the northwest part of Leicestershire, some thirty miles from Belvoir Castle, is Staunton Harold. Its former owner was John DeStaunton, whose daughter and heiress, Margaret, married Ralph Shirley, and thus transferred the Staunton estate to the Shirley family. The present owner is Sir Sewallis Edward Shirley, 10th Earl of Ferrers and Viscount Tamworth. For further history of this family, see Timb's 'Abbeys, Castles and Ancient Halls of England and Wales,' Waren & Co., London.

"8. In

"8. In Oxfordshire, about five miles west of Oxford, is Stanton Harcourt. Here is the ancient manor of Stanton. It was among the vast estates that fell to the lot of the Bishop of Bayeux, a half-brother to William the Conqueror. Queen Adeliza, second wife to Henry, granted the manor of Stanton to her kinswoman, Milicent, wife of Richard de Camville, whose daughter married Robert de Harcourt. Since then the manor has been called Stanton Harcourt.

"9. An examination of Wills and Records at Bury St. Edmunds, Suffolk Co., shows in 1370 an Ada, widow of Henricus de Stanton, and their son Henry. In 1499 is mentioned a Robert, in 1504 a Roff, and in 1554 a Walter Stanton."

These extracts, then, give possible connections between the families of the early Stantons. Whatever the real connection, the truth remains that the family antidates our American colonies and had a worthy name and staunch tradition long before the Mayflower sailed.

STANTON

Wrong!

"The name Stanton is of ancient Saxon origin and was derived from the words stan, meaning 'stone', and ton, meaning 'town'."*1 There are a number of townships and parishes in England by this name (also spelled Stainton, Staunton, Stayntone, and others). Thomas Stanton was the first of this name in New England. He is believed to be the Thomas Stanton, son of Thomas and Katherine Washington Stanton*2, and the great-great-grandson of Thomas Stanton of Longbridge, County Warwick.*3 He is not known to be related to any other Stanton in the New World.

Thomas, the emigrant, "was in early manhood in England designed and educated for a cadet, but, not liking the profession of arms, and taking a deep interest in the religious principles of the migrating Puritans, he left his native land, embarking on board the good ship 'Bonaventure' in 1635" (from London, January 2,1635, stating his age as twenty years), "and landed in Virginia. He left there almost immediately for Boston, mingling with the natives on the way, and rapidly acquired a knowledge of their language and customs. On arriving at Boston he was recognized by Winthrop" (Governor of Massachusetts*4) "as a valuable man".*5 "The very next year he was selected by the Boston authorities to accompany Mr.Fenwick and Hugh Peters, as interpreter on a mission to Saybrook, Connecticut, to hold conference with the Pequot Indians." "After the close of the conference, Mr.Stanton went up to Hartford, and there fixed his residence in 1637. Shortly thereafter the Pequots declared war on the white man. Thomas served in the conflict." "Special mention is made of his bravery in the battle of Fairfield Swamp, where he nigh lost his life."*6 "He must have returned to Boston very soon after peace was secured, for... (he is named) as one of the magistrates in the trial of John Wheelwright, which took place Oct.3,1637." For the rest of his life, Thomas continued to be the primary contact with the Indians in southern New England, eventually taking the title of "Interpreter General of the United Colonies", and assisting "the Rev. Abraham Pierson in the translation of his catechism into the Indian tongue" (a copy of which is in the New York City Public Library).

Not long thereafter, Thomas returned to Hartford where, in 1637,*7 he married Ann Lord, daughter of Thomas and Dorothy Bird Lord.*8 Thomas and Ann resided on Ford Street*9 on what was then Little River. Thomas went into business with his brother-in-law, Richard Lord, and in 1642 made a voyage with him to Long Island to trade and collect debts. About a year later the two quarrelled "about trading for Indian corn. He (Lord) used very threatening language, and drew his sword, but before he could use it he was arrested and fined five pounds by the Hartford Court. It would be interesting to know how Mr. Stanton conducted himself in this little broil, but we only know that the Court Record makes no case against him."

In 1649, the General Court granted him permission "to erect a trading house at Pawcatuck" in the south-eastern corner of Connecticut. Soon afterwards, "Mr. Stanton built and occupied his trading house on the Pawcatuck River, but for the time his family remained in Hartford." The house was located near a place known as "Pawcatuck Rock, for the reason that the deep water channel in the river touched the east side of said rock, where vessels trading with him could easily receive and discharge their cargoes without any expense for the erection of a warf." He traded with "the coasting vessels which were cruising along our New England shores gathering furs from the Indians and purchasing the surplus products from the planters, and selling the same in either Boston or in the West Indies." Thomas was "the first white inhabitant" on the Pawcatuck River.

He moved his family to the trading house in about 1651, and there was appointed selectman and magistrate. In 1658 the family moved a few miles downstream to Wequetequock Cove (about two miles east of Stonington - then called Southertown). "In 1659 Chief Cassawashitt deeded to Thomas Stanton the whole of Pawcatuck Neck and the small islands that lay near to it, known as 'The Hommocks'" He was elected deputy or representative to the General Court every year from 1666 to 1675, and served as a judge (commissioner) in New London County. "In 1670, Uncas, the Mohegan sachem (chief), went from Mohegan to Pawcatuck for Mr. Stanton to write his will, taking with him a train of his noblest warriors to witness the same, giving to the occasion all the pomp and pageantry of savage royalty." From 1636 to 1670, Thomas' "name is connected with almost every Indian transaction on record".

In 1667, Thomas was granted 250 acres of land on the Pachaug River "for his services to the Colony". This was located about fifteen miles to the north near what is now Preston. In 1674 he was instrumental in organizing the First Congregational Church of Stonington - his name being the first on the original roll. The church's first pastor married Thomas' daughter. Thomas died on December 2,1677 in Stonington and was probably buried in what is now the old family burying-ground "on the east side of Wequetequock Cove, half way between Stonington and Westerly, R.I." There also were buried the other founders of Stonington/Wequetequock, Walter Palmer and William Cheseboro. (In 1899 the residents of Wequetequock erected a monument to their four founders, one of which was Thomas Stanton.) Thomas' wife Ann lived with her daughter Dorothy in Stonington ("at Anguilla") until she died in 1688. Thomas and Ann Lord Stanton had the following children:

1. THOMAS Jr.b. 1638,m.ca.1658,SARAH DENISON.
2. JOHN b. 1641,m. 1664,HANNAH THOMPSON.
3. Mary b. 1643,m.Nov.17,1662,Samuel Rogers.
4. Hannah b. 1644,m.Nov.20,1662,Nehemiah Palmer.
5. Joseph bpt.March 21,1646,m.(1)June 19,1673,Hannah Mead, (2)Aug.23,1677,Hannah Lord,(3) ? ,(4) ? , ? Prentice.
6. Daniel b. 1648,married and died in Barbados.
7. Dorothy b. 1651,m.Sept.11,1674,Rev.James Noyes.
8. Robert b. 1653,m.Nov.12,1677,Joanna Gardiner.
9. Sarah b. 1655,m.(1) ? ,Thomas Prentice,(2) ? , William Denison.
10. Samuel b. 1657,m.June 16,1680,Borodell Denison.

Two children of Thomas and Ann were ancestors of Joseph Elary Stanton and Daisy May Holgate, Thomas Jr. and John. Thomas Jr. was born in Hartford, Connecticut, in 1638. In 1654 he received training at Harvard College as an interpreter. In about 1658, Thomas married Sarah Denison, the daughter of Captain George and Bridget Thompson Denison*10 of Stonington. He and his brother John received lands in Preston, although apparently neither resided there. In 1698, Thomas "bought of Owaneco, chief sachem of Mohegan, a tract of 650 acres,'lying in the North Parish in New London, adjoining to a pond called Obplmtksok (...Gardiner's Lake) a mile or more long'. This he sold to Lieut.James Harris." Sarah died in Stonington on December 19,1701, and Thomas died there on April 11,1718. They had the following children:

1. Mary b. 1660,m.Jan.22,1679,Robert Lay Jr.
2. Thomas b. 1665,died at age 18.
3. Sarah bpt.Dec.14,1674,m.Jan.13,1692,Nathaniel Cheseboro Jr.
4. ANNA bpt.June 30,1675,m. 1692,THOMAS STANTON.
5. William bpt.May 6,1677,m.May 7,1701,Anna Stanton.
6. Dorothy bpt.April 24,1682,m.(1) ? ,(2) ? ,(3) ? .
7. Samuel bpt.May 21,1682,m.(1) ? ,(2) ? .

Thomas Jr.'s second daughter married her first cousin Thomas, the son of John and Hannah Thompson Stanton. John Stanton, like his brother Thomas Jr., was born in Hartford, in the year 1641. He "was a pupil of that famous old school-teacher of the Puritans, Elijah Corlet". "In 1654, he and John Minor... were selected by the Court of Commissioners to be educated for teacher of the Gospel to the Indians. Both young men, however, ultimately left their studies and devoted themselves to other pursuits." In 1664 John married Hannah, the daughter of Anthony Thompson*11 of New Haven. He was the "first recorder for the town of ...Stonington". In 1675 he "was commissioned captain of one of the four Connecticut regiments in King Phillips War. He served with distinction in this war, and was in command at the time of the capture of Canonchet, the chief sachem of all the Narragansetts." The home of John and Hannah was in Stonington on the banks of the Mystic River. It was 300 acres in size and bordered land owned by George Denison and John Gallop. Hannah died October 3,1713, and John 28 days later on October 31. They had the following children:

1. John b.May 22,1665,m. ? ,Mary ? .
2. Joseph b.Jan.22,1668,m.July 18,1696,Margaret Cheseboro.
3. THOMAS b.April 1670,m. 1692,ANNA STANTON.
4. Ann b.Oct.1,1673,died young.
5. Theophilus b.June 16,1676,m.June 5,1698,Elizabeth Rogers.
6. Dorothy b. 1680,died "in travail" in 1699.

Thomas, the son of John and Hannah, was born in Stonington and married his first cousin Anna in 1692. He and his brother John received all their fathers lands in Preston, where they both resided. Almost fifteen years after the death of their father, his brother "applied to the Probate Court in New London for an equitable division of the Preston lands. The dates of death of Thomas and Anna are unknown. They had the following children, all born in Preston:

1. Anna b.Aug.10,1693,m. ? .
2. THOMAS b.April 24,1696,m. ? ,SARAH ? .
3. Bridget b.Feb.6,1698,m. ? .
4. Sarah b.Oct.20,1700,m. ? .
5. Lucy b.Aug.7,1704,m. 1726.Jedediah Frink.
6. Thankful b.Feb.17,1706,m. ? .
7. Mary b.Jan.2,1709,m. ? .
8, Olive b.July 26,1712,m. 1734,John Freeman.
9. Elijah b.March 28,1715,m. 1739,Eliza Whiting.

Thomas, the son of Thomas and Anna*12, lived in Groton, about ten miles west of Stonington. In 1738 he purchased land somewhat north of Canterbury toward Brooklyn, Connecticut (north of Preston). In 1743, Thomas and Sarah, his wife, "were admitted to the Congregational Church in Brooklyn from the church in North Groton".*13 Thomas "followed the genereral custom of the pioneer farmer. He raised livestock and the crops suited to the climate of Connecticut." Thomas died in about 1790. The date of Sarah's death is unknown. Thomas and Sarah had the following children:

1. JACOB b.ca.1729,m.May 22,1753,JEMIMA WEDGE.
2. Abraham b.ca.1731,m.May 2,1754,Grace Wheeler.
3. Amy b.ca.1733,never married.
4. Joseph b.ca.1735,m.May 11,1769,Mary Staples.
5. Thomas b.ca,1737,died young.
6. Sarah b.ca.1739,m. ? ,Zaxhariah Whitney.
7. Anna b.ca.1740,m.June 6,1763,William Carter.
8. Peter b.May 18,1742,m.Feb.2,1758,Sarah Cleveland.
9. Experience b.April 29,1744,died in infancy.
10.Abigail b.Sept.24,1746,m. ? ,Samuel Daines.

Jacob, the oldest son of Thomas and Sarah, was born in about 1729. He married Jemima Wedge, daughter of William and Mary (Marcy) Benjamin Wedge*14, on May 22,1753, at Stonington; Justice Samuel Prentice conducted the ceremony. The vital records refer to Jacob as being "of Canterbury". Whether or not they resided immediately in Stonington is unknown, but in 1758 they were living there. By this time, land was becoming scarce (by their standards). By 1761, Jacob and Jemima had removed to Kent, Connecticut, on the border with New York. The area was called New Preston, and later part became the town of Washington. They lived for a time in an area of Kent called Nine Partners, extending into New York. "Jacob lived on the New York State side for a time."

By the mid 1760's many Connecticut residents had migrated to the northeast corner of Pennsylvania. The area was unsettled and the residents actually tried to claim it for the state of Connecticut. A dispute arose between the two states which was not settled until well after the Revolutionary War. Jacob Stanton joined this migration. "Tradition says that he had tramped over the eastern part of Pennsylvania as early as 1774. In 1778 he and William Goodrich*15, his son-in-law, had taken up land on the Paupack in Northampton County. Jacob planned to go on ahead of his family and prepare a place for habitation. His place was known as Little Meadow on the Great Swamp."

The Paupack River/Creek is a tributary of the Lackawaxen River, which flows into the Delaware River. It was later called the Wallenpaupack Creek - meaning "deep stagnant water". It was dammed in 1926 to form a lake. The lake and remaining stream form the border between what is now Wayne and Pike Counties. The Great Swamp was the area between the Paupack and the Lackawanna River/Scranton. Jacob's residence was therefore probably near what is now the village of Angels, at the southern tip of Wayne County. In 1793, Jacob was referred to as being a resident of Upper Smithfield Townshsip in Northhampton County. This lies just to the south of Wayne County. (At least two legal transactions of Jacob's were handled by John Phillips, Justice of the Peace, Luzerne County - see Phillips Line.)

Phineas Goodrich's History of Wayne County states that "according to the accounts given by the old settlers in Paupack, a man named Strong first built here in 1770. Soon after the battle at Wyoming, he, with some others, had a desperate fight with the Indians at this place. Strong and his family were all massacred, and Jacob Stanton was the only white man that escaped. He fled and notified the settlers upon the Paupack of their danger. Late in the fall of 1779, Stanton came back to the place and found that the Indians had burned down the house. He dug a grave and gathered up the bones of the whites and Indians, and placing them together raised a mound over them... (He) built a house and moved his wife and family to Little Meadows in 1780 or 1781, where, during his life, he kept a public house and was succeeded in the same business by his son William Stanton and Moses Dolph." The Stanton family tradition has it that a Seth Hammond also escaped the massacre with Jacob, and that the family actually moved from Connecticut in 1783.

With Jacob and Jemima at Little Meadows was his son William, with wife Rachael Goodrich, his daughter Rebecca, with her husband William Goodrich, and one child (name unknown). Other children apparently stayed in Connecticut.

Francis Asbury, the famous Methodist Circuit Rider, "riding on horseback, did missionary service among the scattered settlements... He writes of his visit to Jacob's Inn in his diary: 'In 1793 there lived a man here by the name of Stanton, whose one roomed log house, early styled an Inn, furnished accommodations for the wayfaring man and beast. The structure, standing on a knoll... was half occupied by a huge fireplace and chimney grouped from stone and mud. The guests, emboldened to ascend a ladder to the upper story where the bare rafters greeted the head off the aspirant, found only boughs and grass spread upon the pole flooring for their reception and repose. Such was this rustic Inn, whose counterpart was seen in many of the new settlements. Homely as was its fare, plain as were its pewter dishes and single hunting knife, the venison or bear meat swinging from the trammels, hunger made always welcome'."

"Jacob continued his hotel business until his death, which we judge occurred in the year 1795. He was buried with his wife, Jemima, in the 'northwest corner of the old orchard near the wall'." Jacob and Jemima had ten children, the names of only three are known to the author:

1. Joshua b. 1756,m.Nov.8,1774,Sarah Berman.
2. WILLIAM b.April 1,1761,m. ? ,RACHAEL GOODRICH.
3. REBECCA b. ? ,m. ? ,WILLIAM GOODRICH.*15

Two children of Jacob and Jemima were ancestors of Joseph Elary Stanton. (Rebecca was the great-grandmother of Watie Elliott, mother of Joseph Elary, and William was the great-grandfather of Elary, Joseph Elary's father. Rebecca also is an ancestor of Daisy May Holgate.) William Stanton was born in Stonington. He married Rachael Goodrich, the daughter of Nathaniel and Mary Pond Goodrich*15 of Litchfield, Connecticut, about fifteen miles east of Kent. While still residing in Kent, William served in the Revolutionary War, first (in October 1777) in Brinkerhoff's Regiment of the New York State Militia, Captain John Van Buntschoten's Company, which participated in an "expedition to Peekskill guarding the river" (per National Archives records), and second (in 1779) in Hopkin's Regiment at Fish Kill. In both cases he was a private. After the death of Jacob in Pennsylvania, William took over his business, residing there until 1795 when he sold it to Moses Dolph. He removed to Providence, just north of Scranton (apparently William and Rebecca Stanton Goodrich removed there also). In 1815, William purchased 421 acres "in Abington, extending from what is now Clark's Green to Leaches Flats". It is believed that the family never moved there but remained in Providence. The dates of death of William and Rachael are unknown. Rachael was remembered as a "Kindly grandmother who always brought 'sweet-cake' in her satchel when she came to visit... She had the charm that appeals to little children. William Stanton was a quiet, dignified man, who held the respect of all who knew him." They had the following children:

1. Jacob b. ? ,m.ca.1806,Polly Irwin.
2. Samuel b.Jan.26,1789,m.Sept.14,1814,Polly Reynolds.
3. Joseph b.June 17,1791,m.March 1,1812,Eunice Reynolds.
4. WILLIAM b.Feb.2,1793,m.March 1816,JUDITH ACKLEY.
5. Polly b.Nov.4,1794,m.Jan.2,1814,Griffin Reynolds.
6. DAVID b.Oct.16,1799,m.ca.1818,REBEKAH CROSSMAN.
7. Ephriam b.July 25,1802,m. 1822,Katherine Mott.

Two sons of William and Rachael (William Jr. and David) became ancestors of Joseph Elary Stanton. William Jr. was born February 2,1793, at Little Meadows. He served in the War of 1812, as a private in Montgomery's Regiment of the Pennsylvania Militia (45th Regiment) in November 1814, in Captain Joseph Camp's Company. In his early life he was accidentally shot in the hip which made him permanently lame. He walked with a cane the rest of his life." After moving to Providence with his family, he married Judith Ackley, daughter of Silas and Esther Guinn Ackley*16, in March 1816. Judith "was a real helpmate for a pioneer farmer. Besides being an excellent housekeeper, she was an expert weaver. She owned her own loom and made carpet, coverlets and cloth by the yard. She certainly 'looked well to the ways of her household and ate not the bread of idleness'." William and Judith bought land, containing a large pond and a number of springs, in nearby Scott Township (where they were residing at the time of the 1850 Census). There they lived the rest of their lives. Their land was eventually flooded and became part of the Scranton Reservoir. Judith died February 25,1862, and William died April 15,1867. They had the following children, all born at Scott:

1. William A. b.April 28,1817,m.March 28,1849,Mary Fike.
2. Arabella b.May 18,1819,m.April 16,1843,Welcome Stone.
3. Catherine b.June 15,1821,died young.
4. Rachael b.June 6,1824,m.April 7,1849,William Fike.
5. Emily b.June 9,1826,m. ? ,Merritt Mead.
6. EUNICE M. b.Feb.1,1828,m. ? ,AARON ELLIOTT.*15
7. Hannah b.April 28,1832,m. ? ,Palmer Elliott.
8. Giles b.Nov.23,1836,m.(1) ? ,Elnora Burdick,(2)May 7, 1864,Lydia Jane White.
9. Silas L. b.June 30,1839,m.Nov.25,1865,Celinda White.

William's brother David was born October 16,1799, in Providence. In 1818, "he married Rebekah Crossman Batchelor who was born...in Massachusetts." She was the daughter of Samuel and Elizabeth Cole Crossman*17. Rebekah "married, first, Jonas Batchelor...(who) was drowned March 2,1818". David "was a farmer and a carpenter. He lived in Benton (not the village of Benton, west of Wilkes-Barre, but the township north of Abington) and later moved into Abington (where they resided at the time of the 1850 Census). David died July 26,1854. Rebekah died January 12,1864. They are buried in Hickory Grove Cemetery at Waverly", Pennsylvania, and had the following children:

1. Rosalinda b.Dec.8,1819,m.Dec.29,1836,Jeremiah Briggs.
2. David C. b.Dec.2,1821,m.(1)Feb.1,1844,Julia Gorman, (2)Dec.7,1887,Albina Capwell Pelham.
3. JONAS BATCHELOR b.May 26,1824,m.(1)Oct.25,1849,NANCY HOBBS, (2)March 21,1861,Mary Post.
4. Jemima W. b.Nov.26,1826,m.Oct.16,1845,Simon Armstrong.
5. Harriet N. b.Feb.9,1829,m.ca.1855,Jeremaih Briggs (Rosalinda's widower).
6. Mary S. b.March 22,1831,m.Oct.25,1849,Stephen Miller.*18

Jonas Batchelor Stanton was born in Abington on May 26,1824. "He was married by the Rev. John Miller to Nancy Hobbs on October 25,1849. She was the daughter of Isaac and Susan Ackley Hobbs... Nancy died September 7,1859", the oldest of her four children being only ten years old. About a year and a half later, on March 21,1861, Jonas married Mary Post. It is probable that Jonas lived in Center County for a time since three of his children married Elliotts of that county. Jonas died at Sweet Valley, Luzerne County, Pennsylvania, January 21,1864. Jonas and Nancy had the following children:

1. Laura Ann b.July 25,1850,m.(1) ? ,Elijah Johnson. (2) ? ,Silas Elliot.
2. Henry Charles b.Aug.7,1852,m. ? ,Ann Elliott.
3. ELARY AMERON b.Dec.10,1854,m.ca.1875,WATIE ELLIOTT.
4. Emory Jay b.March 27,1856,m.May 29,1887,Hetty Jane Shaw.

Elary Ameron was born December 10,1854, probably in Abington, and married his second cousin, Watie Eunice Elliott, about 1875 in Center County. She was also a Stanton - via both of her parents. Her mother was

ELARY, HENRY AND EMORY STANTON

Eunice Stanton, daughter of William Jr., and her father, Aaron Elliott*15, was the grandson of Rebecca Stanton (daughter of Jacob). Apparently Elary moved to the Center County area sometime before 1875. The 1880 Census found him residing in Clearfield County (next to Center County) working as a coal miner in the Morris Mines (probably near what is now Morrisdale - across the Moshannon River from Philipsburg of Center County). According to his eldest son, Robert Henry, their family lived at "Beaver", "by a cemetery at Strawband-Beaver Road near Black Moshannon, between Julian and the Dam... (they) then lived where Tom Brown lives...near the Black Oak School where Steele Hollow Road and Mudlick Road meet ...then lived at Mudlick Hollow where Clyde Maurer lives." He recalls walking the road from Black Moshannon to Philipsburg at night and hearing the wildcats "making horrible screeching sounds and following right along behind but in the woods... they weighed 20-50 pounds (and were) greatly feared". Son Joseph Elary was said to have been born on a farm at Bear Run, probably referring to Black Bear Run, a small stream near Philipsburg. According to the 1900 Census, the family had moved back to the Scranton area, in Scott Township, where some of the children married. Joseph had moved out of the household and was a boarder in the Harry Hubbard household in Scott.

By 1917, Elary, Watie, sons Henry (Robert Henry) and Lewis and their families had moved to Hay Springs, Nebraska for their health. Henry and Lewis apparently had tuberculosis, while Elary had severe arthritis which eventually confined him to a wheelchair. "They moved back to Center County

EARLY CONNECTICUT MARRIAGES.

PREFACE.

The first settlers of Connecticut came from Massachusetts Bay and Plymouth Colonies and located at Windsor, Hartford and Wethersfield. All alike being devoted disciples of Christ, Gospel ministers came also, and at once Christian worship was established and parishes formed. The same condition of things prevailed among other settlers from the East who a little later located along the Connecticut shore. A church whose learned minister was to serve both in the capacity of instructor of youth and man's spiritual guide was the essential ambition of every permanent and promising settlement.

Since agriculture, both by necessity and choice, was in those trying times the only dependence of our sturdy ancestors, the possession of the necessary land with a little to spare became a common and prevailing impulse; while the occasional cessation of Indian warfares gave the ambitious sons and later arrivals the increased courage to locate for themselves farther and farther inland. And all naturally resulting in new parish organizations and later by division of the old or the opening of new territory, into other incorporated towns. In each and every case the church serving as that nucleus around which a township was formed.

We cannot do better than record here the dates of the organization of the earlier parishes: Windsor, 1630; Hartford, 1632; Wethersfield, 1635; Stamford, 1635; New Haven, 1639; Stratford, 1639; Old Saybrook, 1639; Milford, 1639; Fairfield, 1639; Guilford, 1643; Branford, 1644; New London, 1650.

Prior to the year 1659 there were in Connecticut eleven parish organizations. (And we have reference here to Congregational churches only, since they were the earliest and most prevalent everywhere). Before 1700 the eleven had increased to thirty-three. And by 1750 to 147, which number by the year 1800 had reached 200.

It is to this large but limited number that our attention has been directed. From among these copies of baptisms and marriages have been secured, out of which the following complete records of marriages have been taken.

We cannot speak in too high praise of that faithfulness to duty which seems as a rule to have possessed the early pastors who, amidst their studious cares, gave close attention to their parish records carefully to note both the marriages and baptisms among their own. Every parish seems to have possessed at some time these inherited treasures. At the same time have we reason to regret that lack of appreciation and careless indifference on the part of some responsible church official, whose possible neglect had been the cause of the total or partial loss of the interesting and valuable manuscripts alone telling the church's story of the first families' spiritual life. Over and over again has come to us the sad report that the early church records had been lost or burned or somehow destroyed, possibly carried away and never returned, no one seemingly enough interested to trace and restore them to their proper place. So that as from remote and inaccessible places there have come to us, one by one, copies of such records taken from old church books still extant through all the years, we feel a sense of gratitude not only that in all the many changes of time and circumstance some kind and watchful hand had given protection; but that by these alone were we still able to gain access to the inner life of some little flock of the Heaven-Bound that may even have embraced ancestors of our own name.

A good and sufficient reason exists therefore for this publication. Another and possibly still more appreciable reason lies in the additional aid which these records will afford an increasing number whose genealogical endeavors have been suddenly checked by an hopeless failure to secure much desired data. It is possible the very fact wanted is herein or may supply the long sought clue.

Our town records in a number of cases have been found to be imperfect, pages missing and mutilated, sometimes lost. The town clerks of Connecticut are not as a rule in sympathy with genealogical research, so that the satisfaction to be derived from them is at times extremely limited. With some very worthy exceptions, however, it is true that their interest in the preservation of ancient birth and marriage records amounts to a most ordinary willingness to allow the ancient books a place in the old and crowded safe by increased use to wear out slowly, feed a worm, or part piece by piece with a tattered leaf.

We are pleased to say, however, that somehow, whether altogether due to our colonial societies or otherwise, a gradual awakening is taking place, old towns themselves taking action till we trust that as in Massachusetts the State of Connecticut may yet make some enactment looking at last to a common reconstruction.

Now, with reference to the following marriages, permit us to say that all herein are from church books and are the complete records (so far as they exist) of those churches to 1800. It is probable that many of them may be found recorded on the town records, but it is true that herein is much the town records do not contain, which fact gives to the publication additional value.

It is to be noted, too, that the copy is exact, so far as the spelling is concerned. The arrangement is our own. Where a difficulty has been experienced with a name in copy two spellings are given, or a (?) used. The aim being to place before the reader just what the records contain.

We can but trust it may be of some little service to the many descendants of the old and patriotic Connecticut settlers scattered all over this great land.

Dear Deanna Vosburgh Smith
Box 192
Fort Plain, New York 13339

Dear Deanna:

Thank you for your quick response and even though we didn't prove that Joseph was the son of Nathan Stanton, we addad to the circumstantial evadence.

I wrote, immediately, to Vivian Brecknell but as yet have not heard from her. Also plan to write to Dorothea Cooper. I do appreciate the addresses.

Do check in Schenectady for Nicholas Hill. A family record, kept by Nicholas' 18th and last child, John Lindsey, says that Henry Hill and Martha Forss/Forsen were the parents of Nicholas and that Henry Hill's father was Adam Hill from Ireland. The only time that I have ever found a 'Adam' is in the Pa. Archive Series (3rd) Vol 24, where he was listed as having received a Land Warrant, 4 Sept 1734 in Co. of Philadelphia; also in Pa. Rev. Soldiers..Pvt. in Rhodes Co., 4th Batt. 1777, Philadelphia City, Pa.; in Naturalizations of Foreign Protestants in American and West Indian Colonies there is listed Adam Hill Phila. Co., 21 Aug 1743 and Gotliff Hill of Lancaster Co., 21 Sept. 1743.

IF the Hill family story is true, Henry was born ca 1740 in Schenectady, m. ca 1765, d. ca 1776. Issue:

Nicholas Hill b. 22 Dec 1766
Henry Hill b. Dec 1768
Nancy Hill b. 20 Jan 1773

All, supposedly born in Schenectady, N. Y.

I've even checked the Corsen Family as Martha's last name has been listed as Forsee/Corsen??, in various places. There are Coursens, in N. Y. ..Dutch families. Give this 4 or 5 hours and see what you come up with.

Sincerely,

Dear Vivian:

First chance that I've had to write. I'm a Certified Record Searcher and work at Clayton Genealogical Library here in Houston. If I can ever do any checking for you, perhaps we could just exchange work. o.k.? I'm enclosing my check for $5.00. That will help with stamps.

I do appreciate your checking and your suggestions. We have Barbour's and Charles Hale, which I've checked. I have a query out how to DAR and Washington for papers. Maybe there the information will turn up.

Again my thanks.

Sincerely,

Vivian

Dear Vivian!

Please don't spoil me! I am sure you have the same bunch of chiselers approach you. Recently I have had more than my share. Lady calls long distance the other night and wanted me to look in my files for her relative and tell her on the phone. I have this happen quite often so for someone to send me a nice gesture as you have is a bit too much for me----I really do have many very nice clients and I knock myself out for them.

YES, I shall be glad to exchange time with you. We have all census records for east of Ohio, New England, Penn, N. J. Extensive holdings for all of this area for VR etc. We have extensive published genealogies. We are rated in the top five genealogical libraries in the US.

I have been snowed under this past week as I have been sitting at the typewriter typing a genealogy on a Palatine German Family. I did not accomplish the search but I did the compiling. All my mail waits as does my searching. I am off to Canada this week on a search. Have fun ... Vivian

Dear Mrs. Brecknell:

Deanna Smith has given me your address and since I think that Vivians should stick together!!, I'm asking you to do some checking for me. Enclosed is a check for two hours work, if you charge $8.00 per hour.

I need proof that Joseph Stanton, b. 20 Dec 1786 in Stonington, Conn. m. 1809 Jane Van Derveer, d. 13 Nov 1822 (bu. Florida, N. Y.) is the son of Nathan Stanton and his cousin Anna Stanton.

I have the Stanton Bible pages that is a typewritten copy, that list a Joseph with the right dates. Also have a cemetery record, Montg. Co., where Joseph (right dates) is buried with Nathan. Would really like some legal doc...a will or settlement of estate, showing Joseph, my son. Since Deanna couldn't turn up a will, it is hoped that you might. Per a deed, Nathan was there in Onondaga Co., in 1835, and he died that year.

Deanna has checked all church records available to her trying to find a birth/bapt. for Sophia Gere Stanton, child of Joseph and Jane but to no avail. My Sophia Gere married Francis Asbury Hill 23 Oct., 1839. She was b. 28 Mar 1821, d. 2 May 1842 in Florida, Montg.,N.Y.

So you see, I need proof that Joseph is son of Nathan Stanton and that Sophia is daughter of Joseph Stanton.

Sure hope that you can find something.

Sincerely,

Enclosure, check for $16.00

Dear Mrs. Smith:

My records tell me that it has been a few years since last we corresponded....12 Mar. 1978, in fact!

I've recently had a break through with my Hill/Stanton line and I wish to pursue it further. If you are available, please use the enclosed check and see if you can find out some things on the Stanton line. $30.00

I need proof that Joseph Stanton, b. 20 Dec 1786 Stonington, Conn. in 1809 to Jane Van Derveer (dau/John Van Deveer) d. 13 Nov 1822 (bu. Florida, N.Y.) is the son of Nathan Stanton and his cousin, Anna Stanton.

The Library in Fonda, N. Y., in 1977, sent me the Stanton Bible pages. This is rather a secondary source...it states Joseph and his birth and death, etc. You mentioned in your letter of 1978, that the children of Nathan and Anna were buried with them on the Blood Farm, Lower Cleveland Ave., Amsterdam, N.Y. ' May I have a copy of the title page of this cemetery record and the page where it mentions Nathan and Anna and I'm hoping, their son, Joseph!! Also, if available, copies of the actual Bible page from the Stanton Bible. The copy I have is just a typewritten 3 page transcript.

Also, I need proof that Joseph and Jane (Van Derveer) are the parents of my Sophia Gere Stanton. She married, Francis Asbury Hill, 2[illegible] Oct. 1839, b. 28 Mar 1821 in Dutchess Co., N.Y., d. 2 May 1842 in Florida, N.Y.

Our library here seems to have very little on Dutchess Co. I've checked Barbour's Index, found Nathan, his father, etc., but nothing that will tie my Joseph to Nathan.

From my 1973 Catalogue of Montgomery Co. holdings, they list in the family history section, a book on the Winegar Family and one on the Roe/Rowe Family. I would like for you to see if these books are connected with my two families.

There is a new Mosher Family book out that lists my Sarah Mosher, b. 1772 Albany, N.Y., d. 11 Mar 1832, m. Nicholas Hill (father of above Francis A.) I need proof that she is the daughter of Stephen Mosher, which this book says was b. ca. 1749 or before in Dutchess, N.Y. d. 1820/24 in Coeymans, Albany Co. N.Y., m. Catherine Rauh(Roe), dau. of Wilhelmus Rauh and Ann Winnegar. No dates on these last 3 people. If you happen to find the Sarah Mosher/Stephen connection (wonderful) but don't make a effort right now, do check the family history books for a connection, and let me know.

This is quite an order, I know, but I get to the typewriter so seldom now days, that I just had to get it all out of my system!! I just know that you can help me.

Sincerely, Vivian J.

We have the death notices from the Syracuse Newspaper "Onondaga Standard" for the year 1835. There is no mention of Nathan Stanton.

There is no letters of Administrations for Nathan Stanton in 1835. I didn't expect there to be a will as the old fellow was 86 years old and probably didn't have any property left to dispose of. I would assume that he was living with a daughter or a son in Onondaga Co. I note some Stantons living in Lysander. The date of death was established many years ago in the DAR and in wrands. I believe that Syracuse would mean the vicinity of Syracuse.

Have you checked the DAR Lineage books to see if anyone else joined Nathan Stanton coming up thru Joseph? Also the DAC and Founder's and Patriot's?

Did you check the Barbour index for Joseph's birth date?

Joseph did have a sister Sophia who married Robert Geer. Perhaps this is the significance of naming his dau Sophia.- All of which is no help to you.

I didn't want to go off the deep end and check all of these references when I suspect that you may have done just about everything. Did you check to see if Nathan had a pension?

I am sorry not to be of more assistance to you. I have returned your check as I used very little time in a search.

Dear Vivian,

It was nice to hear from you again.

I was unable to prove that Joseph was the son of Nathan Stanton. Joseph is buried with Nathan and wife. See enclosed copy taken from Vol 1,"Cemeteries of Montg. Co.,N.Y.".Nathan sold land in Mont.Co. but did not name his dec'd son JOseph:

County Clerk,Fonda,Montgomery Co.,N.Y.

Nathan Stanton (grantor)
Daniel Cady (grantee)
37:490
recorded 17 June 1835

....I Nathan Stanton of Town of Florida (Mont.Co.), now of Town of Salina,Onondaga Co....in consideration of $2.00...(sells) land in Town of Florida...distinguished as the Stanton Islands.He mentions his son-in-law,Asa Cady,dec'd dau. Ann;son Nathan,Jr., and the family burying ground on lot #79 (4 sq. rods of land.

(This is his last grantor deed)

Joseph Stanton (Grantee)
Bela Fosgate and wife
16:95
18 Dec. 1817

Indenture 5 Sept. 1817 between Bela Fosgate,and

Margarette Fosgate his wife of Herkimer in Herkimer Co,N.Y. and Joseph Stanton of Town of Florida,Mont.Co....in consideration of $153.75... (land in his actual possession)...land in Town of Florida on S. side of the Mohawk River...to the line of a lot owned by Nathan Stanton.

(Apparently the deed for the sale of this property was not recorded and it is not in the index).

Letters of Administration were granted to Jane Stanton when Joseph died (per Surrogates office,Mont.Co.) There is no probate file for him unfortunately. If Nathan died in Mont.Co. he left no Will and Letters of Adm. were not granted. Per the "D.A.R. Lineage Books",he died in Syracuse. Several persons joined D.A.R. through Nathan's line and all but one said that he d. in Syracuse.One member claimed that he died in Town of Florida. Have you had Wills in Onondaga Co. checked for him? Per the deed he was there in 1835,and he died that year. I have a friend who is a researcher and will abstract the will (if any) of Nathan if you wish.

I checked all church records available to me covering Dutchess,Ulster,Greene,Albany,Schenectady, Rensselaer,Montgomery,Fulton and Herkimer Co. N.Y. for birth/bapt. rec. of Sophia Stanton.Joseph and Jane had children bapt. at the Protestant Dutch Reformed Church, Town of Florida,Village of Minaville,Mont.Co. but no entries after 1814,that of Caty Ann.The next entry is that of Enders Stanton,son of Ashbury and Sophia 1842. Did a family record state that Sophia was born in Dutchess Co.? Do you think there is a chance that Joseph went westward in NY state to Onondaga Co. and had Sophia there?

A Caty Ann Stanton of Duanesburg married 1830 to George Sanford of Amsterdam.I found this in the Christ Episco. Church of Duanesburg,Schen. Co. I don't know if she is the Caty Ann above or not.If you are positive that Sophia was born in Dutchess Co., I will send you some contacts.

I did not find the birth/bapt. rec. of Sarah Mosher in Bethlehem,Albany Co. nor in the records of the churches of Albany,Rensselaer,Greene,Columbia,Dutchess,Schenectady Co. Jonathan Pearson who compiled books on the early settlers of Albany and Schenectady Co. has nothing pertinent to your line in his volumes.

Margarette Fogarte his wife of Herkimer Co,N.Y. and Joseph Stanton of Town of Florida,Mont.Co....in consideration of $1537.75... (land in his actual possession)...land in Town of Florida on S. side of the Mohawk River...to the line of a lot owned by Nathan Stanton.

(Apparently the deed for the sale of this property was not recorded and it is not in the index).

Letters of administration were granted to Jane Stanton when Joseph died (per Surrogates office,Mont.Co.) There is no probate file for him unfortunately. If Nathan died in Mont.Co. he left no Will and letters of Adm. were not granted. Per the "U.A.R. Lineage Books",he died in Syracuse. Several persons joined D.A.R. through Nathan's line and all but one said that he d. in Syracuse.One member claimed that he died in Town of Florida. Have you had Mills in Onondaga Co. checked for him? Per the deed he was there in 1837,and he died that year. I have a friend who is a researcher and will abstract the will (if any) of Nathan if you wish.

I did not find mention in any of these counties,* of Stephen ,i.e. his marriage,bapt. of any of his children,* his birth.
* exception-I found bapt. of a dau. Annatjen bpt. 27 Aug. 1769 at the Reformed Church,Rhinebeck,Dutchess Co. She was shown as dua. of Stephen Moscher and Catherine Rauh.This was the only entry.

Robert E. Lord,currently of Johnstown,Fulton Co., typed the Winnegar-Finger material.Copies enc. as they relate to Hannah Winneger and William Rowe. Not of much help to you.Mr. Lord mentions that he has only covered the first three generations of the Winnegar family. "Some Descendents of Hugh Roe An Immigrant To The Mass. Bay Colony From England ca 1642",is indexed.Nothing pertinent.

I'm sorry but we do not have the original bible entries you asked for. Our typed copy was given to us by Mrs. Anna Blood Johnson (no dates). I am sure she is long deceased and have no idea who has possession of the bible now. Have you checked to see if the National D.A.R. has a copy? Perhaps the Amsterdam Chapter has a copy. I don't have an address but there is someone I know who is a member that may be able to help you:

There was a STANTON bible in possession of Mrs. John L. Voorhees,107 Division St.,Amsterdam (1931) which includes descendants of Nathan Stanton showing Joseph as his son. Do you have this? I did not know if you were sent this in 1978 or if the Archives has sent it to you.Again,it is a typed copy.Were you sent copies of the Stanton data in family file 31-C? I checked the Hill and Van Derveer family files for clues but found none.

I recently learned the the Barbour collection is not complete.I had been making enquires because I believe that the Vosburgh family of Salisbury Conn., are mine. I have been told that there are more complete records-but where? State Library at Hartford??

I don't know if the D.A.R. rec. at Albany State Library would be helpful,re Mosher/Stanton but they are all indexed and I will check them for you when I am in Albany again.I'm sorry that I could not be more helpful to you at this time.I re-checked Schenectady Dutch Reformed rec. for birth/bapt. of Nicholas Hill.Nothing in the index for a 1766

I research in Schenectady frequently and will check the pertinent HILL records for you at the Historical Soc. and surrogates if you wish. The Schen. Hist. Soc. has a fine collection of records for Schenectady Co.

Research fees have increased since you last wrote.I did,however,give you 5 hours this week and will give you another hour at Albany at no extra fee. Fees are now $8.00 per hour.Since you last wrote they increased from $3. to $5. to $6. to the current rate of $8.00. I do not have access to Historical and Biographical material for Dutchess Co.

If I can be of any further assistance,please contact me again. It was nice to hear from you again, and I'm glad to know you are still busy working on on your family history.

Dear Deanna:

For some reason a question that you raised in one of your letters stuck with me. You said that you had recently learned that the Barbour collection was not complete and you wondered what or where the more complete records were.

The Charles Hale Collection is supposed to be an update on Barbours. We have it here at Clayton, would you like for me to check something for you? Maybe we could exchange time, if you would like.

Let me hear from you.

Sincerely,

Peter Noyce of Penton, Southampton.
Thomas Noyce, his sonne.
Elizabeth " " daughter."

. . . .

(This family does not seem to be closely related to James and Nicholas, as the son Thomas, in a legal document, refers to Nicholas as his "good and trusty friend Nicholas Noyes." They settled in Sudbury, Mass., and their genealogy will be found in Volume II.)

No record has been found of the place and date of the landing of James and Nicholas, but it was probably on the bank of the Mystic river, as the records show that they settled in Medford in 1634, and that they moved to Newbury the following year. On arriving, they sailed up the Parker river (then called the Quascacunquen) to a point a short distance below where the bridge now stands. Tradition says that Nicholas was the first to leap ashore.

The descendants of Nicholas spread over eastern Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Vermont and Maine, and from those states over all the northern states and into Canada; while those of his brother James were most numerous in Massachusetts, Connecticut, and Rhode Island, whence they migrated to New York and the western states. Only in the counties of Lamoille and Bennington, Vermont, have many of the name been found that belong to that line. Comparatively few have been found in the south or the territories, or in Maine, who are descendants of James.

NOYES COATS OF ARMS.

By permission of the author, Mr. James Atkins Noyes, of Harvard University, the following extract is made from an article written by him for the N. E. Historical and Genealogical Register:—

"NOYES INSCRIPTION AND MEMORANDA.

BY JAMES ATKINS NOYES, A. B., PH. B.

A photograph of the light-brown stone tablet which covers the remains of Rev. James Noyes, in the ancient Palmer burying ground, upon a sloping hill on the east side of Wequetequoc Cove, midway between Stonington, Connecticut, and Westerly, Rhode Island, is reproduced in fac-simile.

Rev. James Noyes was a son of Rev. James Noyes of Newbury, Mass., and grandson of Rev. William Noyes, rector of Cholderton, county Wilts, England. He was born in Newbury, Mass., 11 March, 1639-40; was graduated at Harvard College, 1659; ordained 10 Sept., 1674, as the first minister of Stonington, Conn.; married, 11 Sept., 1674, Dorothy, daughter of Thomas and Anna (Lord) Stanton. Rev. James Noyes was one of the founders of Yale College.

The photograph was taken in 1889, under the direction of Judge Richard A. Wheeler, of Stonington, Conn. The tablet was recut before the photograph was taken. George W. Marshall, LL. D., Rouge Croix, Heralds' College, London, says that the only Noy-Noye-Noyes arms recorded are those of William Noy of Buryan, County Cornwall, England, who died in 1593, and whose grandson was William Noy, attorney general to Charles I. Those arms were granted by Robert Cook, Clarencieux, and the blazon is as follows:—

Coat—Azure three crosses in bend Argent.

Crest—On a chapeau azure turned up ermine a dove argent in the beak an olive branch Vert.

The epitaph was written by Rev. Eliphalet Adams, Harvard College, 1694, who died in 1773, pastor in 1720 of the First Congregational Church, New London, Conn. The original draft was, in 1889, in the Sunday School library room of the First Congregational Church, Stonington, Conn.

Rev. William Noyes, rector of Cholderton, county Wilts, Eng. (a town eleven miles from Salisbury), matriculated at University College, Oxford, 15 Nov., 1588, æt. 20 years, and was graduated B. A. 31 May, 1592. He married Anne Parker. He died intestate before 30 April, 1622, when an inventory was made, and widow appointed administratrix 28 May, 1622. (Court of Archdeacon of Sarum.) She was buried at Cholderton, 7 March, 1657, æt. 82 years (per parish register). Her will is at Somerset House, London (Wootton, 130), and mentions sons James and Nicholas, in New England. Will made 18 March, 1655, proved 21 of April, 1558, at London, (and gives "one shilling to each of my sons, James and Nicholas, now in New England."*)

*Added by Col. Noyes.

Their sons, Rev. James and Deacon Nicholas Noyes, in March, 1633, embarked for New England in the MARY AND JOHN of London, with their cousin, Rev. Thomas Parker, and were among the settlers of Newbury, Mass., May, 1635.

Rev. James Noyes, born in England about 1608; matriculated at Brasenose College, Oxford, 22 Aug., 1627, but was not graduated; died at Newbury, Mass., 22 Oct., 1656, aet. 48; married, 1633, Sarah, eldest daughter of Mr. Joseph Brown, of Southampton, county Hants, Eng. She died 13 Sept., 1691, at Newbury, Mass. His will, made 17th Oct., 1656, proved 26 Nov., 1656, mentions wife Sara and children, brother deacon Nicholas Noyes, and cousin Rev. Thomas Parker. Inventory of estate amounting to £657, 11s. 4d. Her will, made 11 Nov., 1681, proved 29 Sept., 1691. Inventory of estate amounted to £1108.

The branch of the Noyes family of East Mascalls, county Sussex, England, represented by Thomas Herbert Noyes, B. A. Ch. Ch. Oxford, claim the arm as given below:—

Coat—Azure three crosses crosslett in bend Argent.

Crest—On a chapeau gules turned up ermine a dove Argent in the beak an olive branch Vert.

ROBERT GERE was born in Groton, Conn., 20 November 1796; died in Syracuse, N. Y., 18 December 1877, aged 81 years; married 25 October 1820 Sophia Stanton, born 23 November 1798; died 16 November 1879.

His boyhood was passed on his father's farm in Groton, Conn. Soon after his marriage, in 1820, he moved to Florida, Montgomery County, N. Y., where he became a contractor on the Erie Canal, then nearing completion in that section. In the spring of 1824 he moved again, to Geddes, and settled on a farm west of the village, in what is now a part of the city of Syracuse. He early engaged in the manufacture of salt, which became one of the principal industries of Onondaga, and continued for many years to be interested in that business. In 1832 he became connected with the lumber trade, shipping pine from the Cicero swamp. In 1835–36, he contracted for the manufacture and delivery of rails and ties for the Utica & Schenectady, and Auburn & Syracuse railroads. In 1843, he left his farm and went to Syracuse, then a village, where he formed a partnership, and started a furnace and foundry business, which proved very successful. In 1848 he was appointed, by the Governor, superintendent of the Onondaga Salt Springs, a position which he held for three years. He then resigned, to take the contract for the building of the locks at Salina, also doing the section work on part of the Oswego canal. In connection with others he then organized the Geddes Coarse Salt Company, of which he was chosen president, a position he held until his death. In the meantime he had also become extensively interested in various iron industries, which still remain largely under the control Pawcatuck River, doing a successful business for several years. But the West Indies' climate did not agree with Mr. Stanton's health, which so impaired it that he did not live but a few years, dying before 1688, which fact we learn from his mother's will.

Robert Stanton (No. 9) m. Joanna Gardiner Sept. 12, 1677, daughter of Thomas and Lucy (Smith) Gardiner of Roxbury, Mass. He lived in Pawcatuck, Stonington, Conn., and d. Oct. 24, 1724.

NOTE.—Robert Stanton was a soldier in King Philip's war, as was his older brothers, Capt. John and Joseph Stanton. In 1676, Capt. George Denison, with a large company of subordinate officers and men, who were raised in New London county, went in pursuit of the remnant of King Philip's army, and while a portion of them, under the command of Canonchet, the last of the Royal Narragansett Sachems, were encamped on the banks of the Pawcatuck River in Rhode Island, they were attacked by the English, under Capt. George Denison, accompanied by some of the friendly Pequot and Mohegan Indians, when most of the Narragansett and Wampanaog Indians fled, leaving Canonchet almost entirely alone. As soon as he realized his situation, he too sought safety in flight. The Indian allies of the English and a few of the fleetest whites pursued him, and as he saw his pursuers were gaining on him he threw off his blanket, then his silver-laced coat and belt of peage, and ran with all possible speed, to escape from his enemies, and as he crossed the rivers ford he fell and wet his gun, which so embarrassed him in his flight that he was soon overtaken and surrendered to Robert Stanton, son of the Interpreter General Thomas Stanton, then not 22 years old. Being questioned by the young man, whom he personally knew, about a treaty of peace, between the English and Indians, and not wishing to recognize the authority of his youthful inquisitor, he looked upon him with lofty and defiant contempt, and said you are a child, you cannot understand matters of war; let your brother, Capt. John Stanton, or your chief, Capt. George Denison, come, then I will answer. But when the officers whom he had requested to see came up, he refused to enter into any negotiations with them, so he was brought a prisoner to Stonington, where a council of war was held, which he declined to recognize, and after his absolute refusal to enter into and abide by a treaty of peace with the English, who, after considering their defenseless conditions and his ferocious temper, he was condemned and ordered to be shot, and when told of his fate he said that "he liked it well, and should die before his heart had grown soft or he had said anything unworthy of himself," and so he was shot near Anguilla in Stonington.

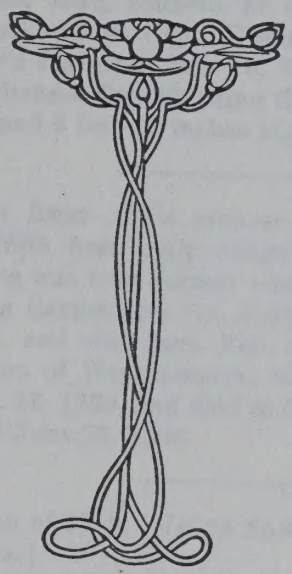
Revolutionary Soldiers

Resident or Dying in Onondaga County, N.Y.
With Supplementary List of Possible Veterans

Based on a Pension List of Franklin H. Chase, Syracuse, N. Y.



Prepared by Rev. W. M. Beauchamp, S. T. D., for the

Onondaga Historical Association

THE McDONNELL CO. MCMXIII SYRACUSE, N. Y.

EBENEZER KINGSLEY RUST—The family history describes this veteran, who was born in Southampton, Mass., Nov. 8, 1763. He was still there in 1790. There he married Lydia Lyman, who was born Jan. 6, 1765, and died in 1800. Then he married Mary Sheldon, Aug. 9, 1801. Having settled here, 1802-03, he died in Geddes, Aug. 2, 1819. He enlisted in Capt. Ebenezer Sheldon's Co., Col. Seth Murray's regiment, July 10, '80, from Hampshire Co., and was discharged Oct. 10, being then 17 years old, of light complexion, and 5 feet 11 inches high.

ZEBULON RUST—This pioneer came from Massachusetts about 1800, first to Onondaga Hill and then to Syracuse, where he was both farmer and inn-keeper. He served in Capt. John Carpenter's Co., Springfield, Mass., May 28-Aug. 28, '81, and was born Feb. 18, 1766. He married Aurelia Norton of Westhampton, who was born in Northampton, Nov. 18, 1769, and died in Syracuse, Feb. 10, 1844. He died there June 25, 1836.

A Veteran of 1776. | JACOB SAMMONS | Nov. 4, 1815, | Aged 64 Years. |

EVA VEEDER | His Wife | Died June 10, 1834, | Aged 73 Years. |

Myrtle Hill cemetery. Beside him lies his son Thomas, "a Veteran of 1812," and a grandson, now living in Syracuse, served in the war for the Union. The story of Jacob's captivity has been well told in Stone's Life of Brant. In 1790 the census placed him in Shawangunk, N. Y., where he was enrolled in the Revolution. Yet in 1786 he was a militia captain in Montgomery Co., then embracing Onondaga and other counties. In 1802 he came to Geddes, moved to Baldwinsville in 1803, and returned to Geddes in 1805.

AMOS STANTON, | Died Aug. 14, 1806. | Ae. 66 Y'rs. |

MARCY. | Wife of | Amos Stanton | Died Sept. 17, 1814, | Ae. 68 Y'rs. |

Oakwood cemetery. He served in Capt. Elisha Whittlesey's Co., 3rd Berkshire Regt., Mass., in '80, and went first to Mayfield, N. Y. from Lee, Mass., to Jamesville in

'91, and to Syracuse in 1805. Rufus, their thirteenth child, was born in Mayfield, in 1788, as is said, but the family was recorded in Westfield in 1790. There was another of the name who was killed. Mr. S. was first interred in Salina, then in Oakwood. He was a short, thick-set man, with light hair and blue eyes.

NATHAN STANTON — This early settler was born in Stonington, Ct., in 1749, and died in Syracuse in 1835. Anna Stanton was his wife. He served as ensign in the company of his brother, Capt. William Stanton, Conn. militia, in '76. In 1790 he was in New London, Ct.

Farewell dear friends, Dry up | your tears |
I must lie here till christ | appears. |

This veteran lies in the ruined Lodi cemetery on South Beech street. In the 12th Albany Co. regiment was a captain of this name, and also a younger man, who was his son and who married Catharine Hoffman. The father was born in Saratoga Co., and in 1790 the name was recorded in Half Moon, N. Y.

MANUEL TRUAIR | Died Sep. 24, 1841 | Ae. 84 Yrs. |

He was a Soldier | of the Revolution. |

Rev. John Truair | Died Apr. 25, 1845 | Ae. 64. Yrs. |

Oakwood cemetery. This pensioner was reported in Fabius in 1840, living with John Truair, whose name is on the same stone. He was the ancestor of the Truairs of Fabius, some of whom came to Syracuse. In 1790 he was in Granville, Washington Co., N. Y. His military record is not available.

In memory of | ISAAC VAN VLECK | who died May 19th | 1801 | aged 58 years. | Also | great company of the Indians, at a place called "Unquowa," now within the town of Fairfield, Conn.

A large party of the fugitive Pequods had imposed themselves by force upon the local tribe, and were now with them at their village, which was situated close to a great swamp. This swamp is described as about one mile in circumference, and divided, by a narrow strip of solid land, into two unequal parts. When the advance-guard of the English approached, all the Indians with one accord fled in dismay into the dense recesses of the swamp. Sergt. Palmer, with a squad of the advance-guard, hastened around by the smaller division of the swamp, to cut off escape by that side. Lieut. Richard Davenport, of Salem, Capt. Trask's company, with a few men rushed into the bushes, thinking to push through to the wigwams which were on the other side, suddenly found themselves sinking in the miry ground, entangled in the dense underbrush, and fiercely attacked by the savages. Lieut. Davenport, Sergts. John Wedgewood and Thomas Sherman and others, were severely wounded, and only with the greatest difficulty rescued from their perilous plight by the bravery of Sergts. Edward Riggs, of Roxbury, and Thomas Jeffrey, of Dorchester. The main body of the troops then advancing, the whole swamp was surrounded.

The line surrounding the swamp was, according to Capt. Mason, a very long one, being formed at a wide distance from the edge of the bushes; but was soon lessened by cutting through the narrow strip, thus shortening the "leaguer," and shutting the Indians into the smaller swamp.

The brief skirmish at the beginning admonished the English that they were now facing a brave and desperate foe, no longer entirely at their mercy. There was a rumor also, brought back by the two captive girls to Wethersfield, that the Pequods had some sixteen muskets, which they might craftily discharge upon their assailants unexpectedly. So they decided to hold a parley with the foe. Thomas Stanton was sent to speak with them, readily understanding their language, and offering to go upon this service. He soon returned with about two hundred old men, women, and children, including the local tribe. Then the warriors sent the challenge from the swamp, that they would fight it out with the English to the end. And Stanton, going once more to them, to urge terms of their surrender, was met with a fierce volley of arrows so as scarcely to escape with his life. Then the guards were set, and close watch kept all night with frequent shooting on both sides. In the deepest darkness, about an hour before the dawn, the savages massed their numbers, and, after some desperate fighting, broke through Capt. Patrick's lines, and escaped.

Capt. Mason speaks of Capts. Trask and Patrick, and also Sergt. Stares, as having taken part in this fight, besides those country. The officers of the Troopers were Capt. Wm. Davis, of Boston; Lieut. Peter Oliver and Cornet John Stedman, while Richard Waite was Commissary. The following officers were appointed over such companies as were "to go out if neede should require:" 1st. James Oliver, captain; Roger Clap, lieutenant; John Hull, ensign; and 2d, Sam'l Appleton, captain; Rich. Sprague, lieutenant; Benjamin Sweet, ensign. Sergt. John Barrell was commissary to the Foot Companies.

The New Haven and Connecticut contingent of forty men did not reach them until the 16th, when Ninigret had had ample time to retreat into his fastnesses, whence he could not be dislodged.

It seems by Major Willard's letter from "Paucatuck 19th of 8th Mo., 1654," that he was hampered by his lack of commission, as it was taken for granted that Ninigret would be found at his usual place; he lacked information as to the charges against the Sachem, the Connecticut men by Thomas Stanton being depended upon to furnish details, who was unable. The Major, however, acting with prudence and candor through friendly Pequods, succeeded in getting Ninigret to surrender all the Pequod subjects who would leave him, and to permit them to set up an independent tribal estate under the direction of the Commissioners.

Additional details of this affair, and the men engaged, will be given in the Appendix. Major Willard secured a fairly satisfactory covenant with Ninigret, and also an advantageous arrangement with the subject Pequods, and returned to Boston and disbanded his forces on October 24th, being upon the service sixteen days.

The Pequods were settled in separate communities, and rulers appointed of their own, under the Colonial authorities. Cushawashett, alias Harmon Garrett, was appointed over the villages at Paquatucke and Weguapeuge, and Robin, alias Casasinamon, at Nemeacke and Naweacke. Later these were settled, the first in Stonington, and the latter in what is now the town of Ledyard. In 1850 the Ledyard settlement still retained 989 acres of land, and twenty-eight persons of the greatly degenerated Pequod stock; in the Stonington, 240 acres and fifteen persons.

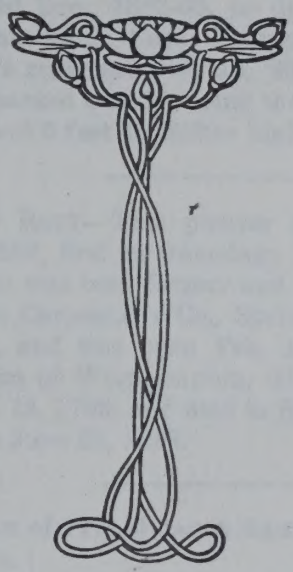
Revolutionary Soldiers

Resident or Dying in Onondaga County, N.Y.

With Supplementary List of Possible Veterans

Based on a Pension List of Franklin H. Chase, Syracuse, N. Y.



Prepared by REV. W. M. BEAUCHAMP, S. T. D., for the

Onondaga Historical Association

THE McDONNELL CO. MCMXIII SYRACUSE, N. Y.

EBENEZER KINGSLEY RUST—The family history describes this veteran, who was born in Southampton, Mass., Nov. 8, 1763. He was still there in 1790. There he married Lydia Lyman, who was born Jan. 6, 1765, and died in 1800. Then he married Mary Sheldon, Aug. 9, 1801. Having settled here, 1802-03, he died in Geddes, Aug. 2, 1819. He enlisted in Capt. Ebenezer Sheldon's Co., Col. Seth Murray's regiment, July 10, '80, from Hampshire Co., and was discharged Oct. 10, being then 17 years old, of light complexion, and 5 feet 11 inches high.

ZEBULON RUST—This pioneer came from Massachusetts about 1800, first to Onondaga Hill and then to Syracuse, where he was both farmer and inn-keeper. He served in Capt. John Carpenter's Co., Springfield, Mass., May 28-Aug. 28, '81, and was born Feb. 18, 1766. He married Aurelia Norton of Westhampton, who was born in Northampton, Nov. 18, 1769, and died in Syracuse, Feb. 10, 1844. He died there June 25, 1836.

A Veteran of 1776. | JACOB SAMMONS | Nov. 4, 1815, | Aged 64 Years. |

EVA VEEDER | His Wife | Died June 10, 1834, | Aged 73 Years. |

Myrtle Hill cemetery. Beside him lies his son Thomas, "a Veteran of 1812," and a grandson, now living in Syracuse, served in the war for the Union. The story of Jacob's captivity has been well told in Stone's Life of Brant. In 1790 the census placed him in Shawangunk, N. Y., where he was enrolled in the Revolution. Yet in 1786 he was a militia captain in Montgomery Co., then embracing Onondaga and other counties. In 1802 he came to Geddes, moved to Baldwinsville in 1803, and returned to Geddes in 1805.

AMOS STANTON, | Died Aug. 14, 1806. | Ae. 66 Y'rs. |

MARCY. | Wife of | Amos Stanton | Died Sept. 17, 1814,| Ae. 68 Y'rs. |

Oakwood cemetery. He served in Capt. Elisha Whittlesey's Co., 3rd Berkshire Regt., Mass., in '80, and went first to Mayfield, N. Y. from Lee, Mass., to Jamesville in

'91, and to Syracuse in 1805. Rufus, their thirteenth child, was born in Mayfield, in 1788, as is said, but the family was recorded in Westfield in 1790. There was another of the name who was killed. Mr. S. was first interred in Salina, then in Oakwood. He was a short, thick-set man, with light hair and blue eyes.

NATHAN STANTON — This early settler was born in Stonington, Ct., in 1749, and died in Syracuse in 1835. Anna Stanton was his wife. He served as ensign in the company of his brother, Capt. William Stanton, Conn. militia, in '76. In 1790 he was in New London, Ct.

ELIAS STEENBERGH | Died | July 28, 1836 | Ae. 79 Y'rs 11 mo. | & 1 day. |

Farewell dear friends, Dry up | your tears |
I must lie here till christ | appears. |

This veteran lies in the ruined Lodi cemetery on South Beech street. In the 12th Albany Co. regiment was a captain of this name, and also a younger man, who was his son and who married Catharine Hoffman. The father was born in Saratoga Co., and in 1790 the name was recorded in Half Moon, N. Y.

MANUEL TRUAIR | Died Sep. 24, 1841 | Ae. 84 Yrs. |
He was a Soldier | of the Revolution. |
Rev. John Truair | Died Apr. 25, 1845 | Ae. 64. Yrs. |

Oakwood cemetery. This pensioner was reported in Fabius in 1840, living with John Truair, whose name is on the same stone. He was the ancestor of the Truairs of Fabius, some of whom came to Syracuse. In 1790 he was in Granville, Washington Co., N. Y. His military record is not available.

as far away as Virginia. He had the grant of a monopoly of the trading with the Indians at Pawkatuck and along the river of that name. He built a trading house there and about 1651 moved to Pequot, and in 1658 occupied his permanent residence at Stonington. In 1650 the general court appointed him interpreter to the elders who required to preach the gospel to the Indians at least twice a year. Caulkins said of him: "From the year 1636, when he was Winthrop's interpreter with the Nahantic sachem, to 1670 when the Uncas visited him with a train of warriors and captains to get him to write his will, his name is connected with almost every Indian transaction on record." He received several grants of land. In 1651 he was deputy magistrate. In 1658 he moved to Wequetequock Cove, east of Stonington, where he was the third settler; it was then called Stonington, part of Suffolk county, and in 1658 he was appointed one of the managers. In 1664 he was commissioner to try small causes and in 1665 had authority to hold semi-annual court at New London. In 1666 he was again commissioner of county judges, overseer-general of the Coassatuck Indians, commissioner in Indian affairs, and commissioner until his death 1677. In 1666 he was in the general assembly, until 1674. He and his sons were active in King Philip's war. He was one of the founders of the Stonington church, June 3, 1674, and his name was first on the roll. He died December 2, 1677, and was buried in the family burial ground between Stonington and Westerly. He married Ann Lord, born 1621, in England, daughter of Dr. Thomas and Dorothy Lord. Her father was the first physician licensed to practice in Connecticut, by the general court, June 30, 1652, and the rates he could charge in Hartford, Wethersfield, Windsor, and other towns in that section were fixed on the license, a salary of fifteen pounds to be paid by the county. Ann Stanton spent her last days with her daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Noyes, of Stonington, and died there in 1688. The original home site of Thomas Stanton at Hartford is now occupied by the Jewell Leather Belting Company factory. Children: Thomas, born 1638; John, 1641; Mary, 1643; Hannah, 1644; Joseph, mentioned below; Daniel, 1648; Dorothy, 1651; Robert, 1653; Sarah, 1655; Samuel, 1657.

(II) Joseph Stanton, son of Thomas and Ann (Lord) Stanton, was born in Hartford, Connecticut, in 1646, baptized March 21, 1646, moved to Stonington with his parents, and settled on a large tract of land which his father had purchased from a Narragansett sachem for a half bushel of wampum. Joseph had helped to redeem the sachem's child from captivity, and the land was part payment for this. It was situated in what is now Charlestown, Rhode Island, formerly part of Westerly, and the lease was dated November 20, 1685. In 1669 Joseph Stanton was appointed assistant magistrate, from Stonington, to hold court at New London with his father, who was magistrate. In May, 1714, Ben Uncas and fifty-four other Mohegans signed a paper declaring that Owenico had sold the land unlawfully, in the western part, and they consigned what was left to Joseph Stanton and four others. This was probably this Joseph, though he died 1714. He married (first) June 19, 1673, Hannah, daughter of William Mead, of Roxbury, Massachusetts, and she died in 1676. William Mead, in a will dated 1683, left half his estate to his wife and half to Joseph Stanton. He married (second) August 23, 1677, Hannah Lord, of Hartford, and she was buried May 6, 1681. There is a record in the Stonington church of the admission of the wife of Joseph Stanton, March 16, 1683. She probably was his third wife, and she seems to have died childless. He, however, had children after 1690, so they must have been by this third wife, as Savage thinks, or by a fourth wife. Savage and Hon. John D. Baldwin think he married a Prentice, who may have been the third, or perhaps a fourth wife. Children, by first wife: Joseph, mentioned below; Hannah, born 1676. By second wife: Thomas, December 16, 1678, died young; Rebecca, April, 1681. By third (or fourth) wife: Thomas, baptized April 5, 1691; Daniel, mentioned below; Samuel, baptized July 17, 1698, died young.

(III) Joseph (2) Stanton, son of Joseph (1) and Hannah (Mead) Stanton, was born in 1674, and lived in Westerly, Rhode Island, where he was a justice. An interesting letter written by him as justice has been preserved by the family. He married, January 3, 1705, Esther, daughter of Benadam and Hester (Prentice) Gallup. Children, born at Westerly: Esther, 1708; Mary, 1711; Hannah, 1714; Nancy, 1716; Joseph, mentioned below; Sarah, 1719; Lucy, September 22, 1722.

(IV) Colonel Joseph (3) Stanton, son of Joseph (2) and Esther (Gallup) Stanton, was born at Westerly, April 23, 1717. He served in the French and Indian war, and was present at the capture of Louisburg in 1745. He married (first) August 9, 1738, Mary, daughter of William Champlin. She was born July 13, 1722, died in 1750. She was admitted to the Stonington church, July 11, 1742. He married, in 1752, a second wife, daughter of Henry Gardiner, of South Kingston, Rhode Island.

Children by first wife, born in Westerly: Joseph, July 19, 1739; Esther, mentioned below; Mary, June 18, 1743; Augustus, March 22, 1745; Hannah, February 24, 1746; Lodowick, May 27, 1749. By second wife: Gardiner, died single; Marlborough, died single; Henry; Abigail.

(V) Esther Stanton, eldest daughter of Colonel Joseph (3) and Mary (Champlin) Stanton, was born November 23, 1741, in Westerly, and became the wife of Ichabod (2) Babcock of that town (see Babcock V).

(III) Captain Daniel Stanton, fourth son of Joseph (1) Stanton, was baptized April 1, 1694, in Westerly, where he lived. He married (first) Mercy, daughter of Job and Jane (Crandall) Babcock, of Westerly. He married (second) Elizabeth, daughter of George and Charity Bacon. Children: Daniel; John, born February, 1722; Joseph; George; Mary; Elizabeth; Samuel.

(IV) Samuel Stanton, son of Captain Daniel Stanton, was born about 1730-35, and resided in Charlestown, Rhode Island, on a farm originally settled by his great-grandfather, Thomas Stanton. He was baptized with his wife and daughter Elizabeth at the Presbyterian church in Charlestown, January 6, 1760. He married (first) Sarah, daughter of John and Ann (Hazard) Browning, of Kingstown, Rhode Island, and (second) October 1, 1788, Annie, daughter of Peleg Ross, of Charlestown. Children: Sarah, married Deacon William Browning; Elizabeth, died unmarried; Eunice, baptized February 19, 1764; Samuel, mentioned below.

(V) Samuel (2) Stanton, son of Samuel (1) and Sarah (Browning) Stanton, was born April 10, 1771, in Charlestown, and died January 23, 1851, in Stonington, Connecticut. For more than forty years he was town clerk of Charlestown. He married in South Kingstown, April 11, 1799, Elizabeth Reynolds, born July 19, 1775, in North Kingstown, daughter of Benjamin and Elizabeth Reynolds. Children: Samuel, born October 27, 1803; Sarah Ann, November 23, 1805; Elizabeth, October 23, 1808; John, July 21, 1810; Mary, mentioned below.

(VI) Mary Stanton, youngest child of Samuel (2) and Elizabeth (Reynolds) Stanton, was born November 6, 1814, in Charlestown, and became the wife of James Nichols Kenyon of that town (see Kenyon V).

(The Burrows Line).

(I) Robert Burrows seems to have been one of the first who removed from the neighborhood of Boston and settled at Wethersfield, Connecticut. With a few others, he made a permanent settlement at Pequot, now New London, Connecticut, about 1643. After the organization of the town, he received a grant of land, June 2, 1650, and on April 3, of the following year he received a grant on the west bank of the Mystic river, in that part of New London now the town of Groton, where his descendants lived for many generations. He had a houselot in New London and other lands, and his taxable property under the jurisdiction of New London was the third in value in 1664. He died in 1682. He married, at Wethersfield, before 1642, Mary, widow of Samuel Ireland, a man of property. By her first husband she had two daughters, Mary and Martha. Two sons of Robert Burrows are on record, Samuel and John. No particulars concerning the former have been discovered.

(II) John Burrows, second son of Robert and Mary Burrows, born in 1642, lived in Groton, where he died February 12, 1716. He married, December 14, 1670, Hannah, daughter of Edward and Ann Culver. Children: John, born 1671; Mary, Margaret, Samuel, Robert, Jeremiah and Isaac.

(III) John (2) Burrows, eldest son of John (1) and Hannah (Culver) Burrows, was born 1671, in Groton, which was still a part of New London in 1704, and died there in 1752. He married, October 14, 1700, Lydia, daughter of Hugh and Jane (Latham) Hubbard. Children: John, mentioned below; Lydia, born April 19, 1703; Mary, November 4, 1704; Hubbard, February 10, 1707; Hannah, January 23, 1709; Silas, October 4, 1710; Abigail, July 19, 1712; Amos, August 6, 1714.

(IV) John (3) Burrows, eldest child of John (2) and Lydia (Hubbard) Burrows, was born November 14, 1701, in Groton, where he was a farmer and ship carpenter. He married, July 7, 1731, Desire Packer, born September 11, 1712, daughter of Captain James and Abigail (Avery) Packer. Children: Mary, born June 17, 1732; John, October 9, 1734; Joseph, August 28, 1736; Desire, March 11, 1738; James, April 11, 1740; Abigail, March 7, 1742; Lydia, January 20, 1744; Nathan, mentioned below; Lycretia, March 20, 1748; Phebe, March 29, 1750; Waity, September 12, 1752; Daniel; Thomas, died young.

(V) Nathan Burrows, fourth son of John (3) and Desire (Packer) Burrows, was born May 17, 1746, in Groton, and died in the town of Greene, Chenango county, New York, August 18, 1808. He resided in Warwick, Rhode Island, and Groton, Connecticut, and removed to New York in old age. During the revolution he transported supplies by teams from Groton to Boston. He married (first) June 2, 1765, Amy Williams, and (second) in

Dear Vivian,

It was nice to hear from you again.

I was unable to prove that Joseph was the son of Nathan Stanton. Joseph is buried with Nathan and wife. See enclosed copy taken from Vol 1,"Cemeteries of Montg. Co.,N.Y.".Nathan sold land in Mont.Co. but did not name his dec'd son JOseph:

County Clerk,Fonda,Montgomery Co.,N.Y.

Nathan Stanton (grantor)
Daniel Cady (grantee)
37:490
recorded 17 June 1835

....I Nathan Stanton of Town of Florida (Mont.Co.), now of Town of Salina,Onondaga Co....in consideration of $2.00...(sells) land in Town of Florida...distinguished as the Stanton Islands.He mentions his son-in-law,Asa Cady,dec'd dau. Ann;son Nathan,Jr., and the family burying ground on lot #79 (4 sq. rods of land.

(This is his last grantor deed)

Joseph Stanton (Grantee)
Bela Fosgate and wife
16:95
18 Dec. 1817

Indenture 5 Sept. 1817 between Bela Fosgate,and

Margarette Fosgate his wife of Herkimer in Herkimer Co,N.Y. and Joseph Stanton of Town of Florida,Mont.Co....in consideration of $153.75... (land in his actual possession)...land in Town of Florida on S. side of the Mohawk River...to the line of a lot owned by Nathan Stanton.

(Apparently the deed for the sale of this property was not recorded and it is not in the index).

Letters of Administration were granted to Jane Stanton when Joseph died (per Surrogates office,Mont.Co.) There is no probate file for him unfortunately. If Nathan died in Mont.Co. he left no Will and Letters of Adm. were not granted. Per the "D.A.R. Lineage Books",he died in Syracuse. Several persons joined D.A.R. through Nathan's line and all but one said that he d. in Syracuse.One member claimed that he died in Town of Florida. Have you had Wills in Onondaga Co. checked for him? Per the deed he was there in 1835,and he died that year. I have a friend who is a researcher and will abstract the will (if any) of Nathan if you wish.

I checked all church records available to me covering Dutchess Ulster,Greene,Albany,Schenectady, Rensselaer,Montgomery,Fulton and Herkimer Co. N.Y. for birth/bapt. rec. of Sophia Stanton.Joseph and Jane had children bapt. at the Protestant Dutch Reformed Church, Town of Florida,Village of Minaville,Mont.Co. but no entries after 1814,that of Caty Ann.The next entry is that of Enders Stanton,son of Ashbury and Sophia 1842. Did a family record state that Sophia was born in Dutchess Co.? Do you think there is a chance that Joseph went westward in NY state to Onondaga Co. and had Sophia there?

3rd child/Joseph+Jane

A Caty Ann Stanton of Duanesburg married 1830 to George Sanford of Amsterdam.I found this in the Christ Episco. Church of Duanesburg,Schen. Co. I don't know if she is the Caty Ann above or not.If you are positive that Sophia was born in Dutchess Co., I will send you some contacts.

I did not find the birth/bapt. rec. of Sarah Mosher in Bethlehem,Albany Co. nor in the records of the churches of Albany,Rensselaer,Greene,Columbia,Dutchess,Schenectady Co. Jonathan Pearson who compiled books on the early settlers of Albany and Schenectady Co. has nothing pertinent to your line in his volumes.

I did not find mention in any of these counties of Stephen ,i.e. his marriage,bapt. of any of his children*,his birth. * exception-I found bapt. of a dau. Annatjen bpt. 27 Aug. 1769 at the Reformed Church,Rhinebeck,Dutchess Co. She was shown as dua. of Stephen Moscher and Catherine Rauh.This was the only entry.

Robert E. Lord,currently of Johnstown,Fulton Co., typed the Winnegar-Finger material.Copies enc. as they relate to Hannah Winneger and William Rowe. Not of much help to you.Mr. Lord mentions that he has only covered the first three generations of the Winnegar family. "Some Descendents of Hugh Roe An Immigrant To The Mass. Bay Colony From England ca 1642",is indexed.Nothing pertinent.

I'm sorry but we do not have the original bible entries you asked for. Our typed copy was given to us by Mrs. Anna Blood Johnson (no dates). I am sure she is long deceased and have no idea who has possession of the bible now. Have you checked to see if the National D.A.R. has a copy? Perhaps the Amsterdam Chapter has a copy. I don't have an address but there is someone I know who is a member that may be able to help you:

Mrs. Dorothea Cooper
51 Lincoln Ave.
Amsterdam,N.Y.12010

There was a STANTON bible in possession of Mrs. John L. Voorhees,107 Division St.,Amsterdam (1931) which includes descendants of Nathan Stanton showing Joseph as his son. Do you have this? I did not know if you were sent this in 1978 or if the Archives has sent it to you.Again,it is a typed copy.Were you sent copies of the Stanton data in family file 31-C? I checked the Hill and Van Derveer family files for clues but found none.

I recently learned the the Barbour collection is not complete.I had been making enquires because I believe that the Vosburgh family of Salisbury Conn., are mine. I have been told that there are more complete records-but where? State Library at Hartford??

I don't know if the D.A.R. rec. at Albany State Library would be helpful,re Mosher/Stanton but they are all indexed and I will check them for you when I am in Albany again.I'm sorry that I could not be more helpful to you at this time.I re-checked Schenectady Dutch Reformed rec. for birth/bapt. of Nicholas Hill.Nothing in the index for a 1766
